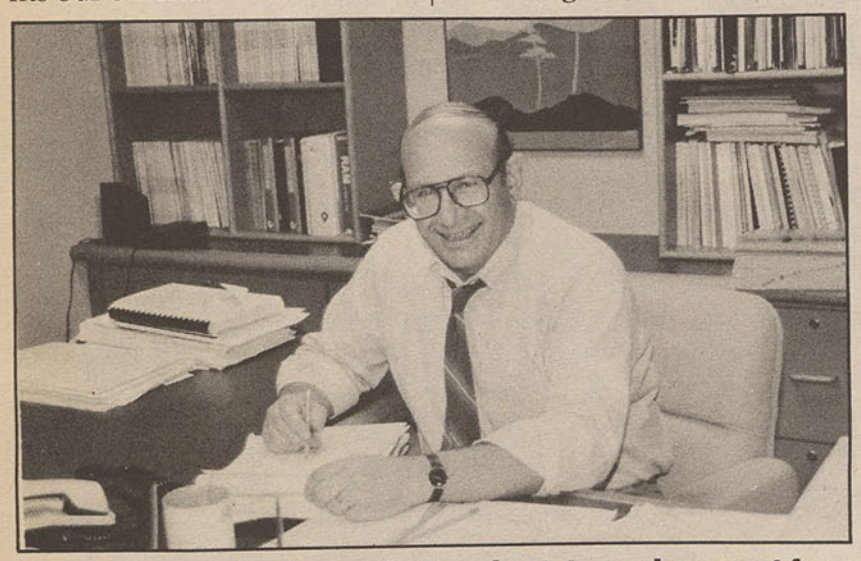
Ann Arbor attracts quality developments.

Henry Sandweiss has been in the real estate business for over 25 years, and we recently asked him some questions about his company and why the firm has been concentrating so heavily on the Ann Arbor area for the past few years.

"The people at my company (KWS Realty Services, Inc., of Southfield, Michigan) have long recognized the factors that make the Ann Arbor community so healthy. If I had to pick one word to describe Ann Arbor, it would be "stability," and that's the first thing we look for to be successful. We know that volatility must be avoided and Ann Arbor fits our criteria."



"Ann Arbor is . . . the perfect real estate environment for our investors." — Henry Sandweiss, President, KWS Realty Services

"The world-class University (of which I'm proud to say I'm a graduate), the Medical Center, the emerging high tech/robotic industry all have created the perfect real estate environment for our investors."

Sandweiss went on to explain that KWS Realty Services either purchases an existing income-producing property or acquires vacant land parcels in order to build on them in the near term. Referring to the syndication process, Sandweiss said, "We manufacture real estate investments for private investors." His eyes sparkled as he talked about the growing firm, whose staff includes experts in managing properties in order to attain their optimum value. Additional staff has been hired to manage the various partnerships. "A key to our success, and what separates KWS from the other real estate companies, is the creative and personal touch that we bring to bear."

The first property that the company acquired in Ann Arbor was the building at 2350 Washtenaw, formerly known as the Washtenaw Professional Building. This building now houses as its major tenants a fine day care center, Pat's House Two, and two of the areas leading realtors, the Michigan Group and a Coldwell Banker unit.

It was learned that one of the Partnerships that the firm sponsored has purchased the building at 611 Church, otherwise known as the Campus Arcade Building. Home to U of M's Computer Services departments and the venerable "Ricks," this building is presently undergoing substantial renovation.

During this interview Mr. Sandweiss proudly claimed that KWS had just acquired the contractual right to purchase the Michigan Theatre Building on E. Liberty. They hope to restore this historical structure to its original beauty and luster.

The recently completed Colonnade Shopping Center, on West Eisenhower Parkway at Ann Arbor/Saline Road.

The topic switched to building. "Our research indicated that an unmet retail demand existed in the Ann Arbor trade area. We located a triangular shaped parcel in an ideal location for a center and along with our architects, devised an innovative and an obvious, perfect solution, the just completed crescent-shaped Colonnade Center, on Eisenhower Parkway at the Ann Arbor/Saline Road freeway access point."

Mr. Sandweiss showed me a picture of a model depicting their latest syndication and development, the State Street Center on South State Street just south of Englanders. "It seems we specialize in difficult sites", Sandweiss said referring to the steep slope of the parcel. Construction is to start on this 25,000 square foot retail/office development this summer. "The slope is incorporated into the design in such a manner that we believe it will greatly enhance the appeal of the development."

Getting back to how KWS syndications work, Sandweiss stated that the typical investment program involves approximately 40 investors who each invest an average of $37,500. He further pointed out that the firm typically focuses on the smaller scale properties. "We're not highly leveraged. We operate close to home (Southfield) where we understand our market and can look after our investments.

When asked if KWS Realty Services is looking for more properties in the area, Mr. Sandweiss smiled. "The Ann Arbor area has been great for our investors and our tenants, and we're trying to reciprocate. In other words, "Yes."

If you're looking for retail or office space or are an investor seeking solid investment opportunities or, you're simply interested in finding out more about KWS Realty Services, Inc., call (313) 357-3600. ■

Six Views of the City

Grad student Barclay Butler

PETER YATES

After a stint in Texas, U-M grad student Barclay Butler, his wife, Macey, and their four sons returned to Ann Arbor in December 1988. Butler, who lived here while earning a master's in engineering in the early 1980's, raves about Ann Arbor's city services, especially its parks.

He cites Rose and White Park, a small triangular piece of land on Stadium at White Street that holds a swing set and a fence to prevent children from running into the street. "What a lovely use of land," he says. "San Antonio has such a huge growth rate that developers have left out parks." Butler likens the parks that do exist to town squares. "They're not the quiet, outdoorsy experience you might think of. In San Antonio, parks are packed, with people looking for a tree to stand under."

Butler, a thirty-three-year-old redhead, is an Army captain working toward a Ph.D. in bioengineering. While he says he's "right-leaning," he enjoys the city's political diversity and believes Ann Arbor offers more for children and families than any other place he's ever lived.

Son Tom, two, contentedly piles plastic blocks by the sofa. At one point, a dismayed Sam, five, wanders in to ask his father to please retrieve his car: he's dropped it out the only window without a screen. Dad asks him to wait.

"We feel very strongly that the family structure is the fundamental building block of communities, and communities build society," says Butler. "The Ann Arbor city government is doing a lot for the family, and the community should applaud that."

After five years in the South, Butler says he expected Ann Arbor's winter "to last forever." But he says he looks forward to the cool morning air on his face. He also thinks Ann Arbor has a great bus system "for such a small town," and he likes the diversity of radio stations. "Other places are like a radio wasteland compared to here," he observes.

Housing costs have been an unpleasant surprise, however. The Butlers pay $1,000 a month for their townhouse. For comparable housing, they paid $450 per month in Alabama and $580 per month in San Antonio.

"The high cost of housing hurts families," says Butler. "This is the highest tax base we've been in. Oh, it buys a lot of things—our parks, bike paths, and school system. You're getting a lot, no question. But when you take such a big chunk out of disposable family income, it doesn't matter what a city has to offer. If it costs a dime, it's more than you can spend."

Lawyer Diana Raimi

PETER YATES

In 1977, Diana Raimi and her husband, John, set out from California in a rusty green pickup. Their dream was to find a place where they could live in the country, yet have a short commute to work in a culturally rich city.

"We'd come to somewhere beautiful in Nowhere, Montana, climb into the back of the truck, put on nice clothes, get out the resumes, and go talk to people," says Raimi, thirty-five.

After three months on the road, they chose Ann Arbor. The couple and their two children now live in Scio Township—a ten-minute drive from her job as a lawyer in a downtown firm and from cultural events as varied as violinist Zubin Mehta and the iconoclastic song-and-dance tour of Iso and the Bobs.

Raimi appreciates the chance to hear them, but wishes they weren't just passing through. She and her parents lived in Haight-Ashbury during the late 1960's, and one thing she misses in Ann Arbor is the sense she had there of living among people who are on the cutting edge.

"There are a lot of very smart and competent people in this town," says Raimi. "Many are concerned with practicality. How are they going to buy a home? How are they going to get day care for their kids?"

But Raimi admits to falling into the same trap. "I'm a lot more concerned now about having a good babysitter," she says. She became a member of Scio Citizens for Appropriate Development because she so dislikes the recent growth around Ann Arbor.

In the process, Raimi rediscovered grassroots organizing, no surprise for one who marched on her high school administration twenty years ago demanding soul food in the cafeteria and Swahili in the classroom. "We all care about what's going on," she says, gently rocking seven-month-old Danny to sleep. "We decided to do something about the growth and run people for office."

In 1988, Scio Township voters responded by electing a slate calling for slower growth. "They're in control and they will make the decisions—just like it says in the schoolbooks," Raimi muses. "I've never seen democracy in action quite that much."

Senior citizen Kathryn Kipfmiller

Kathryn Kipfmiller has lived in the same block of Fifth Street all of her eighty-four years. Her father and grandfather built six of the houses on the block, and her grandmother was born in the basement of Bach School across the street.

"Allen Crik used to flow through here," she says, pointing out the window. "I used to play in it and got spanked plenty of times for getting wet and messed up after I was supposed to be clean."

Kipfmiller's thoughts reflect less on Ann Arbor's pluses and minuses than on growing older and feeling comfortable in a familiar home and community. One bookcase holds seventeen photos of grandchildren. An afghan is folded neatly on a sofa. And of the myriad plants in her living room, each one given to her bears the name of the giver.

"That's a Nelly plant," she says of one hoya hanging in the window.

Though Kipfmiller doesn't get out as much as she used to, she fox-trots and two-steps at the Tri-County Sportsman's Club in Saline once a week. "I hate like the dickens to be sitting around all the time," she says.

Kipfmiller is hard-pressed to talk about what she doesn't like about the city, but she does offer one observation. "Ann Arbor isn't as safe a town as it used to be. We never used to lock our doors years ago. Now, you wouldn't think of not locking them."

"Ann Arbor's been my home," she says from the porch. "I've lived here, in this house, for fifty-two years. I could never think of going anywhere else."

PETER YATES

Co-oper Sue Mumm

PETER YATES

Sue Mumm, a thirty-five-year-old Detroit native, doesn't own a car, sews cotton reusable gift bags instead of using wrapping paper, and makes almost all of her meals from scratch. She admits that this voluntary simplicity can be a lot of hard work, but it's part of what she cherishes most about Ann Arbor.

"People here try to look at consumption levels in their lives," observes the wiry People's Food Co-op employee. "They willingly don't own cars or buy a lot of expensive things like electric can openers or fancy clothes. They try to limit what they consume so there is more for the rest of the planet."

Except when it comes to transportation. For Mumm, Ann Arbor is gorging itself on cars and starving for mass transportation. "When I ride my bike home at five o'clock, my hair smells like smog," complains Mumm, who wears her long brown hair in a ponytail. When she moved here in 1981, there was much less pollution, she says.

"How many cars have just one person in them? Where are they going that they couldn't be going in a bus?"

Mumm would like to see bus service extended to 1 a.m. for those who work late and those who need the bus to return home after cultural events. She also deplores Ann Arbor's lack of affordable housing and suggests moderate-priced condominiums with shared bathrooms and kitchens to keep costs down.

But Mumm, who recently wrote and published a book on alternative holidays and rituals, lauds what she calls Ann Arbor's global consciousness. She rattles off a long list that includes an active peace community and the Sister City project that sent a sorely needed garbage truck to Juigalpa, Nicaragua.

"People don't just sit in front of the television passing through life. In Ann Arbor, people are vibrantly alive, out to figure out what the world's problems are and jump in there and help work on them."

PETER YATES

Hardware man John Siller

John Siller, the burly, silvery-haired co-owner of Stadium Hardware, keeps a 12-foot Stanley tape measure in his right pants pocket "because you never know when you might need it."

Siller, fifty-six, grew up in the Upper Peninsula mining town of Houghton. At age fifteen, he jumped at the chance to fight a fire at Isle Royale and spent nine days in the same clothes. He was twenty when he came to Ann Arbor in 1953. In the twelve years he's owned Stadium Hardware, he says he's seen traffic on Stadium double, maybe triple. "The traffic situation is probably ulcer-causing," he admits.

But Siller's not going anywhere. He likes Ann Arbor. "It's a nice town. I've always loved it here. It's clean, it's beautiful, and it's relatively easy to make a living here as opposed to Flint or some other town that's auto-related. From an economic standpoint, it's the best."

Judging from his experience in hardware, Siller observes, Ann Arborites "have a unique way of doing things as opposed to having it done for them. I go to hardware conventions and listen to other guys talk about the mentality of their customers and how long it takes to explain things. Not mine. They're sharp."

He pauses. "Maybe I get all the good ones. Maybe the not-so-smart ones go someplace else." Siller lets loose with a long laugh. "I like to think we've got a real high-class act in this town."

Street character Jake Woods

Jake Woods, also known as Shaky Jake, leans against the Peaceable Kingdom storefront and considers what he likes and dislikes about Ann Arbor.

He pauses, thoughtfully resting his thumb and index finger on his chin. "This takes some thinking," says Ann Arbor's best-known denizen, a resident since 1957. "This is a sit-down job."

PETER YATES

"There's nothing I dislike in Ann Arbor," says Jake, finally seated, slowly sipping red fruit punch. "Ann Arbor's a neat town. The atmosphere is different from anyplace I've ever been. The air is different here. It's more peaceful. This is a place where you can relax and enjoy yourself."

Jake is in awe of a reggae band he recently saw perform in West Park. He likes the free concerts, the river, the parks, the entertainment—even the traffic.

"I love the traffic. It's beautiful," says Jake. "There's a certain atmosphere of the traffic, the way the cars run, how fast they go. Motivation."

He stops. "I really don't believe in moving slow. I never believed in slow, because you don't gain anything, you don't get nowhere. If you got somewhere to go, you move."

Who to Call

If you have a request for or a question about a particular city service, call the appropriate department. (The basic functions of each city department are outlined below. For a brief index of services and phone numbers, see below.) If you are uncertain about who to contact, have a complaint about an existing service, or feel you've been mistreated by a city employee or department, call the Citizen Advocate, Lani Higgins (994–1766). If you want to see changes made in any city law, rule, or procedure, call one of your council representatives (see p. 22). For general information, call 994–2700.

Council and Administration

CITY COUNCIL. Democrat Council Office: 994–2702. Republican Council Office: 994–8320. Each of Ann Arbor's five wards for city elections is further divided into several precincts. The number of registered voters in a precinct may not exceed 1,400. By law, ward boundaries are redrawn after each national census (every ten years) to reflect population shifts. Between these redistrictings, existing precincts are occasionally subdivided for administrative reasons. Ann Arbor ward and precinct maps may be purchased from the League of Women Voters (665–5808) and from the city clerk. They are also available in publications at the Ann Arbor Public Library.

Each ward elects two council members for two-year terms. In the annual election in April, one of the council seats from each ward is available in a partisan contest. For a ward map and a list of current council members, see p. 22. City council adopts an annual budget and determines city laws and policies. In theory, this is a part-time job; council members receive just $7,000 per year for their work.

Regular city council meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. on the first and third Mondays of every month, in the council chambers on the second floor of City Hall. Additional special sessions usually take place on the second and fourth Mondays of the month. Meetings are broadcast live on cable television's Channel 10, and rebroadcast a couple of times each week. Both political caucuses usually meet the night before scheduled council meetings. The Republicans meet in the council workroom (second floor of City Hall), and the Democrats meet in the second-floor conference room above the main fire station. Caucus meetings are open to the public and often afford a better forum than council meetings for citizens to talk directly with council members.

The public is welcome to speak at council meetings, but only six five-minute slots are available at the beginning of each meeting. You can sign up for one of these slots by calling the city clerk (994–2725) after 8 a.m. on the Friday morning before the next scheduled meeting. Speakers must announce the subject of their address when they sign up. Members of the public can also address council, without having to sign up in advance, at the end of council meetings, usually around midnight. Public hearings, at which anyone can speak without advance notice for up to five minutes, are held on many proposed council actions.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, third floor, City Hall. 994–2766. The mayor, elected in a partisan election every two years, presides over and is a voting member of city council. Republican Jerry Jernigan was reelected to a second term in April 1989. He appoints council committees, has the power to veto most council actions, has certain police powers in the case of an emergency, and acts as ceremonial head of the city. This is a part-time position, paying $13,750 a year.

To become a member of any city board, committee, or commission, request an application from this office. The application form includes a listing of all citizen groups that have openings.

In addition to other official duties, the mayor is available to preside at weddings Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays after 5 p.m. The city treasurer collects a fee for this service; a marriage license (obtainable at the county clerk's office at Main and Huron) and two witnesses are required.

ADMINISTRATOR, third floor, City Hall. 994–2653. Ann Arbor's administrator, Del Borgsdorf, is responsible for seeing that the city bureaucracy carries out the policies established by council. He prepares an annual budget for adoption by council, and most city department heads answer to him, either directly or through another department head.

The administrator's office is responsible for the distribution of various permits, including noise permits for residential areas (not necessary if the noise is under 61 decibels or between 7 a.m. and 10 p.m.), horse and carriage permits, and special event permits (street closings for festivals, for example).

ASSESSOR, fifth floor, City Hall. 994–2663. This office keeps tax and ownership histories for Ann Arbor houses, which the public can consult in person or over the phone. Home assessment. Property taxes are based on an "assessed value," which under state law is supposed to equal one-half of the current market value. The city assessor annually reviews the assessed value of all residential and commercial properties in the city.

If an assessment is contested, or if a home owner cannot afford to pay the full tax, the case can be appealed to the council-appointed Board of Review, which meets once a year, for at least four days, starting on the third Monday in March. Appellants can address the board in person or mail their claims to the assessor's office. The board reduces about one-third of the tax assessments it considers. It also has the power to increase the amount of an assessment under appeal, and does so occasionally. State tax relief. Senior citizens and low-income families are eligible for a Homestead Tax credit when they file their state income tax returns. The assessor's office can assist in the process.

CITY ATTORNEY, third floor, City Hall. 994–2670. The attorney provides legal advice to city council and city department heads and employees, represents them in suits, and prosecutes violations of city ordinances. If you have a question about the legality of something you want to do—or about something your neighbor is doing—as it pertains to the city code, call the city attorney. (If you want to lodge a complaint against someone for what you think is a violation of city ordinances, call the police.)

CITY CLERK, second floor, City Hall. 994–2725. Licenses. The city clerk issues licenses for bicycles ($2.50), dogs ($10 for 2 years), peddlers ($10 per year), Ann Arbor handicapped parking (no charge), and going-out-of-business sales ($110). Applicants must submit serial numbers for bikes, license plate numbers for handicapped parking, rabies certificates for dogs, and passport-type photos for peddlers. (No license is required for street performers.)

Record keeping. This office also maintains records of city council acts, including the council members' voting records, which can be inspected by the public. Copies can be made for 20 cents a page. People who wish to speak at a city council meeting can reserve a time slot by calling the city clerk.

Voter registration. Ann Arbor residents can register to vote at the city clerk's office, at any office of the Michigan Secretary of State, or at any branch of the Ann Arbor Public Library. If you are disabled or for any other reason unable to get to one of these locations, the city clerk will arrange to send a deputy registrar to your residence. You must be registered at your current address at least thirty days before an election in order to vote.

CABLE COMMUNICATIONS, City Center Bldg., 220 E. Huron. 994–2893. As a public information facility, this office and Community Access TV were recently placed under the jurisdiction of the city clerk. It regulates Columbia Cable, the private company that provides cable TV service to the Ann Arbor area. It primarily deals with complaints and consumer issues. Cable Commission meetings take place the third Tuesday of every month in the fire station's second-floor conference room.

COMMUNITY ACCESS TELEVISION, 107 N. Fifth Ave. 769–7422. Ann Arbor residents and local groups can present their programming to Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, and the surrounding townships at no charge. Channel 8 is for educational institutions, Channel 9 is for the public, and Channel 10 is for local government. The public is welcome to use the department's facilities for which free training is available to both Ann Arbor residents and nonresidents. More extensive studio and camcorder training programs, restricted to Ann Arbor residents, are also available. Call the department for details on the training programs and use of the facilities. Reservations are needed for the training programs.

CONTROLLER'S OFFICE, fifth floor, City Hall. 994–2730. The controller's office handles the city's money and provides citizens with information on bond issues and the city's general financial histories.

Court System

U.S. DISTRICT COURT. The district court hears all civil and criminal cases under federal law, and civil cases between citizens of different states in which the suit is more than $50,000. Most of the appointed federal district judges for southeastern Michigan serve in Detroit, but two hold court in Ann Arbor's Federal Building: George Laplatta and Charles Joiner.

CIRCUIT COURT. 994–2550. The five-judge Circuit Court is the county's highest court. As the state's only trial court of general jurisdiction it has a broad range of authority on criminal, civil, and domestic relations cases. It handles major civil and criminal cases that come under state law. All criminal cases filed in Washtenaw County are initiated in the district courts. All felony cases, unless reduced to misdemeanors or dismissed, are bound over to Circuit Court.

PROBATE COURT. The probate courts operate on the county level and, in general, hear cases for those who cannot care for themselves—the mentally ill, the estates of those who have died, orphaned and dependent children, and juvenile delinquents. The Estate and Mental Health Division of the Probate Court (994–2474) has jurisdiction over the settlement of the estates of those who have died, the determinance of inheritance tax, appointment of guardians of minors and legally incapacitated persons, and the involuntary hospitalization of mentally ill persons. The Juvenile Division of the Probate Court (971–2440) hears cases with children under the age of 17. The court investigates cases to determine the measures necessary to protect and treat children in their own homes, in group homes, foster homes, or restraint facilities. It also authorizes adoptions (971–2639) and hears juvenile traffic cases. The operation of the Juvenile Detention Home and detention alternatives are under the authority of the Board of Commissioners.

DISTRICT COURTS, sixth floor, City Hall. 994–2740. The district courts include the Civil Division (994–2749), Criminal Division (994–2747), Probation Department (994–2751), and Traffic Violations (994–2745). Call 994–8427 for questions about jury duty.

The civil court has three sections: small-claims court, landlord-tenant conflicts, and general civil claims. Small-claims court is restricted to claims under $1,500, with a limit of $400 for car accident claims. Suits can be handled without a lawyer by filling out a claim form, reading the provided pamphlet, paying a fee ($12 for claims under $600 and $22 for larger claims), and appearing at the scheduled court date. A wait of about one month for a court date is common. Landlord-tenant disputes over evictions can sometimes be tried without lawyers, depending on the details of the case. A $22 to $54 fee and a wait of about one to two weeks can be expected.

Treasurer's Office

The Treasurer's Office is located on the first floor of City Hall (994–2833). City and county tax bills can be paid here, though the city encourages mail-in payments. There is a drive-up window on the north side of City Hall for payment of taxes, utility bills, and parking tickets during business hours. A drop-off box is located on the first floor of City Hall for after-hours payment. Bills for summer property taxes not paid by the July 31 deadline increase by 1 percent if paid during August. The penalty climbs to 5 percent if paid in September. Winter bills are due December 31: they go up 1 percent after January 31 and 2 percent after February 28. The city treasurer is available to discuss any outstanding invoices, taxes, or bills. The county assumes responsibility for collecting property taxes on real estate that are not paid by March 1.

Parking tickets can also be paid in this office. Tickets for expired meters cost $2 instead of $3 when paid within one hour of issuance. (Tickets received after 4 p.m. and paid by 10 a.m. the following day are also $2.) Tickets can be appealed to the parking violations referee, in person or by mail, by claiming unusual circumstances and providing an explanation. The referee will investigate the claim, often by going to the site of the ticketing. About one-quarter of all the appeals are dismissed. Devoted challengers can appeal decisions in district court.

Water and sewer bills are also payable at this office. There is a 10 percent discount if bills are paid by the due date. Persons sharing one water bill (i.e., students or tenants) are encouraged to write one check for the total amount.

approved by city council. Do not call this office to report potholes (call 99-HOLES) or streets and sidewalks needing repair (call the Transportation Department, 994-2818).

FIRE DEPARTMENT, 111 N. Fifth Ave. 994-2774 (emergencies, dial 911). The Fire Department operates within the freeway belt that surrounds Ann Arbor. It takes care of fires and any related services, including medical services, first aid assistance, and help for disabled people. When staffing is available, the department will also respond to a lockout, a bat in the attic, and other similar emergencies. Fire prevention programs. In September, October, and November, fire prevention programs are conducted for children in grades three through six, in cooperation with the public schools. Fire station tours are often available. Fire inspections. The department also conducts routine commercial fire inspections and inspections in new buildings, ensures that fire lanes are maintained during special events (like the notoriously crowded art fairs), and investigates all fires of a suspicious nature.

PARKS AND RECREATION DEPARTMENT, fifth floor, City Hall. 994-2780. This department runs the city parks, recreational areas, golf courses, ice rinks, the skateboard ramp at Veterans Park, several community centers, and assorted other facilities. Brochures published in early spring and early fall are available at recreation facilities, libraries, and sporting goods stores. For detailed descriptions of city parks and recreational facilities and programs, see Recreation, p.85.

Individuals and groups can reserve park shelters for $15 plus a $25 refundable deposit by filling out the appropriate form. Occasionally, Mack Pool is also available. To reserve a softball diamond or for questions about recreation programs sponsored by the public school system, call the Recreation Department at 994-2326 (see below).

Scholarships, available to people with low incomes, provide free passes to ice skating rinks, swimming pools, and day camps. Applications are available at all recreation facilities.

Forestry Division, 415 W. Washington. 994-2769. The forestry division plants trees on lawn extensions and cares for them at no charge. Home owners who want larger trees than those normally supplied can choose a tree and have it added to an extension, but they must pay the cost of moving the tree. Trees are planted in the fall and the spring, usually within one year of the request, so don't expect instant service. The forestry service also inspects public and private trees for disease, cares for the public ones, and provides advice for the owners of private ones, at a $10 charge for private inspection. Advice on shrubbery is also available. Tree clinics are held once a month in May, June, and July in city parks. Foresters examine leaves, bark, or twigs brought to the clinics, and provide information and advice.

POLICE DEPARTMENT, first floor, City Hall. 994–2875 (emergency, dial 911). The Police Department functions twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week. In addition to law enforcement, it serves as a catch-all for services that the city's other departments do not provide. Lost and found is on the first floor of City Hall (994–2874). The department holds a police auction whenever the volume of found or confiscated goods becomes large. To find out how to take part in the Neighborhood Watch Crime Prevention program, call 994–2837. The Office of Disaster Preparedness (twenty-four-hour line, 761–2425) supplements police in the event of a disaster and notifies the public. For animal control, call 911.

Safety Town, which takes place at Abbot School, is a program for four- and five-year-old children offered every year in late June and early July. Safety Town minimizes children's anxiety about their first contact with school in a program presented by police officers, fire fighters, and teachers.

CITY OF ANN ARBOR TREASURER'S OFFICE

Information for: Ann Arbor residents
From: Richard J. Garay, City Treasurer

The City Treasurer's office collects funds owed the city—parking violations, water bills, property taxes, and service fees. For your convenience, there is a drive-up window on the Ann Street side of City Hall, open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday (except legal holidays).

WATER BILLS can also be paid at branches of NBD-Ann Arbor, or by mail. If you pay by mail, please include your account number along with your address. Those of you who have roommates and are sharing the payment of these utility bills, please attempt to pay these bills with only one check. Multiple checks for one account can cause problems.

PARKING VIOLATIONS: If you are ticketed for parking at an expired meter, you can reduce the fine from $3 to $2 by paying it within two hours of receiving the ticket. (Tickets received after 3 p.m. and paid before 10 a.m. the following day are also charged at the reduced rate). Check the violation code on your ticket to be sure you submit the right amount: fines increase if not paid promptly. And by state regulation, six or more outstanding tickets can cause your driver's license renewal to be withheld.

A NOTE TO NEW HOMEOWNERS: Property tax bills go out twice a year, in July and December. Since there is often a lag in recording property in a new owner's name, your bill could be delayed. To avoid charge for late payment, call the Treasurer's Office if you don't receive your tax bill by the 10th of July or the 10th of December.

If you have questions about your water or city tax bills, call 994–2833. For questions about parking violations, call 994–2775.

The crime prevention officer (994–2979) will survey your home and point out possible security weaknesses free of charge. The 911 phone number has multiple lines, so don't be reluctant to use it. For incidents that are not in progress, call 994–2911.

RECREATION DEPARTMENT, 2800 Stone School Rd. 994–2326. Although this sounds like a division of the Parks and Recreation Department, it's actually a completely separate body, funded jointly by the city and the school system and governed by a board appointed jointly by the city and the schools. It organizes classes, arts programs (including concerts and plays), team sports, therapeutic recreation, and senior citizen recreation. Recreation brochures are available in March (for spring programs), mid May (for summer), late August (for fall), and November (for winter) at the office, libraries, banks, and city offices. For descriptions of city recreational programs and facilities, see Recreation, p. 85.

SOLID WASTE DEPARTMENT, lower level, City Center Bldg., 220 E. Huron. 994–2807. This department provides weekly garbage pickup. Trash must be in bags or cans (30-gallon maximum capacity), with no more than 50 pounds of waste in each container. Quantity is unlimited. Pending possible council legislation, the city will continue to pick up yard waste, which must be bundled and cannot exceed ten 50-pound bundles. Persons with a physical handicap can have garbage containers carried to the street at no charge. Large items, including furniture and appliances, are collected once a week for a prepaid fee of $15 per 4 cubic yards. Payment can be sent to Box 8647, AA 48107, or taken to the solid waste office.

The city landfill, at 4120 Platt Road, now accepts waste only from Ann Arbor residents, due to the limited space available. Tires, tree stumps, and loads of building materials are prohibited. Proof of residency (water bill or rent receipt) is required. Recyclable materials separated by source can be dropped off in the recycling containers at no cost. Yard waste may be dumped in the designated area for composting at no cost. Refrigerators and other large appliances may be placed in a designated area at a fee of $15 per appliance. Residential mixed waste may be dumped at the designated citizens' drop-off area at no charge if there is less than 2 cubic yards of waste and with landfill use limited to once per month. For more frequent usage or for more than 2 cubic yards, commercial rates will apply.

Grass cuttings greatly increase the amount of Ann Arbor's trash collection during the summer months. At the landfill, the rotting grass turns into methane and takes up already scarce space. The Solid Waste Department points out that grass is recyclable and suggests a number of alternatives to bagging: Leave it on your lawn where it can return nitrogen to the soil. This also reduces the need for fertilizing. Use it as an excellent mulch for gardens and bushes. Start a compost container.

Ann Arbor's landfill now has about a year of life left. It's uncertain whether the DNR will permit the next phase to open. The Solid Waste Task Force addresses this crisis in its outline of goals for the next five years. A copy of this report is available through this office for a small fee.

RECYCLE ANN ARBOR, (971–7400). This Ecology Center subsidiary, partially funded through city contracts, provides monthly curbside pickup of recyclable material. In March 1989, City Council passed at first reading an ordinance that would make recycling mandatory for those who use the Ann Arbor landfill. The ordinance is undergoing revisions; July 1990 is the hoped-for implementation date.

Items that can be recycled include newspapers, clean glass sorted by color, flattened cans with labels removed, car batteries, used motor oil, and flattened and bundled cardboard. Newspapers can be tied in bundles or, like most of the other items, left in brown paper bags or boxes. No wet or yellow paper is accepted. Motor oil must be contained in plastic jugs. Car batteries do not require containers. All items can be left on the curb once a month for collection or taken to the drive-through at 2050 S. Industrial between 9:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays. See map on p. 21 for Recycle Ann Arbor's curbside collection schedule in your neighborhood.

TRANSPORTATION DEPARTMENT, lower level, City Center Bldg., 220 E. Huron. 994–2818. This department offers a variety of services. Leaf pickup is scheduled twice for each neighborhood in the fall; snow removal is done regularly in the winter (for most streets); and Christmas tree removal is performed once for each neighborhood in January. The dates of tree and leaf removal are listed in the Ann Arbor News. To request additional street cleaning, call 994–1617.

Street and sidewalk maintenance. For pothole repair, call 99-HOLES. For fallen street signs, sidewalk repair, abandoned cars, and inoperative streetlights or traffic signals, call the main department number.

Streetlights and traffic signals. The installation of additional streetlights and traffic signals can be requested. A neighborhood petition is required. Approximately 70 percent of requests are accepted. On-street parking modifications can be requested with the same procedure.

Parking. Parking permits for city structures are sold to the public for $40 per month plus a $15 refundable deposit; call 994–2707 to get on a lengthy waiting list. It is sometimes possible to obtain permission to park in illegal spaces. Metered spaces can be reserved for occasions such as weddings; there is a charge for this service, and a small deposit is required. Most applications are accepted.

UTILITIES DEPARTMENT, fifth floor, City Hall. 994–2666. For after hours emergencies, call 994–2840. This department provides water, sewer, and storm water service to Ann Arbor and parts of the surrounding townships. It also offers emergency services (for a broken water pipe for instance) twenty-four hours a day. For all Ann Arbor buildings, water costs 91 cents per 100 cubic feet (about 750 gallons). Sanitary sewer service costs $1.62 per 100 cubic feet. Storm water service costs $4.71 per quarter for single family and duplex residences. The average three-month bill (including water, storm, and regular sewers) for one person is $29. That rate is discounted 10 percent for bills paid within thirty days.

Planning and Building

BUILDING DEPARTMENT, fourth floor, City Hall. 994–2674. This department enforces city building codes, inspects rental housing, and enforces city ordinances regarding yard care (or neglect).

New construction. Building permits are required for work estimated to be in excess of $600, work that affects the structure of a building, outdoor decks or fences, and most other major jobs. They can be obtained by submitting an application form (available at this office) and two drawings of the proposed work to the Building Department. Applications are reviewed for compliance with code and safety requirements. Fees are based on the cost of the work.

Rental properties. The department's housing bureau will inspect a house or apartment upon request and require building improvements if the residence is not up to code. Rental properties are also inspected routinely once every two and a half years. Code requirements can sometimes be waived with an appeal to one of four boards: housing, zoning, sign, and building. File a claim and the arguments in your favor with the Building Department. The board will accept or reject the request after discussing it at a monthly public meeting.

HISTORIC PRESERVATION COMMISSION, 312 S. Division. 996–3008. The commission administers nine historic districts, including the Old West Side, the Old Fourth Ward, Washtenaw/Hill, and a Landmark Historic District. It has jurisdiction over buildings that are declared historic sites and can prevent or control certain changes to the exteriors of those buildings. If you have concerns about a historic building, contact the commission.

The commission also handles inquiries about local history, with an emphasis on the history of buildings. The commission meets in city council chambers (second floor) at 6:30 p.m. on the second Thursday of every month. The public is welcome.

PLANNING DEPARTMENT, third floor, City Hall. 994-2800. The mayor and council appoint the Planning Commission, a nine-member citizen body which makes recommendations to council on proposed site plans, zoning changes, and modifications of the city's master plan. All commission actions include one or more public hearings. The Planning Department acts as the commission's administrative staff.

Council usually follows Planning Commission recommendations, but sometimes overrules it on controversial issues. The Planning Commission has final say on minor modifications of already approved site plans and on special-exception uses (such as sorority houses in residential areas) as defined by city zoning ordinances. When a new development is planned, the department notifies all residents who live within 300 feet of the proposed site, so that they can attend the public hearing. The department makes demographic information available to the public at no charge and sells the city's basic planning documents for a small fee ($2–$10). In addition, planning staff is sometimes available to make presentations to local groups.

Individuals concerned about a development proposal are encouraged to call, stop by, or write to the Planning Department. You can also state your concerns or objections when the Planning Commission holds its public hearing on the issue. Strong debate is common at these hearings. Planning Commission public hearing and action meetings are held the second and fourth Tuesdays of every month, in council chambers (second floor). These meetings are televised on cable Channel 10, and agendas are published in the Ann Arbor News and broadcast over Channel 10 beginning the Thursday before the meeting. Working sessions are held the first and third Tuesdays of every month at 7:30 p.m., in City Hall's fourth-floor conference room.

Human Services

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT, lower level, City Center Bldg., 220 E. Huron. 994–2912. Areas of service include:

Federally funded housing rehabilitation through loans to low-income individuals and to landlords. Applications can be made to the department. An investigator checks housing conditions, and builders bid for the work.

Energy assistance through loans for home improvements aimed at conserving costly energy. Low-income home owners and landlords who rent to low-income families can fill out an application at this office.

Economic development programs consisting of the funding of agencies that provide job training and scholarships. The department sponsors different agencies at different times. Contact the department for specific information.

The funding of public services, including legal aid, dental services, services for seniors, and community centers in low-income areas. This office provides about one-half of the funding for such services, with the other half coming from the city's general fund.

HOUSING COMMISSION, 727 Miller Ave. 994–2828. Housing is provided for low-income Ann Arbor residents in buildings owned by this commission. Expect a six-month wait for senior citizen housing and disabled/handicapped housing, and a two-year wait for family housing. To apply, call for an appointment with a housing manager. Rent is set at 30 percent of a tenant's income. Miller Manor, at 727 Miller Road, has apartments for about 105 senior citizens, and Baker Commons, at 106 Packard, has apartments for about sixty-four. Family and disabled housing is spread across the city, often in duplexes and townhouses with room for two to four families. In all, about 350 people live in commission housing. This office also handles the controversial Section 8 federal subsidy program in which tenants pay 30 percent of their income for rent of privately owned apartments.

PERSONNEL/HUMAN RIGHTS, first floor, City Hall. 994–2803. Employment. Advice on equal opportunity employment for adults and youths can be obtained from this department.

Discrimination. The Human Rights section handles complaints about discrimination in employment and housing and other violations of the city human rights ordinance. Appointed by the mayor and city council, the seven-member Human Rights Commission monitors problems with discrimination in Ann Arbor and makes recommendations to council and other parties (such as the School Board or the University of Michigan) on ways to eliminate it.

City Taxes

Taxes are assessed twice a year—in July and December. The July 1989 tax rate is $40.24 per $1,000 assessed valuation of property—$1.28

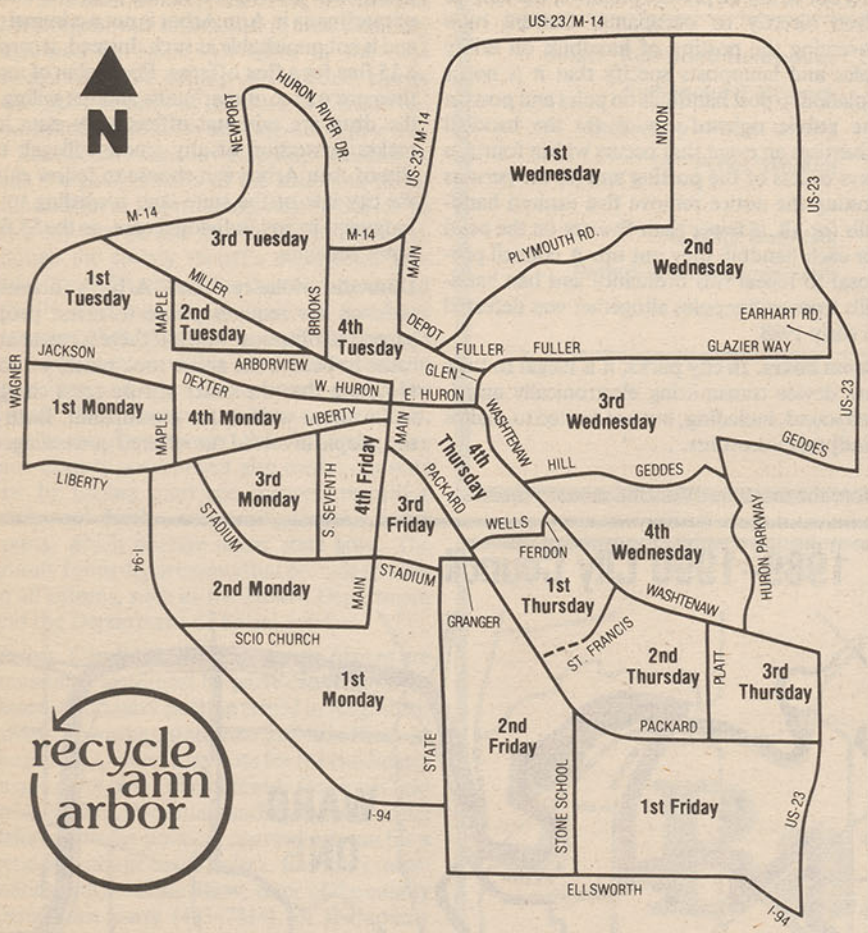
Map of Recycling Areas



To use Recycle Ann Arbor's free service, residents should bundle cardboard, newspapers, and grocery bags, clean glass (sort by color and remove lids—food and beverage containers only), flatten cans (steel and aluminum in separate containers), and tightly seal used motor oil. Used car batteries are also accepted, books and magazines are not. For pickup service, place material on the curb (eight to ten feet from any trash) by 8 a.m. on the appropriate collection date. Recycle Ann Arbor services only those homes and apartments that have regular trash pickup. The Recycling Drop-Off Station, 2050 S. Industrial, also accepts prepared recyclable material, Fri. & Sat. 9:30 a.m.–4:30 p.m. Material should be clearly marked "For Recycle Ann Arbor." For more information, call 971-7400.

less than last year's. Of that, $17.10 goes to the city, $3.39 to Washtenaw Community College, $1.76 to the Intermediate School District, and $17.99 to the public schools. December's rate is limited to funding for the schools and for Washtenaw County. The exact rate is still undetermined, but is expected to be a bit less than $30 per $1,000 assessed valuation. (The December 1988 rate was $26.47.)

The city's share of tax revenues is divided among general government operations ($6.83), debt service ($.90), garbage collection ($2.73), employee benefits ($2.28), Ann Arbor Transportation Authority ($1.50), parks development and parkland acquisition ($.97), and major street repairs ($1.89).

City Elections

City elections take place on the first Monday in April, from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. National, state, and county elections, barring special elections, are held every two years on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

The city clerk's office, the public library, the Secretary of State, and voluntary deputy registrars register voters. To be eligible to vote, individuals must have lived in Ann Arbor for at least thirty days prior to an election. After registration, a voter receives information by mail about where and how to vote.

The Ann Arbor City Code

A quick look at some things that are legal and illegal in Ann Arbor.

Cars, bikes, skateboards, and pedestrians. It is legal to turn left on a red light onto a one-way street, after yielding to pedestrians and oncoming cars.

It is illegal to drive past stopped school buses that are displaying two alternately flashing red lights. It is legal for pedestrians to cross the street on a red light or a "don't walk" signal as long as there is no danger or obstruction of traffic. It is illegal to drive "in such a manner as to splash snow, rain, water, mud, dirt, or debris" onto pedestrians.

Roller skates, sleds, coasting wagons, toy vehicles, or "similar devices," are not allowed in streets, except for crossing. Bikes on the roads more than half an hour after sunset or before sunrise must have headlights and rear reflectors, and "every bicycle shall be equipped with at least one effective brake." Council also has banned skateboarding in city parking structures, in Liberty Plaza, and on certain downtown sidewalks.

Pets. Dog owners must have their dogs under "reasonable control" at all times. They are also required to clean up after their dogs on both public and private property.

Owners of all pets must provide proper food, drink, and shelter from the weather for their animals, as well as medical attention necessary to prevent the animals from suffering. Animals may not be left confined without adequate ventilation. This includes leaving your pet inside a car.

Landscaping. Home owners are prohibited from growing vegetation (such as hedges) higher than thirty-six inches if that vegetation is within twenty-five feet of an intersection. Trees within that distance must be trimmed to provide clear vision of the intersection. No weeds, grass, or "other vegetation" higher than sixteen inches is allowed to cover a lawn, or the city will mow your lawn for you—and give you the bill. "Fences charged or connected with an electrical current" are prohibited.

Handbills. It is illegal to distribute handbills by leaving them on parked cars, but they may be handed to drivers. Similarly, commercial flyers may not be left on private premises, but may be given directly to occupants. Current rules governing the posting of handbills on utility poles and lampposts specify that it is not a violation to post handbills on poles and posts in the public right-of-way if (1) the handbill advertises an event that occurs within fourteen days or less of the posting and (2) the persons posting the notice remove five expired handbills (or all, if fewer than five are on the post) for each handbill they put up. A council proposal to repeal this ordinance and ban handbills from utility poles altogether was defeated in early 1988.

Boom boxes. In city parks, it is illegal to "use any device transmitting electronically amplified sound, including, but not limited to, radios [and] tape recorders. . . ."

Begging. In Ann Arbor, it is prohibited to "beg in any public or private place."

Marijuana. Possession of less than one ounce of marijuana in Ann Arbor is not a criminal act and is not punishable as such. Instead, it carries a $5 fine for a first offense. Possession of more than one ounce of marijuana and the selling of the drug are criminal offenses. A state law makes possession of any amount illegal; the city of Ann Arbor can choose to follow either the city law or the state law, according to its judgment in any individual case, so the $5 fine is not absolute.

Domestic violence. Ann Arbor's domestic violence law requires police to arrest people suspected of spouse abuse if there is reasonable cause to believe the abuse took place, without requiring that the other spouse press charges and without waiting for a complaint. Both of the people involved are offered counseling.

County Government

Washtenaw County, one of the first counties in Michigan, was established in 1822 and fully organized by 1827. An agent of the state government, the county government carries out responsibilities of the state. But it also has independent executive and legislative powers.

The county has overlapping jurisdiction with the governments of the cities and townships within it. For instance, Ann Arbor has its own city charter and its own police force. Although the county sheriff's department provides law enforcement for the entire county, it usually does not do so in areas that have separate police forces. In this case, the county's presence is more visible outside the cities, in townships and other incorporated areas. The county does, however, prosecute all crimes, such as murder or arson, that fall under state law. County government also carries out state law by issuing marriage licenses, recording births and deaths, and conducting the circuit courts, which operate under state laws. The county funds departments that provide services to all citizens, such as the Health Department and the Department of Social Services.

Voting. Candidates for some state offices are nominated in August by party conventions. A statewide primary election is held in August for county, township, state, and judicial offices. In the primary, voters may vote for the candidates in one party only. The statewide election is held in November. Potential candidates for precinct delegates to the political conventions can file a petition with the county clerk. For more information call Suzanne Shaw, chair of the county Democratic party (483–7814), or the county Republican headquarters (971–4622).

COUNTY CLERK/REGISTER OF DEEDS, 101 E. Huron. 994–1638. This combined office maintains official county records (births, deaths, marriages, divorces, military discharges), issues marriage licenses, provides administrative services in the issuance of passports and naturalization papers, provides administrative assistance to the county, and monitors conduct of elections.

BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS. The chief policy-making body of county government, the board's duties include the adoption of the annual budget for county government, including all county departments; establishment and levy of taxes for the operation of county government; and establishment of and appointments to county boards, committees, and commissions. For a list of county commissioners from Ann Arbor districts, see p. 20.

COUNTY TREASURER, 101 E. Huron. 994–2520. The custodian of county funds, the treasurer receives all revenues (taxes and fees), invests county revenue funds, collects delinquent property taxes, collects inheritance taxes, and sells real estate on which taxes are unpaid.

DRAIN COMMISSIONER, 101 E. Huron. 994–2525. The drain commissioner handles ecological problems such as pollution and storm water management and develops water and land-use strategies for flood control and erosion control. The drain commissioner has jurisdiction over all the drains and sewers within the county and is responsible for preventing or abating storm drain pollution.

PROSECUTING ATTORNEY, 101 E. Huron. 994–2380. With assistants, the prosecuting attorney is responsible for the prosecution of criminal cases in the county. As the chief law enforcement officer for the county, the prosecutor must authorize, in writing, all prosecution sought in criminal cases.

SHERIFF, 2201 Hogback Rd. 994–2470. The sheriff enforces all criminal, civil, and traffic laws of the county and conducts investigations of unusual, violent, or accidental deaths in his/her jurisdiction. The sheriff executes the orders of the courts, arrests and detains accused offenders, manages the county jail facilities, and coordinates various law enforcement activities of the county and the state. The sheriff provides support and coordination to local police departments, which may duplicate some of the sheriff's duties.

Parking & Transportation

Parking

Municipal Facilities. 994–2818. City parking lots and structures are designated by white signs with a large green P inside a green circle. There are 1,280 metered curbside spaces in the downtown/campus area and 2,714 off-street metered spaces in city parking lots and parking structures. All spaces in the municipal parking system are regulated by the Transportation Department.

Parking meters cost 30¢ an hour. Generally, meters need to be fed between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday, but in many lots and structures the hours are longer. Hours of operation are posted at each facility.

The fine for an expired meter is $2 if paid within two hours, $3 if paid within two weeks. After that, the cost jumps to $8 and can go as high as $18 if the ticket is ignored. Other penalties, including additional fines and auto impoundment, are invoked if a driver has six or more unpaid tickets. Fines for most other parking violations are $10 if paid within two weeks. For parking in a handicapped parking zone the fine is $75.

The fine on expired meter tickets jumps from $3 to $8 if not paid within two weeks and to $18 if ignored much longer.

The Parking Violations Bureau, located on the first floor of City Hall, is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. There is a drive-through window on the north side of City Hall for ticket payment. Also, people who want to pay meter-expiration fines within the two-hour time limit during nonbusiness hours can go to the first floor of City Hall (open 24 hours), where there is a time stamp and a drop box.

There are a few quirks of the local parking system that users may not know about. Backing cars into parking spaces is not allowed. It is illegal to park at a meter for longer than the number of hours the meter is set to measure. In the central business district, parking is not allowed between 3 a.m. and 6 a.m., to allow for street cleaning. Straddling two parking spaces can earn a ticket for "double parking." Parking more than twelve inches from the curb can also produce a ticket. The fine for all these offenses is $10 if paid within fourteen days and $15 afterwards.

Handicapped Parking. Restricted parking spaces in public and private lots are set aside for use only by vehicles with city or state handicapped permits or handicapped license plates. These spaces are commonly marked with blue signs with a white symbol of a person in a wheelchair. Vehicles with handicapped permits or plates can also park in curbside loading zones and are exempt from having to feed meters. They are not subject to posted time limits or the maximum amount of meter time allowed at on-street parking spaces.

The city issues temporary handicapped permits in the form of stickers that are available at the City Clerk's office on the second floor of City Hall. An application must be accompanied by a physician's statement certifying disability.

The Secretary of State issues handicapped permits and license plates for the temporarily and permanently disabled. The handicapped person must apply in person. If the handicap is not obvious, the application must be completed by the applicant's physician.

Parking Permits. 994–2707. There are 2,581 parking permits available that allow parking in specific lots and structures in the city system, although they do not guarantee the availability of parking spaces. Permits cost $50 a month and are sold on a monthly or semiannual basis. Permit parkers in some lots and structures need a key-card, for which there is a refundable $15 deposit. Permits are issued on a first-come, first-served basis and there is a waiting list for each facility. (In June 1989, the waiting list totaled 1,200 for all facilities.) To get on a waiting list, simply call the Transportation Department. Application and initial purchase must be made at the Parking Operations Headquarters at 415 W. Washington (second floor). Permits can be purchased during the first and last weeks of the month (Mon.–Fri. 8 a.m.–3:45 p.m.), and on Fridays only during other weeks (11 a.m.–2:45 p.m.). Parking in permit spaces by nonpermit vehicles is allowed after the posted hours of operation. Some of the permit lots have no signs, but it's generally safe to park in them after 5 p.m.

University of Michigan Parking Operations, 508 Thompson. 764–8292. University parking facilities are marked by blue signs that note restrictions and hours of operation. Most facilities allow parking only by permit, and permits are available only to full-time permanent faculty and staff. Eligibility for permits, which cost $200 a year, is dependent on numerous criteria. Visitors can purchase a daily permit for $4.00, but are advised to call ahead to see what facilities it will give them access to.

The U-M also has about 1,200 metered spaces on campus. There are two kinds of U-M meters. Most require permits for use. (Read the signs in a given lot to find out if it is permit parking or not.) Permits are not needed to park at blue U-M meters. Meter rates vary slightly but are comparable to city rates. The city's parking enforcement officers patrol U-M facilities and issue tickets that carry the same fine amounts (payable to the city).

There are two student parking lots, one at Hill and Division and one on Hayward on North Campus. Permits for the 385 or so spaces are sold in early September, on a first-come, first-served basis. Usually, they are all issued on the first day. Some spaces become available during the school year, and plenty are available during the spring and summer. Student permits cost $190 a year, but can be purchased as available throughout the year for proportionately less. ►

AIRPORTS AND AIRPORT TRANSPORTATION

Ann Arbor Airport, State and Ellsworth roads. 994–2841. The seventh-busiest airport in Michigan, with over 100,000 take-offs and landings annually. Operating 24 hours, this municipal facility accommodates business, corporate, and private flights and provides air ambulance service, charter flights, and flight instruction. Repairs, service, fuel, and hangar rentals are available. The terminal building lobby has a 24-hour direct-line phone to 22 area hotels, cab companies, and aviation services. The airport is located south of the city, near the Briarwood business district. Access to downtown Ann Arbor is available by bus, taxi, limousine, or on-site car rental.

Detroit Metropolitan Airport. 942–3550. "Metro" is a major national airport (over 19 million passengers in 1988) offering regional, national, and international flights by 18 scheduled airlines and a number of charters and air taxis. Metro is located off I-94 at the Merriman Road exit approximately 25 miles east of Ann Arbor. For specific flight information contact the individual airlines or a travel agent.

The Merriman Road/Metro Airport exit off I-94 lets out onto Rogell Drive, which circles Metro's facilities. The first terminal is the International Terminal off to the right. Just past the International Terminal Rogell Drive splits into upper and lower levels. The upper roadway goes to departure/drop-off areas and the lower goes to the arrival/pick-up areas. The next building is the tall, concrete Davey Terminal (north terminal), which is solely occupied by Northwest Airlines. Just beyond the Davey Terminal is the Marriott Hotel, and at the south end of the Rogell loop is the old turquoise L.C. Smith Terminal (south terminal), which houses many different airlines.

During the holiday seasons of Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Year's, and Easter, it's advisable to call Metro's Parking Hot Line (1–942–3838) for traffic and parking conditions well in advance of your departure.

Parking facilities at Metro are not always well marked, so be sure you are driving into the type (short- or long-term) of parking lot you want. Short-term parking is $1.50 per half-hour with a maximum charge of $24 a day.

There are numerous long-term parking facilities, including the International Terminal Lot and adjacent West Lot ($2 first hour, maximum of $4 for 24 hours), the large parking deck in the middle of the circular Rogell Drive ($3.25 flat daily rate), and the Long-Term Lot off eastbound (outbound) Rogell Drive ($3 flat daily rate for remote lots). There are four private lots (Budget, Park-N-Go, U.S. Park, and Airlines Parking) with over 12,000 parking spaces on Middlebelt and Wickham roads with shuttle service to Metro terminals. Cost ranges from $3.25 to $6 per day. Metro Airport is closing large portions of its parking deck (the parking structure) for renovations in 1989. It intends to add more surface parking to accommodate the change.

Commuter Transportation Company. (800) 351-LIMO or 763-8587 (Michigan Union Ticket Office). Dark blue vans with airplane insignia on the sides (during holidays they are large white buses with blue insignia) provide service seven days a week between Metro Airport and area hotels and motels (the Ann Arbor Inn, the Campus Inn, the Hilton, the Holiday Inns, the Marriott, the Sheraton, Weber's, and others). Reservations are required for pickups. At least one van leaves from the Michigan Union every hour on the quarter-hour from 5:15 a.m. to midnight. From Metro, vans leave from both the north and south terminals every hour on the hour from 7 a.m. to midnight. The one-way trip takes about an hour and fifteen minutes. Tickets can be purchased at the Michigan Union Ticket Office (basement level) for $11 one way or $20 round-trip. At Metro, and at the Sheraton, the Hilton, Weber's, or from the driver, tickets are $13 one way and $24 round-trip.

Buses

Ann Arbor Bus Depot, 116 W. Huron. 662-5511. Hours: 7:45 a.m.-7:30 p.m. daily. Closed holidays. Greyhound Bus Lines operates out of this terminal, providing service throughout Michigan and the U.S. Some routes stop at the Michigan Union. The Bus Depot accepts Mastercard, VISA, Discover, Diners Club, and Carte Blanche, but not personal checks. Tickets may also be purchased at the Michigan Union Ticket Office for travel within Michigan only.

Ann Arbor Transportation Authority (AATA) Buses, Downtown Transit Center, 331 S. Fourth Avenue. 996-0400. Headquarters at 2700 S. Industrial Hwy., 973-6500. The city's primary means of public transit, the AATA operates large buses along 17 Ann Arbor and 7 Ypsilanti local routes, carrying over 5,000 passengers a day. An AATA local route is within a quarter-mile of 93 percent of all Ann Arbor residents. The fare is 60¢, and transfers are free (request transfers when boarding). A roll of 20 tokens costs $10, a 10-ride pass costs $5, and an unlimited-ride monthly pass costs $20. Tokens and passes are available at the Downtown Transit Center, AATA Headquarters, and at some area businesses. A list of them is available at the Downtown Transit Center. Half-fare ID cards are available to handicapped persons, seniors ages 60-64, students (K-12; valid only during the school year, Mon.-Fri. 6:30 a.m.-6:15 p.m.), and low-income persons. Seniors ages 65 or older can ride free with a Good-as-Gold AATA ID Card. Students (K-12) can purchase an unlimited-ride monthly pass for $10. Service hours for most routes are 6 a.m.-10:15 p.m. weekdays and 8 a.m.-6:15 p.m. weekends. For information on routes, schedules, and discount fares, call the Transit Center, Mon.-Fri. 7:30 a.m.-9:15 p.m., Sat. noon-6:15 p.m. For other information, call AATA Headquarters, Mon.-Fri. 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

Chelsea-Dexter-Ann Arbor Express (AATA). 996-0400. Small buses run on a route between Chelsea, Dexter, and Ann Arbor. The fare is $1 from Chelsea or Dexter to Ann Arbor, and also between Chelsea and Dexter. The fare is 30¢ within Dexter and Chelsea. Transfer to AATA local routes is free. Transfer from local routes costs an additional 40¢. AATA half-fare cards are honored. Hours: Mon.-Fri. 6:20 a.m.-8:10 p.m.; Sat. 7:45 a.m.-6:40 p.m. No Sunday service.

Saline Express (AATA). 996-0400. Small buses make six round trips each weekday, three in the morning and three in the late afternoon. Several stops are made in Saline, and the route then travels along Woodland Drive, Textile Road, and State Street, stopping at Briarwood

CHRISTINE ROSS-CAVANNA

Ann Arbor's low-key airport

To anyone who's spent much time at Detroit Metro, the Ann Arbor Airport at State and Ellsworth roads is an anachronism. There are no Northwest Airlines insignia, no porters hungry for tips, no long lines or lost luggage. This is a general aviation airport, used by commercial businesses, private flights, student pilots, hospitals, police, and a host of other users who fly small planes for business and pleasure.

Some of the run-down tin hangers facing State Street date from the early days of the airport, which opened in 1928. The grassy fields that take up most of its 650 acres create a rural atmosphere that's all the more pronounced now that the farmlands surrounding the airport are being swallowed up by development. But the terminal building and federal air traffic control tower in the center of the airport are up to date, and since the tower was built in 1973, they have handled over 1 million takeoffs and landings without a fatality. There were 120,000 just in 1988, enough to make Ann Arbor the seventh-busiest airport in the state.

General aviation has been criticized recently, because rising traffic on scheduled airlines has made small planes an irritant at major airports. It hasn't always been popular in Ann Arbor, either. In the last decade, City Council has several times rejected proposals to build a longer runway capable of handling larger planes. But Ann Arbor Airport manager Charles Ferguson remains an enthusiastic advocate. A pilot of twenty-five years who wears a navy blue tie dotted with airplanes, he points out that in 1989 general aviation will fly nearly 5 billion air miles, make over 60 million flights, and carry nearly 200 million passengers.

"Seldom is there a realization of the diversity of a community business airport," Ferguson says. Local passengers range from Discount Tire executives to student pilots taught by husband-and-wife team Sam and Jesse Lambdin to University Hospital staff carrying critically ill patients and organs for transplantation.

Ferguson's office is in the terminal building at the heart of the airport. The building is quiet. A few people pass through on their way to the field, to make a phone call or grab a bite to eat. On the wall outside his office, Ferguson has posted crayon drawings of airplanes courtesy of a nursery school class that recently visited.

Before he came to the airport ten years ago, Ferguson was a detective in the Ann Arbor Police Department. (His experience as a flier and running a lawn equipment business helped him get the job.) He's on call twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week. In an emergency, or if a plane fails to show up, or if it starts to snow, Ferguson is called in.

"It's not glamorous," he says. "The planes come in and go out, and we're busy getting the grass mowed or the snow cleared."

The airport hasn't changed much during his ten years there, except that it's gotten busier. With increasing congestion on scheduled airlines, more people are interested in flying themselves. "General aviation is for people to go where they want to go," says Ferguson, "when they want to go."

University of Michigan Bus System. 764–3427. Large silver-and-blue buses run between Crisler Arena, the main campus, the medical campus, and North Campus, for U-M students, faculty, and staff. The commuter route runs every 15 minutes between Crisler Arena, the main campus, and the Medical Center. It connects with two North Campus routes that run every 7 minutes during the school year and every 10 minutes during the spring and summer terms. The transfer point is on North University near Church Street. Hours: Daily (except holidays) 7 a.m.–2 a.m. (Sept.–Apr.); 7 a.m.–midnight (May–Aug.).

Limousines

There are numerous limousine companies that serve the Ann Arbor area. Sedans, town cars, and stretch limos are available at an average cost of $40 per hour. The Yellow Pages lists many companies, both in Ann Arbor and nearby.

Taxis

The three local taxi companies offer local service, service to Metro Airport, or service to anywhere you want to go. The maximum meter rate allowed by the city is $1.25 to start, $1.20 per mile, and $12 per hour for waiting time.

Budget Cab. 973–9000. Operates 24 hours. Meter rate is $1 to start and $1 per mile.

Veterans Cab. 662–4477. Operates 24 hours. Meter rate is $1 to start and $1.10 per mile.

Yellow Cab. 663–3355. Operates 24 hours. Meter rate is $1.25 to start and $1.20 per mile. In addition to its conventional cabs, Yellow Cab also operates two London taxis, which can be reserved for $25 per hour weekdays and $30 per hour weekends.

Train Service

Amtrak, 325 Depot. 663–6051. Rail service to Detroit and Toledo connecting to points east, and to Jackson, Kalamazoo, and Chicago connecting to points west. Two trains depart in each direction daily, with an additional train in each direction on Saturdays and Sundays. Accepts VISA, Mastercard, American Express, Carte Blanche, and Diners Club; there is a stringent check policy (call ahead for details). Hours: 7:30 a.m.–11:30 p.m. daily.

Special Services

Late-Night Transportation

Night Ride (AATA/Yellow Cab). 663–3888. This is a shared-ride program with either a lift-equipped "Night Ride" van or cabs. Service is within the city limits only. Response time is anywhere from 5 to 40 minutes (20 minutes average). Fare is $1.50 per person. Reservations (all trips must be requested by phone) can be made after 6 a.m. for service that evening. Hours: 10 p.m.–6 a.m. daily except some holidays.

Nite Owl (U-M). 764–3427. White vans with glowing "Nite Owl" toplights run this service for U-M students, faculty, and staff. The service has two routes: the north route serves the hospital area and the Hill-area dorms, and the south route serves Oxford Housing, central campus dorms, and the athletic campus. There is a transfer point at the Undergraduate Library. Vans run every 30 minutes. Hours: Daily (except holidays) 7 p.m.–2 a.m. (Sept.–Apr.)

Emergency Escort Service (U-M). 763–1311. Provides emergency rides between 2 a.m. and 7 a.m. daily when the Nite Owl isn't running.

Safewalk (U-M). 936–1000. The U-M's nighttime safety escort service provides two-person teams (either a co-ed team or two women) to accompany people walking within a 20-minute radius of campus. Safewalk is located in the first-floor lobby of the Undergraduate Library. People can call or stop by for service. Hours: 8 p.m.–1:30 a.m. Sun.–Thurs. and 8–11:30 p.m. Fri. & Sat. (Sept.–April only). To service the North Campus area, Northwalk (763–WALK) was recently initiated. Northwalk provides escorts to people within a 20-minute radius of Bursley Hall, but does not include U-M's Family Housing area. Northwalk hours: 8–11:30 p.m. Sun.–Thurs. (Sept.–April only).

Senior Citizen Services

Good-as-Gold (AATA/Yellow Cab). Call 973–6500 for information about obtaining the card; call 663–6636 for reservations. A 24-hour shared-ride service operated by Yellow Cab. Fare is $1 regardless of distance, but only within the city limits. The Good-as-Gold ID Card required can be obtained from the AATA by persons ages 65 and older. Good-as-Gold card holders can ride AATA buses free. (Persons ages 60 and over can ride AATA buses for half-fare with a half-fare ID card.)

Neighborhood Senior Services. 662–4862. This organization arranges rides, offered by volunteers in their own cars, for seniors who are frail and have no other means of transportation to or from the doctor, bank, or grocery store. Hours: Mon.–Fri. 8:30 a.m.–5 p.m. on a donation basis.

Services for the Handicapped and Disabled

A-Ride (AATA/Yellow Cab). Call 973–6500 for information about ID card; call 663–3888 for reservations. Door-to-door shared-ride service in lift-equipped vans or cabs for transit-handicapped riders. A-Ride operates primarily within the city limits, and users must have an AATA ID card. Medical certification of disability is required to obtain the card. The fare is $1; coupons (10 for $5) can be bought from the AATA. Reservations can be made from two weeks to one day in advance. Same-day requests are accepted but not guaranteed. Hours: Daily 6 a.m.–11 p.m. Limited service is also available for persons in Pittsfield Township and Saline. Fare is 75¢ within Pittsfield Township or Saline and $1.50 to or from Ann Arbor. Hours: Mon.–Fri. 7:30 a.m.–5:30 p.m.

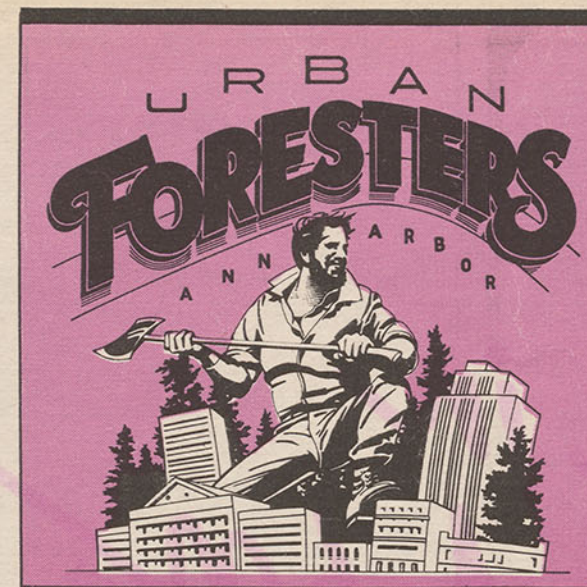
Health Van (Huron Valley Ambulance). 971–3015. Provides nonemergency transport in a radio-equipped, EMT-staffed van with a mechanical ramp. Reservations are suggested at least a day in advance, since service is on a first-come, first-served basis. The van operates in 3 zones in southeastern Michigan. The basic rate is $20 each way and increases $1 per mile or $1.50 per mile depending on the distance traveled outside the zone. (Ann Arbor, Dexter, and Saline are in Zone 1, Ypsilanti is in Zone 2.) The charge for waiting is $20 an hour ($5 for 15 min.). Operates weekdays 10 a.m.–6 p.m., but evening and weekend rides can be scheduled in advance.

University Special Transportation (U-M/Ann Arbor ParaTransit), Room 625, Haven Hall (ground level). 763–3000. UST is primarily for permanently and temporarily disabled U-M students. Handicapped administrators and faculty are eligible to ride depending on space availability. The service operates Mon.–Fri. 7:30 a.m.–4:30 a.m. For eligibility, contact the Office of Disabled Student Services (763–3000), Mon.–Fri. 8 a.m.–5 p.m.

Ride Sharing

Ride Board (U-M). Located in the basement of the Michigan Union. People seeking or offering long-distance rides can sign up, in person only, to find other drivers and riders.

Ridesharing (AATA). 973–6500. A free service to help commuters who work in Washtenaw County get into vanpools and carpools.



Complete Tree Care: Disease diagnosis & consulting, spraying & fertilizing, trimming & removal, micro-injections, firewood & woodchips.

If everyone needed the same kind of mortgage, they wouldn't need one from Comerica.

When it comes to getting a home mortgage, some banks give you the feeling that everybody is buying the same house.

They sit you down. They show you the same mortgage they show everybody else. They have you fill out the same forms. And then they let you leave.

Well, that's not the way we work. Because at Comerica, we understand that everyone has different financial needs.

And that's why we give you a choice.

If you're looking for a simple, convenient way to pay for your home, we might show you our popular 15 and 30 year fixed rate mortgages.

If you need a lower rate to start, we might show you one of our adjustable rate mortgages.

Or you even have the option of our 5 year balloon mortgage.

There's also a jumbo-sized loan for those of you who are planning on buying a jumbo-sized house. With it, you can borrow up to $500,000.

And no matter which type of mortgage you choose, you'll have a Comerica representative helping you all the way, offering advice, and making sure you choose the best mortgage for your specific needs.

So call 769-9390 for the name of your nearest Comerica Mortgage Representative, or stop in at any Comerica branch office.

Unless, of course, you really do want the same house everyone else has.

The Edward Surovell Company has been named this year's Broker of the Year by the Travelers Realty Network, a network of America's leading independent real estate companies. We were recognized for providing quality real estate services to more relocating families than any other company of our size in the network of 1,200 offices across the country.

Here's an example of how people feel about our services—during 1988-89, Philips Display Components Company moved their corporate headquarters to Ann Arbor. The consultants who helped Philips prepare for the move say this:

> "We began working with the Edward Surovell Company early in the relocation process and have grown to depend upon the responsiveness of the relocation department, the skill and sensitivity of the sales agents, and the unhesitating willingness of everyone in the company to help Philips employees find the communities and housing they needed to make a successful transition."

Housing

The Ann Arbor Planning Department divides the city into fifty-two separate neighborhoods. Some are quite homogeneous, like the Allmendinger neighborhood between Main and Seventh north of Stadium, which consists almost entirely of postwar bungalows and ranches. But more often they are diverse replicas of the city's own complexity, like the Northwood V/Vintage Valley neighborhood that combines U-M married student housing, research facilities, wide open spaces, and the expensive Vintage Valley subdivision with a nearby low-income public housing project.

Neighborhood numbers are keyed to the map on this page. Home price information (current as of July 1989) was provided by Tom Richardson of Liberty Title, Michele Derr of the Charles Reinhart Company, and Dawn Foerg of the Edward Surovell Company. Demographic data comes from the city's 1988 Household Survey; samples from some areas were small, so it is only an approximate guide.

1 & 2: Northbury/Chapel Hill & Orchard Hills/Maplewood

Before sewers were extended out Plymouth Road during construction of the U-M's North Campus in the 1950's, much of this area northeast of the Plymouth and Nixon intersection was the Bolgos family's farm and dairy. Today it's a predominantly residential mixture of subdivisions, condominiums, and apartment complexes.

The Northbury Condominiums, east of Nixon Road just before the M-14 overpass, sell for $140,000 to $250,000. Because of Northbury's proximity to Clague Middle School and Logan Elementary, there are many children (the parents are often business professionals and U-M faculty and staff), as well as retired people. To the north lie the newly constructed Windemere Park luxury apartments.

The Chapel Hill area east of Green Road is a diverse townhouse condominium and single-family community. With manicured lawns and recent renovation work, Chapel Hill prides itself on its upkeep. The turnover rate for residents is fairly high, reflecting a large percentage of U-M students, staff, and foreign visitors. A significant segment (about half) of Chapel Hill consists of senior citizens. The playground and open areas of adjacent Sugarbush Park are popular with Chapel Hill families, typically professional working couples. Chapel Hill condos sell for $65,000 to $100,000. In the 1988 Household Survey, Northbury/Chapel Hill's median household income was $52,500.

The Orchard Hills, Maplewood, and Bromley single-family subdivisions make up the Orchard Hills/Maplewood neighborhood. Orchard Hills's houses are fifteen to twenty-five years old, as are Bromley's slightly smaller houses. Maplewood's houses are somewhat newer.

Orchard Hills/Maplewood is fairly stable, with many younger families with children (in 1988, 48 percent of all households surveyed had children at home). The family orientation makes for a very social atmosphere, with numerous block parties, cookouts, and even parades. The Orchard Hills Athletic Club on Yorktown has a pool that is a social hub for area members.

Prices for houses in the three subdivisions range from $100,000 to $180,000. Median household income in 1988 was $64,500, well above the citywide median of $35,000. Located in Ann Arbor's Second Ward, the two neighborhoods have generally voted Republican in local elections. Northbury children attend Logan Elementary; all others go to Thurston. Clague is the middle school and the high school is Huron.

3: Traver/Willowtree

The Traver/Willowtree area is dominated by apartments, including Willowtree, Willowtree Tower, and Parc Pointe on Plymouth Road; Parkway Meadows (which includes a group of senior citizen buildings) near Nixon; and Traver Ridge off Traver Road. The Traver Lakes development includes single-family homes and some condos. Traver Vistas, north of Placid Way, is made up of single-family homes. Overall, 82 percent of the Traver/Willowtree households are renters. Median income was $26,800 in the 1988 survey.

The neighborhood has many open areas and ponds throughout; residents are frequently out walking or jogging in what is still a peaceful area, despite plans for encroaching development projects. Residents of Traver Ridge, Traver Lakes, and Traver Vistas all belong to an association that shares the clubhouse, pool, and tennis courts at the Traver Lakes condos.

Single-family colonials in Traver Lakes (ten to fifteen years old) and Traver Vistas (three to four years old) cost from $115,000 to $180,000. The Traver Lakes condos go for $85,000 to $155,000. Traver/Willowtree is the only Republican precinct in the solidly Democratic First Ward. Schools are Logan and Northside elementaries, Clague Middle School, and Huron High.

4: Leslie Park/Arrowwood

The Leslie Park/Arrowwood neighborhood lies between Pontiac Trail to the west and Leslie Park and the Leslie Park Golf Course to the east. The hilly terrain is pocked with gravel pits left by a receding glacier. The rocky landscape can send softballs askew during ball games at Leslie Park. ►

Good workmanship, loving workmanship, requires us to think considerately of the whole process, natural and cultural, in the making of wooden artifacts, because the good worker does not share in the industrial contempt for raw material. The good worker loves the board before it becomes a table, loves the tree before it yields the board, loves the forest before it gives up the tree. And so careful, considerate, loving work is implied at every stage of the process. The good worker understands that a badly made artifact is both an insult to its user and a danger to its source.

The northern part of this neighborhood along Dhu Varren Road is not yet hooked up to the city's water and sewer lines and so remains largely undeveloped. The area's chief housing source is the 350-unit Arrowwood Hills Co-operative, a low-income townhouse complex built in the late 1960's. The city's 1988 survey found a median household income of just $16,000—the second lowest in the city.

With a wide racial and ethnic mix, Arrowwood has a diverse but cohesive atmosphere; members participate in many shared programs and have cooperative garden plots. A recently completed $2.9 million renovation project helped upgrade the co-op with new siding, insulation, and energy-efficient utilities in each unit. Fifty-four percent of households here have children at home. Children from the co-op are bused to King, Logan, or Thurston elementary schools; all others attend Northside Elementary. Clague is the middle school, and the high school is Huron. This neighborhood is solidly Democratic.

5: Huron Highlands

Huron Highlands is located on a high ridge overlooking the Huron River valley and the downtown skyline between US-23/M-14 and Pontiac Trail. The ridge is the northern portion of the Fort Wayne moraine, which extends south and west to form the western slopes of Ann Arbor.

Single-family ranches built in the late 1960's are priced at $65,000 and up. There are also some fairly substantial contemporary homes dotted throughout this neighborhood, which sell for as much as $200,000. Ninety-seven percent of all households own their homes, with a slightly increasing number of rentals south of Barton Drive; 82 percent are occupied by families; and 33 percent have children at home. Median income in the city's most recent survey was $55,000.

Despite its proximity to the downtown area, Huron Highlands is a quiet, stable neighborhood. Residents tend to be either professional younger families or retired people who greatly value their seclusion. The neighborhood successfully banded together to prevent plans to fully pave Longshore Drive, and fought against the development of a convention center on North Main across the river.

Children attend Northside Elementary, Clague Middle School, and Huron High. Huron Highlands, like Leslie Park/Arrowwood on the other side of Pontiac Trail, is located in the city's First Ward and consistently favors Democrats in local elections.

6: Northside

This area immediately north of the Huron River flourished in the 1830's but soon became a quiet backwater as the growth of the U-M focused development south of the river. Today, apartments and small moderately priced ($60,000 and up) ranches share the neighborhood with some of the city's oldest surviving houses.

Many older houses are now rented, and there are also newer apartments, including the Shoreview complex on Kellogg and the Ravensfield Townhouses on Long Shore Drive. Sixty-nine percent of Northside households are renters, and the median income in 1988 was $34,500. One of the few stably integrated neighborhoods in Ann Arbor, politically this is a Democratic stronghold. Schools are Northside Elementary, Clague Middle School, and Huron High.

7: Broadway/Riverside

This neighborhood just north of the Huron River adjacent to Northside includes the spot where several Indian trails once met at a ford on the Huron River. That same clustering effect is visible today as Broadway, Plymouth Road, Maiden Lane, Wall Street, Moore Street, Swift Street, and Pontiac Trail all converge near the Broadway Bridge.

Cedar Bend Drive, located near the crest of the Broadway hill, offers a spectacular view of the Huron River valley below and of the U-M Medical Center across Fuller Road. It follows one of the high river terraces left behind by the meandering Huron, which flows past Wall Street and Maiden Lane along Fuller Road. Extended river terraces just west of Fuller Pool, toward the U-M's North Campus farther to the east, border what was a pre-glacial lake bed.

Broadway hill distinctly separates the Broadway and Riverside areas. Located north of the crest, the Broadway area combines rental housing with older single-family houses on large, well-kept lots on and near Cedar Bend. There has been a recent increase in the rehabilitation of older homes, and more families with young children have moved into the area. Single-family homes vary from small ranches that start at about $70,000 to large, stately homes in the Cedar Bend area that are priced in the $250,000 range.

Apartments predominate in the valley to the south. Young professionals and U-M graduate and medical students, plus a small concentration of retirees, typically reside in the Riverside complexes, which include the Island Drive and Medical Center Court apartments off Maiden Lane. Riverside has a higher turnover rate and has much less civic activism than the Broadway area.

High-rise condominiums at 1050 Wall Street along Riverside Park—the 1875 site of Alber & Co. Blacksmith and Wagon Shop—range in price from $65,000 to $160,000. The Riverhouse apartments facing Island Park were converted to condos about eight years ago and currently sell for approximately $40,000 to $80,000. Median income for Broadway/Riverside is $25,000. Schools are Northside Elementary, Clague Middle School, and Huron High.

8: North Campus

The area south of Plymouth Road and west of Huron Parkway is dominated by the U-M's North Campus, a mixture of classroom and research buildings, dormitories, and apartments and townhouses for married students.

The Huron River Plaza apartments and high-rise Huron Towers on Fuller Road augment the U-M's Baits and Bursley dorms and U-M married housing on Cram Circle and McIntyre to create a densely settled student neighborhood. A whopping 97 percent of households in the North Campus neighborhood are renters. But the family housing gives this a very different demographic profile from the older student areas near campus. Here, 77 percent are family households and 41 percent of the respondents have children.

Most of the few houses in the North Campus neighborhood were custom-built in the 1950's along Fuller Road and Glazier Way. They sell for anywhere from $150,000 to $500,000. The Orin White House, at 2940 Fuller Road across from Huron High, built in 1836, has a distinctive herringbone-patterned stone facade and is on the National Register of Historic Places.

North Campus children are bused to Angell, Logan, and Northside elementaries, although those south of Glazier Way attend Angell, and children living west of Murfin attend Northside. Median income in the North Campus neighborhood is $18,000.

9: Northwood V/ Vintage Valley

Northwood V is a large complex of townhouses for U-M married students. Vintage Valley is a subdivision made up of expensive custom-built homes where prices start at $250,000. The recently built Woodlands subdivision, located near Vintage Valley in the hilly, wooded area just north of Glazier Way, is even more expensive: custom-built homes are selling for $350,000 and up.

Despite the vast economic differences, these adjoining areas share an overwhelming emphasis on family; in the spring 1988 survey of thirty-one households in the neighborhood, the Northwood V/Vintage Valley neighborhood recorded the highest percentage of households with children—84 percent—in the entire city.

Children living in Northwood V are bused to Northside Elementary; other neighborhood children attend King. Clague is the middle school, and Huron is the high school.

Northwood residents considerably outnumber those in Vintage Valley (the neighborhood is 90 percent renters), which probably explains why this precinct usually votes Democratic—and why its median income is just $20,000.

10: Glacier Highlands/ Greenbrier

The Glacier Highlands subdivision is set on terraces formed by the drainage of the Huron River along the eastern edge of Green Road south of Plymouth (near Glazier Way). The sandy and silty loam soils in the area, which are part of the Defiance moraine, support large strands of oak, hickory, and other hardwoods.

Moderately winding streets are bordered by the manicured lawns of fifteen- to twenty-year-old single-family colonials that sell for $180,000 to $280,000. The Earhart Knolls homes, currently under construction off Glazier just west of Earhart, can cost as much as $250,000.

Farther north, off Green Road, is the 500-unit Greenbrier apartment complex and the Greenbrier subdivision. Colonial, Cape Cod, and tri-level houses, up to twenty-five years old, line the wooded streets. Greenbrier houses cost from $135,000 to $200,000.

The large number of renters in the Greenbrier and the newer Woods of Earhart apartments hold the median income level at $40,000 for this neighborhood. Children attend King Elementary, Clague Middle School, and Huron High.

11 & 12: Earhart/ Concordia & Geddes Lake

Just south of Glazier Way on Ann Arbor's far eastern side are the heavily wooded Waldenwood subdivision and the Geddes Lake Townhouses. Built on hilly glacial terraces, these neighborhoods range from contemporary custom-built homes on big lots in natural settings to neatly landscaped townhouses and condominiums.

The Waldenwood homes are priced from $200,000 to $525,000 and range in age from new to twenty years old. The Geddes Lake Co-op Townhouses, across Huron Parkway from Huron High and due west of Waldenwood, sell for $70,000 to $99,000.

East of Earhart Road, in a wooded, hilly natural setting, are the Earhart Village Condominiums. They were built about seventeen years ago in varying floor plans. A clubhouse and pool provide a focal point for residents, many of whom are prominent figures in the city and the U-M. Earhart Village condos are priced between $120,000 and $190,000.

The Watershed subdivision, south of Green just west of Watershed Road, features recently built single-family houses and condos. Adjacent Earhart West houses are about seven years old and slightly larger. Median income for a very small sample of the Earhart/Concordia neighborhood was $60,000 in 1988; in Geddes Lake, it was $72,500.

Not surprisingly, given the presence of the Glacier Hills retirement center, 36 percent of the area's residents are over age sixty. This is solidly Republican territory—residents haven't voted Democratic in local elections even once since the 1982 redistricting. Schools are King Elementary, Clague Middle School, and Huron High.

13: Geddes/Arboretum

Once known for its oak and hickory forests, the Geddes/Arboretum area south of the Huron River is made up of large and stately older homes built in the 1920's and 1930's, along with some modern custom-built homes toward the river and a few fraternity and sorority houses. The majority of the neighbors are longtime residents, with some young families moving in recently. Geddes/Arboretum is home to many prominent U-M professors.

Houses are priced anywhere from $200,000 to $500,000 or more for the recently built contemporary homes on Riverview. With a median income of $70,000 in 1988, this is one of the half-dozen most affluent neighborhoods in the city. Geddes is a swing precinct in the solidly Republican Second Ward. Schools are Angell Elementary, Tappan Middle School, and Huron High.

14: Bader/ Ann Arbor Hills Area

This neighborhood includes the whole area west of US-23 and north of Washtenaw up to Geddes Road and Huron River Drive. Winding, heavily wooded streets characterize the western portion located just north and east of the Washtenaw-Stadium intersection, where the Ann Arbor Hills, Tuomy Hills, and Woodhaven Hills subdivisions are situated. Homes vary in age from five to sixty years and range in price from $175,000 to $500,000. The architecture is varied, and many of the houses sit in isolated splendor on one-third to full acre lots.

Residents describe the neighborhood as friendly and quiet; neighbors are often seen walking along the shaded, winding roads. The mazelike streets are easy to get lost on. Bader/Ann Arbor Hills is home to a large number of U-M faculty and staff. Although it has a substantial segment of senior citizens, it has seen an increase in younger families over the last decade. New single-family houses currently under construction will expand Woodhaven Hills farther east on Overridge toward Huron Parkway.

The area east of Huron Parkway includes large older single-family homes along Chalmers and Woodland Road, and the small Thornoaks subdivision, consisting of smaller, custom-built homes constructed in the 1950's and 1960's. Houses in Thornoaks are priced from $150,000 to $250,000.

Over 91 percent of the residents in Bader/Ann Arbor Hills own their homes; 81 percent of all households are families, split between those with children living at home (33 percent) and those over sixty years of age (36 percent).

With a median household income of $80,000, Bader/Ann Arbor Hills is one of the city's wealthiest neighborhoods—a little richer than the older Geddes/Arboretum area to the northeast, and not quite as rich as the Ives Woods area to the west. Politically, it's one of the city's strongest Republican precincts. Schools are Angell, Burns Park, and King elementaries, Tappan and Clague middle schools, and Huron High. ►

15 & 16: Ives Woods & Burns Park

An older, established neighborhood, Ives Woods has a median income of $100,000—along with the Newport area on the northwest side, the highest in Ann Arbor. Older homes nested within this neighborhood's tree-lined streets sell for $250,000 to as much as $500,000. Many families (47 percent) have children at home. Schools are Burns Park Elementary, Tappan Middle School, and Pioneer High.

Just west of Ives Woods, slightly more modest homes mark the boundary of the Burns Park neighborhood. Moderately expensive single-family homes favored by academics are found in the eastern half, with student rental property dominating the area west of Packard. The North Burns Park area, north of Wells to Hill Street, also has a high student presence, although the majority of the houses remain family-owned. Larger fraternity, sorority, and cooperative houses and apartment buildings blend surprisingly well with older houses occupied by longtime residents and families.

Fifty-three percent of the residents in Burns Park are renters—which probably explains why what many in town think of as a posh faculty ghetto reports a below-average median household income of $33,000.

Houses in the Burns Park area sell for $90,000 and up—depending on who you talk to, perhaps as high as $400,000. While Ives Woods comprises one of the Third Ward's key swing precincts, Burns Park is solidly Democratic. Schools are Burns Park Elementary, Tappan Middle School, and Pioneer High.

17 & 18: South University & Central Campus/ Medical Campus

A wide range of housing can be found in these student-dominated neighborhoods bordering the U-M's central and medical campuses. Generally, these are older neighborhoods, dating back to the late 1800's and early 1900's. In the 1960's, newer apartment buildings, including the 62-unit Albert Terrace on Geddes, replaced some older houses before zoning restrictions effectively ended new construction near campus.

Sixty-four percent of all households in South University are comprised of unrelated adults—the highest percentage in the city. The median household income is $18,000, barely half the citywide average. Even that is high when compared to the neighboring Central Campus/ Medical neighborhoods, which are also popular student areas but lack the leavening of home owners. The city's most recent survey of twelve households there found a median annual household income of just $10,000—the lowest in the city. All the central and medical campus households surveyed are renters, and they didn't include a single person over the age of sixty.

19 & 20: Old Fourth Ward & North Central

The Old Fourth Ward and North Central areas sit side-by-side on the southern slopes of the Huron River valley—the Old Fourth Ward to the east, between Glen and Division streets, and North Central running from there to the Ann Arbor Railroad tracks just west of Main.

North Central doesn't appear often in city history, reflecting its lowly status as a poor, working-class area dominated by pollution from businesses that congregated along the Ann Arbor and Michigan Central railroads. Up until the passage of Ann Arbor's open housing law in the 1960's, North Central was also the heart of Ann Arbor's black residential area. These days, it houses a very diverse mixture of people, including city workers and retirees, U-M faculty and staff, professionals, and a slowly increasing number of young families. Sixty-eight percent of the households in the last city survey were renters, and only 3 percent had children at home.

Homes in the Old Fourth Ward vary greatly. There are 19th-century historic structures along North Division and many superb Victorian houses in the Kingsley area. These are interspersed with the squat brick apartment buildings that replaced many older houses in the 1960's. Today, over 96 percent of the households in the Old Fourth Ward are occupied by renters.

Olivia St. in Burns Park (16)

21 & 22: Downtown & South Central

Most of the Downtown area lies on a plain between the Defiance and Fort Wayne moraines. When the Huron-Erie lobe of the Wisconsinan glacier was in place 13,000 years ago, the Huron River was diverted to the west and flowed through the center of town toward Saline, leaving a flat lowland area in its path.

The first house in Ann Arbor, built in 1824 by one of the city's founders, Elisha Rumsey, was at the corner of Huron and First streets. As the downtown grew, it—and almost all other housing in the present downtown area—was demolished for commercial construction. It's only in the last decade that rehabbers have begun to rescue a few of the long vacant upstairs apartments in many downtown commercial buildings. More recently, they have been joined by a significant growth in owner-occupied housing, with construction of the Sloan Plaza condos on Huron and conversion of the Tower Plaza apartments to condos. Tower Plaza units are priced at $50,000 to $100,000, most Sloan plaza condos at $175,000 to $250,000, and the handful of condos on top of One North Main sell for an average of $235,000 to $250,000.

Overall, 65 percent of the area's households contain just one person—the highest percentage found among Ann Arbor neighborhoods—and not a single survey respondent in 1988 had children at home.

In the South Central area, toward Hill Street, a bluff descends from the downtown area to Allen Creek, a tributary (now hidden in a storm sewer) of the Huron River.

South Central is largely student housing: 92 percent of all households rent; 47 percent are shared by unrelated adults; and just 6 percent of the neighborhood residents are over age sixty. Median household income is $15,000 Downtown and $17,000 in South Central. Politically the area is divided between the First, Fourth, and Fifth wards and favors Democrats heavily.

23: Allmendinger

This neighborhood is bounded on the east and west by Main and Seventh streets, and on the north and south by Pauline and Stadium. Although a few houses date to the 1920's and 1930's, most were built after World War II. Single-family bungalows, small ranches, and a few story-and-a-halfs in the area range from $75,000 to $140,000. Sixty-seven percent of the area's households own their own homes; 24 percent have children at home. Median income is $38,500, and the area is solidly Republican. Schools are Bach and Mack elementaries, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High.

24: Old West Side

The Old West Side, much written about in city histories, has the distinction of being placed on the National Register of Historic Places, not just for its architecture, but for its overall historic character. A few of its houses are over 125 years old, and can be seen in photographs taken in the mid-1800's.

Part of the charm and character of the Old West Side is the mix of people—students, professionals, families, faculty, and senior citizens—who live comfortably here in modest houses built by early German settlers, as well as in some newer two-story colonial and custom-built houses and scattered apartment buildings. Prices run anywhere from $90,000 to $200,000.

Overall, the Old West Side (like many Ann Arbor neighborhoods) is seeing an increase in the number of more affluent young professional families. The small student presence is concentrated around First Street in small apartment buildings. Owner-rental households are evenly split (the 207-unit Nob Hill apartment complex is in this neighborhood). Median income is $30,000, slightly below the citywide median of $35,000.

Development in this neighborhood is always a hot issue. Plans have abounded for the property at the northeast corner of First and William, but none has been able to withstand the intense scrutiny of neighborhood residents and the Planning Department. Closer to downtown, however, on the northwest corner of William and Main, construction is underway on the Seasons, a 37-unit luxury condominium tower.

Political precincts in the Old West Side consistently vote Democratic in local elections. Schools are Eberwhite and Bach and Mack elementaries, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High.

25: West Park/Miller

This hilly neighborhood is dominated by West Park, first established in 1910. Nearly two-thirds of households are renters; the remainder own small frame houses that sell for around $65,000 to $125,000.

Forty-seven percent of the area's households are occupied by families, and 26 percent have children at home. Thanks in part to the presence of Miller Manor, the city-owned senior citizens' apartment building that towers over the northern edge of West Park, and Lurie Terrace, a subsidized senior citizens' building, nearly 30 percent of the residents are over age sixty. Median income is $30,000.

Until the city passed a fair housing ordinance in the 1960's, most of Ann Arbor's black population was concentrated in the Miller area and in the adjoining North Central neighborhood across the Ann Arbor Railroad tracks. Always racially heterogeneous, in recent years the Miller area has become more economically varied, as low-key young professionals and families found they liked the neighborhood's American small-town look and neighborly sociability.

This heavily Democratic neighborhood includes precincts in Wards One and Five. Schools are Mack Elementary, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High. ►

26: Mack School/Sunset

Houses come in all sizes and shapes in this immensely varied neighborhood: big 19th- and early-20th-century houses on Miller, modest ranches throughout the area south of Sunset and east of Newport that start at $80,000, and secluded, custom-built contemporary houses north of Sunset that cost $150,000 to $200,000 and up.

The neighborhood is marked by impressive hills on the Fort Wayne moraine and includes the highest point in Ann Arbor at the top of Sunset. Hunt Park at Spring Street and Sunset offers a splendid view of the downtown area. Another notable landmark is the city's water treatment plant, high up on a hill on the south side of Sunset near Newport Road, which pumps water from the Huron River at Barton Pond to Ann Arbor residents.

Mack School/Sunset is 77 percent owner-occupied households; nearly 62 percent are families; 28 percent have children at home. Median income is $40,000. The area votes solidly Democratic. Schools are Bach, Mack, and Wines elementaries, Forsythe and Slauson middle schools, and Pioneer High.

27: Newport

On the city's far northwest side, the spacious Newport area offers custom-built single-family colonials, ranches, and condominiums in an almost rural setting bounded by the Huron River on the north and east. Developed on former farmlands, these affluent subdivisions are dominated by family-minded professionals and business executives. Only fifteen responses to the household survey were received from the Newport neighborhood, but of those, median income was an incredible $100,000—tied for first place with Ives Woods.

The Newport West Condominiums, off Newport just north of M-14 and adjacent to Bird Hills Park, are priced from $130,000 to $200,000. Farther down Newport Road, near the Huron River, is the posh River Ridge subdivision. One-of-a-kind homes, set back off winding streets, sell for $250,000 to over $300,000. Large custom-built homes along Blueberry Lane are comparably priced.

All of the households sampled in the Newport area own their residences; 86 percent of them are families; 43 percent have children at home. Twenty percent are over age sixty.

Newport is located in one of the many swing precincts of the Fifth Ward. Schools are Wines Elementary, Forsythe Middle School, and Pioneer High.

28 & 29: Garden Homes/ Crescent & Haisley/ Veterans Park

These neighborhoods in the Miller, Jackson, and Stadium/Maple area are dominated by moderately priced ranches, Cape Cods, and small colonials. Some are less than five years old; others have been around for half a century.

Garden Homes's bi-level and ranch houses are in the $80,000 to $140,000 price range. The Martin Acres subdivision, within the Hatcher-Saunders Crescent loop, has ranches and tri-levels for $75,000 to $110,000.

Home owners constitute 81 percent of this neighborhood's households; median income is $44,000. Schools are Wines Elementary, Forsythe Middle School, and Pioneer High.

The Haisley area ranches, like Garden Homes, run between $80,000 and $120,000. In the nearby Wildwood area between Dexter and Miller roads, two-story traditional houses sell for $90,000 to $160,000. Median income here is $40,000, just above the city's average.

Haisley is a politically diverse area that includes a solidly Democratic precinct east of Revena, two swing precincts, and part of a third swing precinct. Garden Homes/Crescent is the city's quintessential swing precinct. It has supported every council and mayoral winner since the 1982 redistricting—voting in the process for seven Democrats and six Republicans. Schools are Haisley, Bach, and Mack elementaries, Slauson and Forsythe middle schools, and Pioneer High.

Crest St. in Eberwhite Woods (32)

30 & 31: Virginia Park & Winewood/Thaler

Between Jackson and Liberty from Crest Street west to Stadium, homes go from old to relatively new in a fairly steady progression. The transformation recapitulates the west side's gradual expansion away from the downtown core. Virginia Park is the eastern and older section, running from Crest to Glendale; Winewood/Thaler continues west from there to Stadium Boulevard, where its western edge is lined with small commercial buildings.

The Virginia Park area has a lot of two-family duplexes, particularly on Bemidji Street. Most were built in the 1960's and sell for about $120,000 to $150,000. The newly constructed duplexes at the south end of Glendale start at $180,000. There are also older single-family homes and Cape Cods in this area that are priced from $90,000 to $150,000. Seventy-six percent of Virginia Park's households own their own homes; median income is $50,000.

In the city's latest survey, 71 percent of Winewood/Thaler's households were renters. (The 75-unit Charlton and 120-unit Westwood apartment complexes are in this neighborhood, and many of the smaller houses in the neighborhood are also rented out.) Starter homes, ranches, and Cape Cods, along with a small number of duplexes, sell for $80,000 to $110,000.

Both of these Fifth Ward areas are located in a swing precinct. Schools are Eberwhite Elementary, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High.

32: Eberwhite Woods

Named for Eber White, an early farmer who helped fugitive slaves escape to Canada, Eberwhite Woods is one of the loveliest neighborhoods on the west side of town. It's made up of several small subdivisions, along with rental property in the Pauline-Arbordale-Northwood area.

Most of the houses in this area were built between 1915 and 1935. Rolling tree-lined streets are showcases for a variety of two-story traditionals. The smaller houses, which are rarely available, are priced around $110,000; larger ones sell for $175,000.

Dover-Parkside, a subdivision along Dartmoor Street, was built in the 1960's by George Airey, who also developed subdivisions in the Dicken neighborhood. Houses are priced in the $125,000 to $200,000 range.

Seventy-four percent of the Eberwhite Woods households are home owners; 34 percent are seniors; and 33 percent have children. Schools are Eberwhite Elementary, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High.

33 & 34: Pauline/ Stadium & Dicken

This flat area was farmed up into the early part of this century. Today, the area is dotted with heavily landscaped subdivisions and a sprinkling of wooded areas near Pioneer High School and Greenview Park.

Most of the houses in the Pauline/Stadium neighborhood were built in the 1950's and 1960's. Ranches sell for $110,000 to $150,000 and colonials in the Meadowbrook Avenue area cost $150,000 to $175,000. The Wilson White Company owns two apartment complexes in this neighborhood—Stadium Apartments and Van Dusen Manor.

Families constitute 68 percent of the Pauline/Stadium households. Median income is $33,000—almost at the city's average of $35,000. Schools for the Pauline/Stadium neighborhood are Eberwhite Elementary, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High.

Across Stadium to the southwest, in the family-oriented Dicken/Vernon Downs area,

GREGORY FOX

93 percent of the residents own their homes. Houses vary from twenty-five-year-old ranches like those on Norfolk and Suffolk to the spacious ranches and two-story colonials in the Barnard Heights subdivision near Dicken School. The smaller ranches, many constructed by area builder George Airey, start at $85,000, and the larger homes sell for between $95,000 and $200,000. Median income is $50,000 in the Dicken neighborhood, considerably higher than in nearby Pauline/Stadium. Both are solidly Republican areas divided between the Fourth and Fifth wards. Schools are Dicken and Lawton elementaries, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High.

35: South Maple

Located on the city's far west side, just east of I-94, this area is dominated by condominiums and apartment complexes concentrated in a dense cluster around the intersection of Pauline and Maple. Walden Hills, which has both rental apartments and apartments that have been converted to condominiums, is just north of Pauline. Across the road, a newer complex of contemporary condominiums on Pauline Court is set back behind a berm that makes the units barely visible from the road. The condo conversions sell for $45,000 to $75,000, and the Pauline Court condos sell for $120,000 to $150,000. Also off Pauline are the Park Place and adjacent Hillcrest apartments. Across South Maple, from the east, are the new 167-unit Surrey Park apartments, the Pine Lake Village Co-op, and the South Maple public housing project.

Median income for this neighborhood is $28,500. This area is in the Fifth Ward, with South Maple Road serving as the dividing line between a heavily Republican precinct to the east and a heavily Democratic precinct to the west. Elementary schoolchildren in Pine Lake Village are bused to Lawton School. Otherwise, schools are Dicken Elementary, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High. ►

36: Lakewood

This westernmost subdivision of Ann Arbor is bounded by I-94, Liberty Road, and Wagner Road. Near the Fort Wayne moraine, in what is known as a kettle hole (a depression left behind when buried blocks of glacial ice melt), the Lakewood neighborhood has a rare blend of residents—both professionals and blue-collar workers.

Older colonials and newer custom-built tri-levels and ranches (some built in the 1920's), which border wooded areas near First and Second Sister lakes, are in the $125,000 to $170,000 range. Smaller ranches that went up in the 1940's, 1950's, and 1960's start at $90,000. The recently constructed 360-unit Liberty Pointe condominiums are priced at $120,000 and up. Newly built homes in the Liberty Glen subdivision range from $160,000 to $200,000.

Lakewood is home to a number of U-M faculty and staff as well as retired people. Families are predominant in this neighborhood: 95 percent of the households surveyed in 1988 were families, and 45 percent had children at home. Schools are Dicken Elementary, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High.

37: Lansdowne

The Lansdowne subdivision surrounds South Seventh Street south of Scio Church Road. Its meticulously kept lawns and large, modern homes make it Ann Arbor's model of a classic suburb. Some newer streets still have the characteristic openness of a new suburb, but others are already lined with mature trees.

Lansdowne's families tend to be older than their neighbors in the newer Churchill Downs and Meadowbrook subdivisions. Houses are generally about twenty years old, although some date back to the mid 1960's, and a few are newer. They vary from ranches, colonials, and tri-levels to traditionals, with prices ranging from $160,000 to $275,000.

The Churchill Downs subdivision is west of Lansdowne and is made up of slightly newer (fifteen-year-old) and less expensive single-family ranch, colonial, and tri-level houses in the $125,000 to $180,000 price range. Like Lansdowne, it is popular with families.

The Meadowbrook Village apartments and Meadowbrook subdivision, built in the last three years, are located on the west side of Ann Arbor-Saline Road just north of I-94. The houses are single-family bi-levels and ranches priced from $110,000 to $150,000. Occupants range from retirees to young families; there are few young children in the apartment complex. The Meadowbrook apartments feature unusual floor plans designed for unrelated people who live together: in two-bedroom units, both bedrooms have adjoining baths, and they sit at opposite ends of the apartment with common living areas in between.

Home owners dominate the neighborhood's demographics. Although Ann Arbor is disproportionately single and childless, a whopping 88 percent of the households here are families, and 55 percent have children at home. Schools are Lawton Elementary, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High. Median household income in 1988 was $55,000. Republicans refer to these Fourth Ward neighborhoods as their "home run" precincts, regularly showing the biggest voter turnouts in the city.

38 & 39: Hidden Valley & Boardwalk

These neighborhoods, just north and east of Briarwood, have only a smattering of houses off Main Street, on Valhalla near Scio Church and on Golfview past Ann Arbor-Saline Road. Housing here is dominated by the 324-unit Hidden Valley apartment complex on South State and, off South Main, the 108-unit Burlington Woods townhouses.

In the city's last Household Survey, 96 percent of the households were renters, 50 percent were single-person households, and not a single household surveyed had children. Median income was $30,000.

40 & 51: Cranbrook & Briarwood

These neighboring areas were once dense woods and open fields. Since Briarwood's completion in 1974, they have been transformed into a profusion of commercial, office, and residential development.

As recently as the city's 1986 Household Survey, the Cranbrook senior citizens' tower was the only housing in this area. As a result, it recorded a median income of just $7,500. But since February of 1987 about 200 apartments and townhouses in Woodland Meadows, located at the corner of Main Street and Ann Arbor-Saline Road, have come on the rental market, with the highest rents of any Ann Arbor apartment complex. The median income mushroomed from the 1986 figure of $7,500 to an astounding $50,000 in 1988.

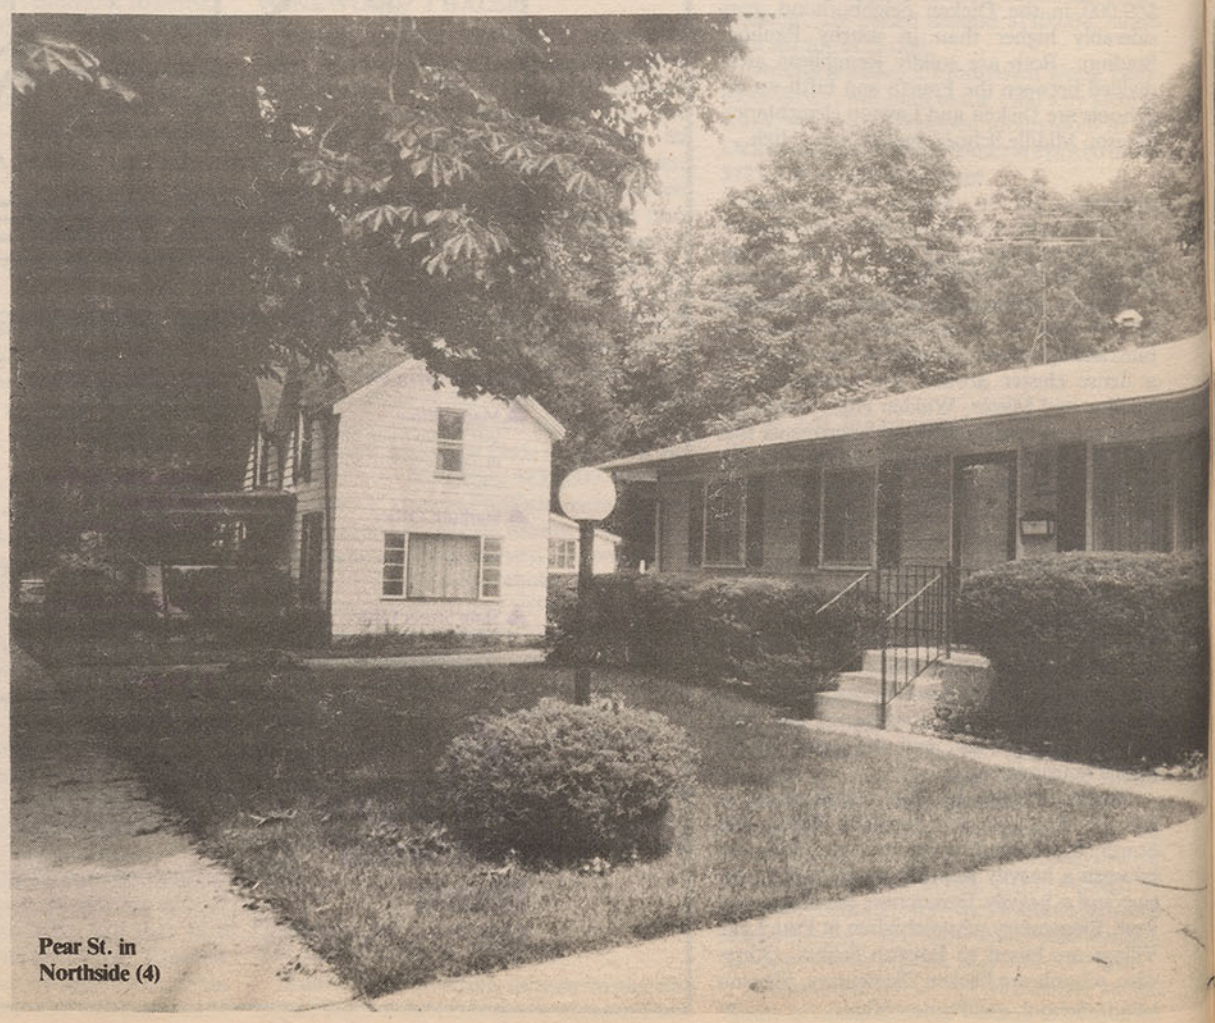
That income is likely to fall to more normal levels as additional new complexes open. In the summer of 1989, three projects were under way in this neighborhood: a new 260-unit senior citizens' complex next to the Cranbrook tower and, across Eisenhower, the 288-unit Briar Cove and 324-unit Signature Villas complexes. When they're complete, the area will have added close to 1,000 apartments in just under three years.

41: Woodbury Gardens/ Rosewood/Jewett

Moderately priced houses built in the 1940's and 1950's are mixed here with modern apartments. The Woodbury Gardens complex features a clubhouse and one-, two-, and three-bedroom apartments and townhouses. The complex takes its name from the U-M Botanical Gardens, which were located in the Stadium/Iroquois area from 1915 until their move to Dixboro Road in 1959.

This area's western border along South Industrial is home to numerous small commercial and industrial businesses that spill over onto the western portions of Rosewood and Jewett streets. Along the eastern ends of the tree-lined streets there are single-family ranches and small Cape Cods that sell for $60,000 to $95,000.

Median household income is $37,000; 66 percent of households are renters, and 30 percent have children at home. Schools are Bryant/Pattengill and Burns Park elementaries, Tappan Middle School, and Pioneer High.



Pear St. in Northside (4)

42: Georgetown/Pine Valley

These two subdivisions are southwest of Packard Road and stretch across Eisenhower Parkway all the way to I-94. Single-family houses in these areas are a mix of tri-levels, ranches, colonials, and Cape Cods.

The ranch houses that dominate the Pine Valley neighborhood north of the Georgetown shopping center are priced from $120,000 to $170,000. Georgetown's homes, to the southwest, are somewhat larger and sell for $120,000 to $175,000. The 164-unit Pine Valley apartments and townhouses and the 168-unit Spruce Knob apartments are also located in this neighborhood.

Sixty-five percent of these households are owner-occupied; 63 percent are families; and 40 percent have children at home. Schools are Bryant/Pattengill elementaries, Tappan Middle School, and Pioneer High. Twenty percent of the residents are over age sixty. Median household income is $40,000.

Both Georgetown and Pine Valley subdivisions have winding tree-lined streets. Georgetown has the advantage of a public golf course, a private pool, and a tennis court. Functioning as Georgetown's social hub, the country club heightens the neighborhood's strong sense of cohesiveness; many residents feel that Georgetown is one of the most social neighborhoods in Ann Arbor. Politically, it is second only to Lansdowne as a Republican stronghold.

43 & 44: Pattengill/ St. Francis & Kimberly Hills

Southeast of the Packard-Stadium area, on what was once prime farmland, are a number of neighborhoods built shortly after World War II and on into the 1950's and 1960's.

The Pattengill/St. Francis neighborhood is fairly evenly divided between renters and home owners in the Arbor Hills apartments and the Ann Arbor Woods apartments and subdivision. The older and smaller bi-level and ranch houses in this area start at $90,000, with newly constructed houses selling for as much as $200,000. The Nature Cove condominiums at the end of St. Francis Street are just a few years old and sell for $125,000 to $200,000. In the 1988 Household Survey, median household income was $35,000, the same as the citywide median.

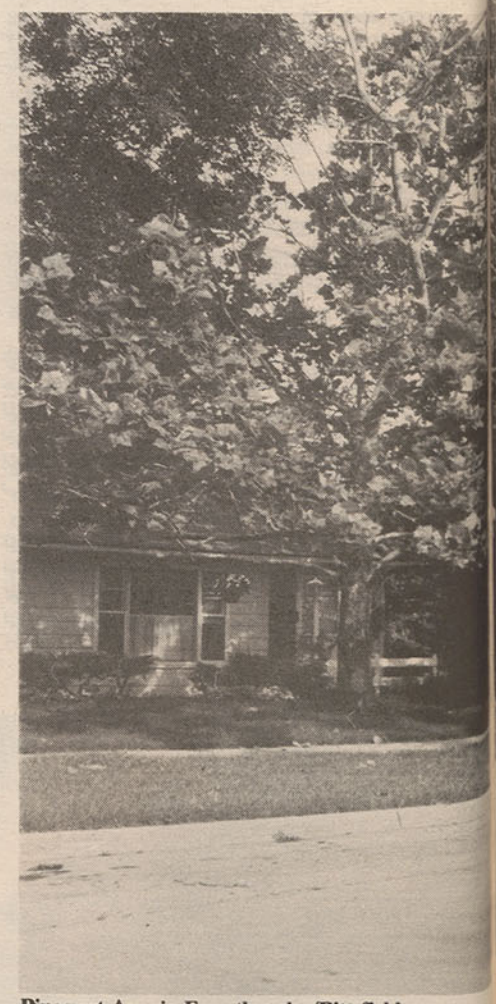
In Kimberly Hills, 95 percent of the households own their residences. Fully 80 percent of the households are families, and 37 percent have children at home. Retirees represent 21 percent of the residents. New and old houses of varying architecture occupy tree-lined streets. Older homes are in the $150,000 to $225,000 price range. Some newly built houses along Gladstone run about $200,000 to $250,000. Nearby, a 134-unit upscale apartment complex, the Ponds of Georgetown, was recently constructed across Packard Road from the Georgetown Mall.

Median household income is well above the city's average, at $60,000. Schools are Bryant/Pattengill elementaries, Tappan Middle School, and Pioneer High, except that children living on Manchester and Colony attend Allen Elementary and Huron High.



Pinecrest Ave. in Forestbrooke/Pittsfield Village (46)

45: Allen School/Buhr Park

This neighborhood is bounded by Packard on the south, Platt Road and Huron Parkway on the east, Washtenaw to the north, and Manchester to the west. It is the home of Buhr Park, with its much used swimming pool, and Cobblestone Farm.

Houses, which are generally on gently rolling terrain, range from tiny brick-trimmed frame ranches built after World War II ($60,000 to $100,000) to large colonials and tri-levels built in the 1960's that can sell for as much as $165,000.

In this area, 76 percent of the households own their residences; 26 percent have children at home; and 27 percent are senior households. Median income is $42,000.

The Allen School/Buhr Park neighborhood lies in the Third Ward and includes the seventh and part of the sixth precinct, both of which usually vote Republican. Schools are Allen Elementary, Tappan Middle School, and Huron High.

46: Forestbrooke/ Pittsfield Village

This heavily settled neighborhood is bordered by Huron Parkway, Platt, Packard, and Washtenaw roads, and US-23. The northern Washtenaw Avenue border is packed with commercial businesses.

The two-, three-, and four-bedroom townhouses along and off of Pittsfield Boulevard were built in 1943. McKinley Properties took over the 422-unit complex a couple of years ago, fixed up the aging units, and changed its name from Pittsfield Village to the Village Townhomes. McKinley is now selling off units to individual owners as "market rate co-ops."

West of Pittsfield on the streets between Platt and Parkwood is the Darlington subdivision. Small starter homes (Cape Cods, ranches, colonials), some of them fifty years old, sell in the $50,000 to $100,000 range. Forestbrooke, the twenty-seven-year-old area east of Pittsfield, has a mixture of ranches, colonials, Cape Cods, and tri-levels going for $90,000 to $140,000. It has a neighborhood pool.

This neighborhood is fairly evenly split between renters and home owners; that may change if the Village Townhomes sell well. Families make up 70 percent of the households; 39 percent have children at home. Schools are Pittsfield Elementary, Scarlett Middle School, and Huron High.

GREGORY FOX

47 & 48: Brown Park & Scarlett/Mitchell

Young families find this area on the far southeast side of town appealing; the prices are right, and shopping and schools are nearby. Small three-bedroom ranches in both areas, built in the 1950's and 1960's, range in price from $50,000 to $100,000. A few two-story colonials, built in the 1960's in the Scarlett/Mitchell area, cost between $85,000 and $155,000.

The Brown Park area has a higher percentage of renters (61 percent) than the Scarlett/Mitchell area (43 percent). The difference is the 281-unit Mill Creek Townhouses on Birch Hollow east of Stone School Road, and the 112-unit Homestead Common apartments off Eisenhower near Packard Road.

In the Scarlett/Mitchell area, the Colonial Square Cooperative, on Wolverine and Williamsburg off Platt Road, offers rental townhouse units that are shared by both professionals and blue-collar workers. Colonial Square has a higher initial member buy-in fee than most other co-ops in town, but it also has the lowest rents. With one-bedroom units renting for under $200, it's no surprise that the close-knit co-op traditionally has a long waiting list.

In the Scarlett/Mitchell area, 75 percent of the households are families; 49 percent have children at home. In Brown Park, 61 percent are families, and 28 percent have children at home. About 20 percent of the residents in both areas are over sixty. Median household income is below the citywide average: $32,500 for the Brown Park neighborhood and $27,600 for the Scarlett/Mitchell neighborhood.

Brown Park always votes Democratic, while Scarlett/Mitchell is a predominantly Democratic area that occasionally supports Republicans. Schools are Mitchell Elementary, Scarlett Middle School, and Huron and Pioneer high schools.

49: Bryant

The Bryant neighborhood, just off Ellsworth and Stone School roads, is built on open and slightly rolling terrain, with young trees taking hold on many of the streets. The neighborhood is almost entirely made up of the Arbor Oaks subdivision along Champagne off Stone School Road (also known as Stonybrook) and the Forest Hills and University Townhouses co-ops that sit north of Ellsworth Road between Stone School and Platt roads. All three developments were built in the late 1960's and early 1970's as federally supported low-cost housing. Arbor Oaks houses are small two- and three-bedroom ranches, most without basements, that sell for $35,000 to $50,000, making them the least expensive single-family homes in the city. Median household income is low for Ann Arbor at $24,500.

Seventy-six percent of Bryant households are occupied by families. The city's second-highest concentration of children is found here: 68 percent of the surveyed households have children at home. Schools for this heavily Democratic area are Bryant/Pattengill elementaries (Braeburn Circle children are bused to Allen Elementary), Tappan Middle School, and Pioneer High.

50: Research Park/ Pheasant Run

The Research Park/Pheasant Run neighborhood lies across Stone School Road from the Bryant neighborhood. It is an intensely research- and commercial-oriented area, with a single residential complex. The 472-unit Pheasant Run apartments just south of I-94 comprise 100 percent of the neighborhood's residents. Median income is $30,000.

51: (see 40)

52: Abbot School

This neighborhood lies on the far west side of town in the vee-shaped area formed where M-14 and I-94 converge, with Maple Road as its eastern edge. It includes the north end of the Stadium/Maple commercial strip, older homes south of Dexter Road, and the Hollywood Park subdivision to the north.

In Hollywood Park, off Maple along Hollywood and Sequoia Parkway, most of the houses are single-family, two-story colonials, Cape Cods, ranches, and tri-levels, costing between $85,000 and $150,000. Farther west, out Dexter Road, houses come in a variety of ages and styles, and they range from $75,000 to $125,000. South of Dexter just east of I-94, the 320-unit Arbor Landings apartment complex was nearing completion in the summer of 1989.

The Abbot School neighborhood is largely families—88 percent by recent survey; 49 percent of them have children at home. Median household income is $47,500. This neighborhood is one of the Fifth Ward's solidly Republican strongholds. Schools are Abbot and Wines elementaries, Forsythe Middle School, and Pioneer High.

SYLVAN WILL.

Sylvan Learning Centers are a group of private neighborhood educational centers designed to help your child do better in school. We test in order to pinpoint the specific areas in which your child needs help. And we attack the problem with an individually designed program. Positive motivation, friendly encouragement, an experience of success right from the start, and individualized attention make all the difference.

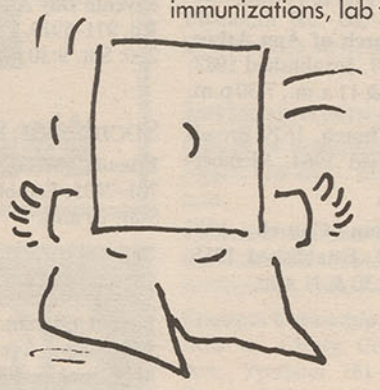
What a difference my plan makes!

With Care Choices HMO, there's no confusion about coverage. I used to belong to a health insurance plan that had more rules than benefits. I couldn't tell if I was covered or not. If I was covered, how much was covered wasn't always clear. But with Care Choices, it's simple, because after a small co-pay, I'm covered for most everything from office visits to hospitalization. No confusing doctor bills. No complicated claim forms. No worry about what's covered and what's not.

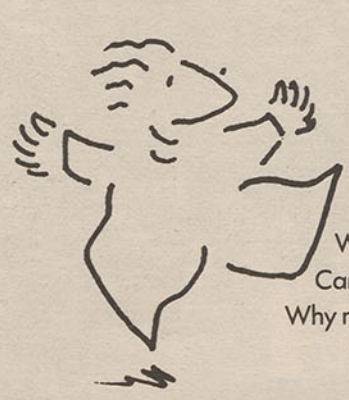
I'm not boxed in by the restrictions of traditional health plans. With my old plan, I had to learn the meaning of phrases like "reasonable and customary" and "may require predetermination." With Care Choices, all I need to understand is "covered."

Now I have a plan to stay healthy. Because Care Choices is an HMO, I don't have to wait until I get sick to be covered, like I did with my old plan. Care Choices covers preventive care like routine office visits, well-baby care, immunizations, lab tests and more. Can you say that about your plan?



I understand my benefits without constantly reading my policy. Before, there was always a question about whether or not I was covered. With Care Choices the answer is a simple "yes." So I don't need to keep my policy close at hand. My plan's coverage is as plain as the nose on my face!

With Care Choices, I have the security of knowing I'm covered for emergency care anywhere. Coverage in an emergency means the world to me. Really. Because I'm covered anywhere on the globe for emergency care. Whether I'm out of town, out of state or out of the country, I'm not out of luck with Care Choices.



Confidence is one of the biggest benefits I get from Care Choices. Confidence that I have access to some of the area's best doctors, over 400 private practice physicians in all. And some of the most respected hospitals, including Catherine McAuley Health Center, Chelsea Community Hospital, Saline Community Hospital and McPherson Hospital. Confidence that I'll find all the care I need right in my community. Confidence in my coverage. What a difference my plan makes!

Care Choices Health Plans could make a big difference to you, too. Why not find out? Ask your employer today.

Health Care

New clinics and services become available all the time. This information is current as of July 1989. Emergency phone numbers and services are listed on p. 152.

For descriptions of the various mental health services and health-related support groups in Ann Arbor, see the Community Services section (p. 79).

Many of the clinics and health centers listed below accept a wide variety of insurance coverage. Others accept only one kind, or none. In most cases, major credit cards are accepted for payment. It is wise to call ahead to find out what insurance and payment options are accepted.

Hospitals

Catherine McAuley Health Center (CMHC)

Emergency Department: 572–3000
General Information: 572–5300

How to get there: McAuley is located on East Huron River Drive between Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti. AATA bus routes #3 (Huron River Drive) and #6 (S. Industrial-Ellsworth) both serve CMHC.

Southbound Golfside Drive and Hewitt Road (accessible from Ellsworth, Packard, and Washtenaw) both end at entrances to McAuley Health Center.

Geddes Road eastbound from Huron Parkway meets Dixboro Road. Southbound Dixboro dead-ends at East Huron River Drive.

Description: CMHC is a private, nonprofit institution owned by the Sisters of Mercy Health Corporation. St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, founded in 1911, is the core around which the health center has expanded. Along with St. Joe's, the center includes the Reichert Health Building, Mercywood Hospital, the Huron Oaks facility, and several other outpatient clinics and services. Additional clinics and testing facilities are located throughout Ann Arbor and in neighboring communities.

As a Catholic affiliate, CMHC has policies that prohibit the dispensing and prescribing of contraceptives and the performance of vasectomies or elective abortions.

Parking and shuttle service: Parking at the Reichert Health Building, the Education Center, Mercywood, Huron Oaks, and most other patient facilities is free. Visitor lots nearest the hospital tower and emergency room charge a 50¢ exit fee. The lots have senior parking and handicap spaces.

Free shuttle buses continuously circle the center, stopping at shelters and building entrances to pick up pedestrians. Buses run Mon.– Fri. 8:30 a.m.–9 p.m. and Sat. & Sun. noon–6 p.m.

CMHC Major Facilities and Programs

Note: Facilities are located at the E. Huron River Dr. location unless otherwise noted.

Academic programs. The physician education program at CMHC operates three clinics where intern and resident physicians treat patients under the supervision of staff physicians. The program also provides services for people without health insurance: Internal Medicine, 434–4366; Surgery, 572–3971; and Obstetrics & Gynecology, 572–3967.

Alpha House, 4290 Jackson Rd. 662–0533. Extended residential treatment for recovering chemically dependent adolescents.

Ambulatory Surgery Facility. 572–5000. Performs testing and surgery on an outpatient basis.

Amicare Home Health Services; Amicare Home Health Resources. 995–1922. Amicare Home Health Services provides in-home nursing and therapeutic services for aged and disabled patients. Amicare Home Health Resources provides medical equipment and supplies for use in the home.

Hospice of Washtenaw. 677–0614. Run by Amicare. Provides care for the terminally ill and support for their families.

Huron Oaks. 572–4300. Residential treatment for chemically dependent adolescents and adults.

Maple Health Building, 501 N. Maple at Dexter Rd. 662–5222. Houses an urgent care clinic (see Urgent Care Clinics, p. 67), a cardiac rehabilitation program, and physicians' offices.

McAuley Urgent Care and McAuley Pediatric Urgent Care. See Urgent Care Clinics, p. 67.

Mercywood Health Building. 572–5678. Provides inpatient and outpatient mental health care for adolescents, adults, and seniors.

Neighborhood Health Clinic, 201 S. Hamilton, Ypsilanti, 482–9800. Offers outpatient health care, education, and screening to low-income Ypsilanti area residents.

Office of Health Promotion. 572–3675. Offers health screening and various educational programs. Programs include "Smoke Stoppers," "Be Trim," "The Back School," and "Stress Management." Classes are given in cardiac, diabetes, and ostomy education. Speakers on various health issues are available by arrangement. Free health screenings (blood pressure checks, vision and glaucoma testing, hearing and hearing-aid testing, sickle cell screening) are provided by the Health Promotion Van and at various Ann Arbor locations throughout the year.

Reichert Health Building. 572–5300. Combines the outpatient services of approximately

University of Michigan Medical Center (UMMC)

Emergency Services: 936–6666
General Information: 936–4000

How to get there: The UMMC is located between the U-M main and north campuses, accessible from Observatory St., Fuller Rd., Glen Ave., or Maiden Lane. AATA bus routes #2 (Plymouth), #4 (Washtenaw), and #14 (Geddes-Stadium) serve the UMMC.

Signs on westbound Washtenaw in the campus area direct drivers to the UMMC via Observatory St.

Westbound Plymouth Rd. and southbound Pontiac Trail each intersect with Broadway near Maiden Lane, which leads into the Medical Center from the north.

Description: The UMMC includes a medical school, whose faculty serve as the hospitals' medical staff. The hospitals in turn provide educational and research facilities for students and faculty. As a research institution, the UMMC can offer new and experimental treatments not available elsewhere. Patients at a research hospital may also find themselves being scrutinized and discussed by medical students and faculty.

The Medical Center is comprised of a network of specialty hospitals and the new adult general hospital; the Taubman Center, housing over 110 specialty outpatient clinics; several other outpatient clinics; the Taubman Medical Library; and many research facilities. There are over 1,550 physicians and 1,400 nurses on the medical staff of the UMMC. There are numerous clinics affiliated with the UMMC throughout Ann Arbor and surrounding communities.

Parking: Parking is primarily in the Patient/Visitor Parking Deck next to the Taubman Center and the main entrance to University Hospital. There is some visitor parking across from Mott/Women's/Holden hospitals. Cost is 60¢ for the first three hours, 25¢ for each of the next three hours, and $1 for each of the last two hours, with a maximum daily charge of $4.50.

Free shuttle buses run between the many campus area buildings. The North Ingalls Building–Mott/Women's shuttle runs every 20 minutes 6:45 a.m.–6:05 p.m. The Riverview, Kellogg Eye, Taubman, CAPH shuttle runs every 30 minutes 8 a.m.–6:30 p.m. The U-M bus system also stops at the Medical Center (see Parking & Transportation, p. 24).

Henry Ford Medical Center of Ann Arbor

There's no one quite like us.

Like our personal physicians.

Henry Ford physicians in Ann Arbor practice family medicine with a personal touch. We offer you and your family personal care in:

- Internal Medicine
- Family Practice
- Pediatrics
- Dermatology

Plus, we have on-site x-ray and lab services. Our physicians also have admitting privileges at local hospitals.

Like our convenience.

We've got the time to take care of you. Regular hours at the Ann Arbor Center are:

- 9 a.m.-9 p.m., Monday through Thursday
- 9 a.m.-6 p.m., Friday
- 9 a.m.-3 p.m., Saturday

Call 973-3090 for same-day appointments, Monday through Saturday, for both children and adults. Walk-in patients are also welcome.

Like our location.

The Ann Arbor Center, 2755 Carpenter Rd., is conveniently located on the second floor of the professional building, just south of Washtenaw Avenue. There's plenty of free parking.

Like our coverage.

We participate in McAuley Health Plan, Blue Cross/Blue Shield, Medicare, major commercial insurance companies, and Health Alliance Plan.

Like our Cholesterol Screenings.

The Ann Arbor Center is currently offering cholesterol and high blood pressure screenings, every Wednesday from 4-8 p.m. The low $5 fee covers both tests. The screenings only take a short time, but we do ask that you call 973-3090 to reserve an appointment during screening hours.

M-Care Northeast Ann Arbor, 2200 Green Rd. 998–7485. Offers internal medicine and ob/gyn care only. Mon., Thurs., & Fri. 8:30 a.m.–4 p.m.; Tues. 1–7:30 p.m.; Wed. 10 a.m.–5 p.m.

University Health Service (UHS), 207 Fletcher St. Provides medical services to current U-M students. Faculty and staff who are members of the U-M prepaid health plan can also use UHS services without further fees. For both groups, however, there are fees for eye exams, psychiatric counseling, and prescription drugs.

UHS also sees alumni, faculty, staff, U-M retirees, and their spouses, significant others, and dependents over ten years old on a fee basis. M-Care HMO members can choose UHS as their health care site.

Appointments are encouraged, since walk-in visits frequently require a lengthy wait. Open Mon.–Fri. 8 a.m.–4:30 p.m. & Sat. 9 a.m.–noon; from June through August, Mon.–Fri. hours start at 8:30 a.m. For an appointment, call 764–8325. The Information Hotline, 764–8320, has a three-minute recording of hours and general information. For further information, call 763–4511.

Washtenaw Clinic, 2755 Carpenter Rd. 971–7694. Private general medical care. Also treats walk-ins. Mon.–Fri. 8 a.m.–11 p.m.; Sat. 9 a.m.–9 p.m.; Sun. 10 a.m.–6 p.m. Shorter holiday hours.

WE HAVE THE BEST INFORMATION IN THESE PARTS.

Modern medicine boasts something that can lower blood pressure, control diabetes and ease pain. It isn't a miracle drug or a complicated operation. It's information, pure and simple. And you can get it free, 24 hours a day, just by calling Ask-A-Nurse.®

When you call, you'll be speaking with a professional registered nurse. Someone who can help when your baby has a fever at three in the morning. When you're worried about cholesterol. When you can't decide whether you need to go to the emergency room. When you need to lose a few pounds. Even when you need to find a doctor who suits your needs.

So practice some preventive medicine and jot down our phone number now. It could do wonders for you.

Ann Arbor-Based Health Maintenance Organizations (HMO's)

An HMO is a lot like health insurance, except that the subscriber's choice of physicians and facilities is limited. On behalf of companies and organizations, the HMO contracts with physicians, clinics, hospitals, and other health care providers to provide health care coverage for their employees.

Care Choices Health Plans (formerly McAuley Health Plan). A subsidiary of the Sisters of Mercy Health Corporation and affiliated locally with the Catherine McAuley Health Center. Also offers coverage in Livingston, Oakland, and western Wayne counties. Membership in mid-1989 was 78,000.

Care Choices is not currently offered to individual subscribers. Businesses interested in information on Care Choices coverage for their employees can call 971-7667. People who are already Care Choices members, or who are currently being offered membership through their employers, can call (800) 852-9780 (Mon.-Fri. 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.) for information.

M-Care. Offered locally in conjunction with the U-M Medical Center and its satellite clinics. Also offers coverage in Oakland, Livingston, Macomb, and Wayne counties. Membership in mid-1989 was 25,000.

M-Care is not currently offered to individual subscribers. Businesses interested in information on M-Care coverage for their employees can call 747-8700. People who are already M-Care members, or who are currently being offered membership through their employers, can call 747-8700 (24 hours) for information.

Health Services

Washtenaw County Human Services Department

This department (formerly the Health Department) offers a wide range of medical and health-related programs at various locations throughout Washtenaw County. Most services to county residents are free. There is a sliding scale fee for some programs. For general information call 971-3993. Programs and services are listed according to the division through which they are offered.

Community Mental Health Services. Adult walk-in services at 2929 Plymouth Rd., 994-2285. Child and adolescent walk-in services at 2940 Ellsworth Rd., Ypsilanti, 434-1150. Drug treatment and prevention services, 994-2601. Emergency 24-hour walk-in treatment at the University Hospital Emergency Service, or call 996-4747.

Department of Social Services. 994-1820. Visits troubled families and makes recommendations for foster care; teenage pregnancy and parenting services; youth substance abuse prevention program.

Public Health Division. 994-2490. Programs include communicable disease control; immunizations; crippled children's services; environmental services; family planning; infant mortality prevention; Medicaid screening; prenatal and postpartum care; public health nursing (home visitation, telephone consultation, and referral); school health education; school hearing and vision testing; school public health nursing; sexually transmitted diseases clinic and AIDS counseling and testing; tuberculosis clinic; well child clinic; supplemental food program for women, infants, and children (WIC); worksite wellness.

Chemical Dependency

Ann Arbor Consultation Services, 5331 Plymouth Rd. 996-9111. Private organization offering individual, group, and family therapy to substance abuse clients on an outpatient basis. Also conducts chemical dependency clinical training for psychologists and psychiatrists.

Chemical Dependency Program, CMHC. 572-4300. Offers both inpatient and outpatient treatment programs. The Huron Oaks facility provides residential treatment for chemically dependent adults and adolescents. Alpha House (4290 Jackson Rd.) provides extended residential treatment for recovering adolescents.

CLEAR House Chemical Dependency Program, 704 Spring. 663-2500. An outpatient chemical dependency program sponsored by Washtenaw United Way.

Dawn Farm, 544 N. Division. 769-7360. A United Way agency. A nine-month residential treatment program for drug abusers 18-35 years old. Accepts indigent clients. ►

Dental Services

Community Dental Center, 406 N. Ashley. 663-6626. A nonprofit program staffed by the U-M and funded by the City of Ann Arbor. Low- and moderate-income people are eligible for grant money to be applied toward their fees. Open Mon., Tues., & Thurs. 8 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Wed. 8 a.m.-7 p.m.; Fri. 8 a.m.-1 p.m.

U-M School of Dentistry, North University at Fletcher. The advantage of the dental school is that the fees are less than those you would find at a private practice. The disadvantage is that treatment takes longer because it is performed by student dentists who are closely supervised by the faculty.

Anyone is eligible to become a patient at the dental school, but not everyone can be accepted: a screening examination is necessary to see if the dental school can meet your treatment needs. To make an appointment for a screening examination, or for general information, call 764-1516.

There is a dental hygiene clinic for teeth cleaning. No screening examination is necessary. For an appointment call 764-1544.

The dental school also operates an emergency clinic that provides treatment to anyone in pain or distress. Patients are seen on a first-come, first-serve basis, every weekday except Wednesday. Sign-up is at 8 a.m. for morning appointments and 1 p.m. for afternoon appointments.

Dental patients can park in the U-M Fletcher Street structure for 50¢ per hour or a maximum of $3.50 per day.

Washtenaw District Dental Society. 761-2445. Refers callers to dentists who practice in the Washtenaw County area, including specialists in pediatric dentistry, periodontics, oral surgery, and orthodontics. Mon.-Fri. 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

Family Planning

Planned Parenthood, 3100 Professional Dr. 973-0710. Reproductive health care clinic providing pregnancy testing, premarital exams, birth control information and supplies, gynecological care, vasectomies, abortions, VD and herpes testing and treatment, referral services, public speakers, and peer educator services in the local high schools. Fees are based on a sliding scale. The clinic receives supplies on Monday, but is not open to clients. It is open for patients: Tues. & Fri. 8:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Wed. & Thurs. 8:30 a.m.-8 p.m.; Sat. 8:30 a.m.-2 p.m.

Sexually Transmitted Diseases

Sexually Transmitted Diseases (STD) Clinic (County Department of Human Services, Public Health Division), 555 Towner, Room 108, Ypsilanti. 485-2181. Provides two free services: diagnosis and treatment of sexually transmitted diseases, and anonymous and confidential AIDS counseling and testing. STD clinic operates on a first-come, first-serve walk-in basis. AIDS counseling and testing is by appointment only. Walk-in service Mon. & Thurs. 6:30-9 p.m.; Wed. 9-11:30 a.m. AIDS counseling and testing appointments can be made Mon.-Fri. 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. 485-2181.

University Health Service, 207 Fletcher St. 763-4511. Health Service conducts an AIDS counseling and testing program on a first-come, first-serve walk-in basis. All patients are treated anonymously (use first name only, or an assumed name) and confidentially. Call for information or to see if an appointment time is available for that day. However, appointments must be made in person. No fee for enrolled U-M students or UHS prepaid health plan members. The fee for staff, faculty, and community residents is $35. Mon.-Fri. 8 a.m.-noon and 1-3 p.m.

Also operates a Washtenaw County STD Program. All county residents are eligible for free diagnosis and treatment of gonorrhea and syphilis. Fees are charged for diagnosis and treatment of other diseases. Patients are seen on an appointment or walk-in basis. For information call 763-4511; for an appointment call 764-8325. Mon.-Fri. 8 a.m.-4 p.m. (Sept.-May); Mon.-Fri. 8:30 a.m.-noon & 1-4 p.m. (June-Aug.).

Wellness Networks, Inc., of Huron Valley. 572-WELL. Conducts support groups and offers direct care services to those affected by AIDS or AIDS-Related Complex (ARC). Operates a speakers' bureau and conducts educational seminars on AIDS and psycho-social issues. Also performs hospital visitations, answers general questions regarding AIDS and ARC, and offers information on local and out-of-county testing sites. Note: Testing does not detect whether a person has AIDS; it does detect exposure to the virus.

Senior Services

CHRISTINE ROSS-CAVANNA

Turner Geriatric Wellness Clinic (Health Care)

Four local organizations that provide comprehensive services to seniors are listed first. All four also can provide information about other area programs, which are listed under more specific headings.

All services listed here pertain specifically to older adults. Most of the programs that have income guidelines require that participants not exceed the federal Title V maximum incomes: $7,475 for 1 person; $10,025 for 2 people; $12,575 for 3; $15,125 for 4. For more general listings, see Community Services, p. 79.

Comprehensive Organizations

Child and Family Service of Washtenaw, Inc., 118 S. Washington St., Ypsilanti. 483–1418. Extensive home maintenance services, from cleaning and repairs to limited yard work and snow removal. In-home care—nursing, rehabilitation, counseling, aide services. Also, a free senior employment service (for ages 45 and over), which locates full- or part-time jobs with local companies and businesses. The Senior Aides program provides training, job placement, and full benefits for seniors who qualify under certain federal income guidelines.

Neighborhood Senior Services, 809 Taylor. 662–4862. Chore services, such as transportation, grocery shopping, and bill management, and minor home repairs and maintenance. Assistance with income tax, Department of Social Services applications, and Medicaid and Medicare regulations and forms. Fees for all services are based on ability to pay, and there is an extensive volunteer program.

Turner Geriatric Services, 1010 Wall St. 764–2556. Affiliated with the U-M, Turner offers comprehensive health care, including a weekly Wellness Clinic; counseling; educational, support, and social groups; information and referral services; and volunteer opportunities. Turner publishes Where to Turn: A Guide to Washtenaw County Programs and Services for People over 60, and the Turner Newsletter, published quarterly.

Washtenaw County Council on Aging, 505 Catherine. 665–3625. The chief coordinating agency for older adults in Washtenaw County, WCCA coordinates existing services and works to implement new ones. It also offers extensive information and referral services; volunteer tax assistance; educational programs on issues of importance to seniors; and advocacy help and legislative lobbying. The WCCA publishes the Resource Directory for Senior Citizens, a list of local agencies and their phone numbers, and the Senior Reporter, a newsletter with information on issues, legislation, and events.

Extended Wear Contacts: How Long is Too Long?

The FDA recommends that extended wear contact lenses shouldn't be worn for more than seven days without cleaning. Disposable lenses must be discarded after one week's wear. The reason? Longer wear increases the risk of a serious disease, ulcerative keratitis, that can cause extreme discomfort and irreversible damage.

If you are a patient of Dr. H.W. Bennett & Associates, you already know this. Complete education is part of your total eye care program. Our technicians take time to show you how to clean your lenses thoroughly, because even one day without proper care increases the risk of eye disease.

Dr. Bennett & Associates takes your vision as seriously as you do. We consider your unique visual needs and provide the proper fit, education and training to keep your lenses worry-free.

They're not ordinary kids.

So why go to an ordinary toy store?

We know how special your children are. That's why we carry toys you won't find anywhere else: imported toys, collector dolls and teddy bears, hard-to-find hobby, model and train supplies. Not necessarily expensive, but certainly not ordinary. Just like your child.

Recreation

Ann Arbor's extensive park system and its location along the Huron River provide a natural setting for outdoor recreation. It's a haven for indoor sports, too, thanks to extensive city and school programs coupled with the sport and recreation facilities of the University of Michigan and the Ann Arbor "Y."

The Ann Arbor Recreation Department, part of the Ann Arbor Public Schools Community Services Division, offers classes in golf, tennis, and swimming. It also organizes several league sports, including softball, basketball, and volleyball. It is located at 2800 Stone School Road. For information on league programs, call 994–2292; for general information, call 994–2326. The city's Department of Parks and Recreation is responsible for maintaining facilities at area parks, and also runs some sports programs, such as ice hockey. The department office is on the fifth floor of City Hall (994–2780).

The "Y," located at 350 South Fifth Avenue, is a membership organization. (Because it has facilities for both men and women, the "Y" is not affiliated with the national gender-segregated YMCA or YWCA.) People wishing to use it must purchase either a year-long membership pass or a day pass. There are several different membership plans available, ranging from $216 to $336 a year, with an additional $24 joiner fee for the first year. People who use the "Y" infrequently may buy day passes for $5. The "Y" also offers classes, which are available through a basic membership that costs $49.50 (basic members may use the "Y" facilities only during family rec. hours). Call the "Y" at 663–0536.

U-M students, faculty and staff are able to use U-M facilities at the Central Campus Recreation Building (CCRB), 401 Washtenaw at Geddes (763–3084); the North Campus Recreation Building (NCRB), 2375 Hubbard (763–4560); and the Intramural (IM) Sports Building, 606 E. Hoover (763–3562). There is no charge for registered students. Faculty and staff passes are $92 a year; passes for nonstudents, sponsored by a currently enrolled student or currently employed staff member, are $138 a year; passes for spouses of U-M faculty, staff, and students are also $138 a year; U-M alumni passes are $248 a year; passes for retired U-M employees are $46 a year. Lower-rate passes are available for children and dependents of U-M faculty, staff, alumni, and students. Day passes for sponsored nonstudents are $4.

Team Sports

Basketball

The Rec Department organizes youth and adult basketball leagues during the winter in which a hundred teams usually participate. The season lasts for ten weeks, from mid December until March. Players must enter the league on already established teams; teams must pay sponsor fees. Games are played at local middle schools. Call the Rec Department for exact fees and starting dates.

People who want to play basketball and aren't on a Rec Department team may use the U-M's courts at the CCRB, NCRB, and the IM building if they have a user's pass or come as a guest of someone with a pass. Court hours vary each semester, so call for schedule information. The Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation service center (4133 Washtenaw) rents out courts for $10 an hour. (Available hours vary; call 971–6337 to make reservations.) Several city parks also have basketball courts available for public use: see p. 93.

Ice Hockey

The ice hockey season, which runs from mid October through mid March, is organized through Veterans Park. About twenty teams with twenty members each participate in the different leagues. Leagues include adult non-checking, the thirty-and-over draft, and the

The Birth of Gallup Park

Eli Gallup in 1958

One day in 1958, during the construction of Mary Markley Hall on the U-M campus, Eli Gallup watched construction workers haul truckload after truckload of dirt down Fuller Road to a site at the east end of town.

At the time, there was only one way to get to what is now Gallup Park's fishing pond. "You had to cut through the Huron Hills Golf Course, climb a fence, and cut through the tracks," recalls Al Gallup, son of the man who was Ann Arbor parks superintendent for forty-two years, 1919–1961.

"Dad always saw that area as a neat place for a park," says Al. So that day in 1958, Eli Gallup asked the truck drivers to dump the fill into the Huron River, creating solid ground to get to the pond. That was the start of what was to become Gallup Park.

A 1968 flood that wiped out the Dixboro Road dam provided more momentum for the park's development. While the dam was being repaired, bulldozers reshaped the shoreline near the Huron Parkway bridge and created new islands. Today, the 83-acre riverfront park is one of the busiest in the city. On warm, sunny weekends, the parking lots on Geddes and Fuller roads overflow. Arched bridges connecting the small islands offer outstanding views of the river, especially at sunset. Young couples with children in strollers, students, and seniors come to picnic, feed the ducks, rent a canoe, windsurf, or simply watch the runners that circle the park.

One summer day, two beginning canoeists paddled awkwardly toward the Huron Parkway bridge, frequently changing their paddles from one side of the canoe to the other in no particular rhythm. A skinny fellow in owl-like glasses, red shorts, and a turquoise T-shirt that read, "I took the CPA corporate challenge," tipped his well-worn khaki fishing cap to a passerby. Near the bridge, a white duck, a mallard, and a goose squabbled over some hidden morsels far below the water's surface.

Gallup Park is a haven for birds. Sharp-eyed watchers can see egret and heron, Canada geese, a variety of ducks, coots, and even a domestic goose or two. The west end of the park is a nature preserve.

In fall and winter, the park quiets down considerably, but you'll still see "the regulars," a group of runners who work at the U-M and use the Gallup paths on weekday lunch hours.

Parts of the river freeze in winter. Strings of Canada geese plod single file along the ice in an easterly direction. Near the canoe livery, hockey players and figure skaters glide across their separate territories.

In spring, as the ice melts, you can hear a bell-like tinkling just below the water's surface. Before long, the park is awash in color from redbud, forsythia, and apple and cherry blossoms. Especially sweet is the tangy fragrance of viburnum.

Today, Eli Gallup's creation anchors a string of parks along the city's riverfront. A 4.6-mile trail hugging the river extends east to Dixboro Road and west to the Ann Arbor Railroad bridge. Red, yellow, and blue color-coded posts mark the trail at quarter-mile intervals for the mileage conscious.

"My father had a lot of ingenuity," says Al Gallup with obvious admiration. "He had a real love for Ann Arbor and gave all that he could to make it a city of trees and parks."

old-timers (also for people thirty and over). Fees are approximately $2,650 per team (this steep price includes ice time, referees, scorekeepers, practice time, and a practice game). Games take place Sat.–Thurs. nights at Vets Park and Buhr Park.

Individuals who want to play hockey should call Vets Ice Arena at 761–7240 and sign a waiver releasing their names to team managers who need extra players. If enough teamless individuals are interested, the Department of Parks and Recreation sponsors a team called "the Arctic Annies."

The nonprofit Ann Arbor Amateur Hockey Association (AAAHA) is open to boys and girls ages five to seventeen. From September through May, an average of twenty to twenty-five teams play one to two times a week at Yost and Vets ice arenas. There are six age divisions. From youngest to oldest, there are Mini Mites, Mites, Squirts, Peewees, Bantams, and Midgets. There is a comprehensive fee of approximately $200 per player. For more information, leave a message on the AAAHA answering machine at Vets (996–8606).

For hockey players who enjoy an occasional game, Buhr Park offers drop-in hockey from December 1 through March for people fifteen and over. Games are scheduled on Wednesdays 5:45–6:45 p.m. and Fridays 9:45–10:45 p.m. The first twenty players are allowed to participate at a cost of $2 for adults and $1.50 for youths. Skate rental is $1.25. For details, call Buhr Park Ice Rink at 971–3228.

On a more informal basis, the Burns Park hockey rink (1620 Wells) also offers drop-in play in season. Call the Department of Parks and Recreation (769–9140) for more information.

Soccer

In terms of numbers, soccer is second only to softball as the most popular participatory sport in Ann Arbor. The city has two soccer programs. The Rec Department organizes youth soccer leagues for grades 1–6 during the fall and spring. Each season lasts for seven weeks, and attracts around 1,320 players. League play costs $22 per player for school district residents ($26 for nonresidents).

The Ann Arbor Soccer Association (AASA), a nonprofit citizens' group, takes care of everyone else. According to Sandie Lawson, president of the AASA Board, the AASA averages a combined total of 1,500 participants in its youth and adult programs.

The AASA's most popular program is the adult recreation program. It offers men's, women's, and co-rec leagues during the fall, spring, and summer. Each season lasts eight weeks; teams play two nights a week at Fuller Park. The number of players remains relatively constant during each season. Twenty teams usually participate, and each team has twelve players.

People interested in playing in the adult program should contact the AASA at 995–4746; for general information, call 761–8813. There is a $28 fee for joining a team. The AASA adult recreation program makes up teams by dividing the individuals in each age group equally across all teams. Thus, all teams should have the same number of eighteen-year-olds, nineteen-year-olds, and so on.

The AASA also offers other programs, including travel competition leagues, regular youth competitive leagues (grades 3–12), and youth instructional leagues (grades 4–8).

Softball

Baseball has been popular in Ann Arbor since it was introduced by Civil War veterans returning home in the 1860's. By 1862, Ann Arbor had a team, the Monitor Baseball Club, which played Dexter, Ypsilanti, and other community teams. For students and young adults, baseball became a new form of entertainment, supplementing the traditional circus and theater. Older residents hoped that baseball would help keep young people out of the town's fifty-five saloons.

Ann Arbor's enthusiasm for baseball carried over to the increasingly popular sport of softball. In the 1950's, before television kept many people at home, as many as 5,000 spectators would jam Sportsman Park to watch twilight and weekend fast-pitch softball. The introduction of slow-pitch softball in 1969 helped softball draw more participants than any other program offered by the Rec Department. Currently, approximately seventy-five adult divisions, comprising 450 teams, play in the summer leagues.

Teams are divided into men's, women's, and co-rec leagues of varying skill levels. The following leagues are offered: men's fast-pitch, men's slow-pitch, women's fast-pitch, women's slow-pitch, and co-rec slow-pitch. Summer sessions run for ten weeks, and teams have a choice of playing in one- or two-night-a-week leagues, or in double-header leagues. Fall teams play twice a week in a season that runs five to six weeks. The most intensely used facility for both the summer and fall softball seasons is Veterans Park.

All teams must pay sponsorship fees in addition to individual player fees. The sponsor fee for summer teams in the one-night-a-week leagues is $134, and the individual assessment is $22 for school district residents ($31 for nonresidents). Two-night-a-week league sponsorship fees are $366, and the individual assessment for city residents is $42 ($51 for nonresidents). For fall softball leagues, the sponsor fee is $125, and the individual assessment is $21 for residents ($30 for nonresidents). In both summer and fall leagues, fees are slightly higher for fast-pitch.

People who want to play softball and are not associated with a team have two options: they may sign a player waiver form to allow individual names and phone numbers to be released to managers, or they can sign up with one of the Players Without a Team teams.

Organizational meetings for summer and fall leagues take place in February and July, respectively. For exact dates and for information, contact the Rec Department at 994–2292.

The city also provides softball diamonds at Ann Arbor schools and parks for people wishing to organize their own games. The diamonds are available to the public 9 a.m.–9 p.m. from May 9 to August 29, and they operate on a first-come, first-served basis. They include Mack #2, Leslie #1, Swift Run #3, Scarlett #5, and Tappan #2. Other diamonds are for children's use only. They include Creal, Las Vegas, Maryfield, Wellington, and Wurster parks.

Volleyball

As many as 125 teams participate in both the spring and fall volleyball seasons. Leagues are available for men's, women's, and co-rec teams of varying skill levels. Each season runs ten weeks, and games are played at local middle schools. For the A leagues (advanced), the sponsor fee is $110, and the individual assessment is $25 for school district residents ($30 for nonresidents). For B (intermediate) and C (recreational) leagues, the sponsor fee is $70 and the individual assessment is $20 for residents ($24 for nonresidents). Call the Rec Department at 994–2292 for scheduling details.

Interested players not associated with a league can use the U-M's courts at the CCRB and NCRB if they have a user's pass or are with someone who has one. In addition, the Ann Arbor "Y" often has pick-up games on Wednesdays at noon for members or those with day passes.

popular winter ice show, Ice Carnival: Melody on Ice, at Vets ice arena. An annual springtime invitational usually draws from 200 skaters who come to compete from throughout the Great Lakes area.

Ice Skating

One of Ann Arbor's most popular recreational facilities is Vets Ice Arena, the city's indoor publicly owned skating rink. With Vets, an outdoor artificial rink at Buhr Park, the U-M's Yost Ice Arena, and several natural rinks at city parks, ice skaters have a wide choice of places to skate.

Natural ice rinks are maintained from mid January as long as weather permits. The rinks have warming houses and supervisors, and skaters may skate free of charge. Call the Department of Parks and Recreation (769–9140) for details. The parks that have rinks are Allmendinger, 645 Pauline; Burns, 1620 Wells (ice rink and hockey rink); Glacier Highlands, Larchmont at Barrister; Northside, 809 Taylor; Scheffler, 3051 Edgewood; and West, 215 Chapin.

Vets Ice Arena, 2150 Jackson Rd. 761–7240. Open from late October through May. It has a regulation size rink (85' x 200'), seating for 2,400 spectators, skate rental ($1.50), skate sharpening, coin-operated lockers, and a snack bar. Fees for adults are $3.00; for youths (17 and under) and seniors, $2.50. General skating on weekend afternoons and evenings. (Hours vary with hockey league play. Call for drop-in times.) Adult skating Mon.–Fri. 11 a.m.–1 p.m.

Buhr Park, 2751 Packard Rd. 971–3228. Outdoor artificial regulation-size ice rink, open December through March, weather permitting. It offers skate rental ($1.25), skate sharpening, a heated waiting room, lockers, and concessions. Entry fees are $1.50 for adults; $1 for children (17 and under). Public skating Mon. & Fri. 3–5:30 p.m. & 7:30–9:30 p.m.; Tues. & Thurs. 3–5 p.m.; Wed. 7:30–9:30 p.m.; Sat. 2–5 p.m. & 7–10 p.m.; and Sun. 2–5 p.m.

Yost Ice Arena, 116 S. State St. 763–0064. Open September through March. U-M's indoor regulation-size rink provides skate rental ($1) and locker rooms. Its hours vary with the U-M ice hockey schedule. In-season hours for general public skating are Sept.–March, Mon.–Fri. noon–1:30 p.m.; and Oct.–March, Thurs. 8:30–10:30 p.m.; non-football Saturdays 12:30–2:30 p.m. Entry fees are $1.50 for the general public; $1 for U-M students and high school students; and $1.25 for U-M faculty, staff, and alumni.

Racquetball

The Ann Arbor "Y," 350 S. Fifth Ave., 663-0536, has two racquetball/handball courts and charges $2 in addition to the day pass fee for nonmembers for use of its courts. The three U-M racquetball facilities are the CCRB, 401 Washtenaw, 936–0627 (13 courts); IM Building, 606 E. Hoover, 764–3163 (14 courts); and the NCRB, 2375 Hubbard, 764–2117 (5 courts). Hours vary with the semester, and courts must be reserved in advance. Passes for faculty and staff are $92 a year; passes for sponsored nonstudents are $138 a year.

Private clubs with racquetball courts for those wishing to become members include the Ann Arbor Court Club, 2875 Boardwalk, 662–0243; Chippewa Racquet Club, 2525 Golfside, 434–6100; Travis Pointe Country Club, 2829 Travis Pointe Rd., 665–8463; and Vic Tanny, 615 Briarwood Circle (769–6600).

Running/Jogging

"All you have to do is open your eyes—you can always see someone jogging," says Peter Brown, Ann Arbor Track Club board member. Running is undoubtedly the most popular individual sport in Ann Arbor. The city's parks and residential areas allow thousands of joggers to create endless variations to their personal routes. In addition to the thousands of runners traipsing through the city's parks and residential areas, growing numbers of recreational runners are braving the more congested downtown and U-M campus areas.

Ann Arbor offers a variety of running clubs, stores, and events for both the advanced and beginning runner. The Ann Arbor Track Club (AATC), founded in the early 1970's by graduating U-M track athletes, has become the major cohesive force for Ann Arbor's running population. The AATC has over 600 members of all skill levels. AATC events include a weekly Speed Workout on Tuesday evenings throughout the year, held at the Pioneer High School track in good weather and at the U-M Track and Tennis Building during the winter. These workouts are open to anyone interested, and a new two-and-a-half-mile loop has been added for beginning runners. From June through August the AATC holds weekly All-Comers meets which allow runners of all ages and skills to participate in five track and field events. The meets take place every Thursday at the Pioneer High School track. The AATC also has a very active youth program, and offers training sessions during the fall, spring, and summer.

In addition to numerous events and programs, AATC membership entitles runners to a yearly picnic, seasonal meetings, a newsletter, and discounts at area running events and sports stores. Membership costs $10/year ($15 for a family). For more information, write to the Ann Arbor Track Club, P.O. Box 7551, AA 48107, or contact Jack Arnold at 995–7276.

The Hash House Harriers opened the Ann Arbor chapter of this singular, international running organization in February of 1989. The 50-member group emphasizes creatively planned running events that runners of all abilities can enjoy. Founded by British officials in Malaysia during the late 1940's, Harriers model their runs after the British fox-and-rabbit hunts, with a "hare" marking the trail (usually in white or colored flour) that the other members ("hounds") follow. The system of trail codes creates much doubling back. Each member carries a noisemaker to alert others to sighted trail markings. "Turtle checks" denotes waiting points, often supplied with beer and refreshments, which allow slower runners to catch up. Runs are three to seven miles long and occur every other Monday evening (Sunday afternoons in the winter). Each event usually concludes with a visit to a local bar or restaurant. Membership includes a newsletter, a yearly picnic, meets with other chapters, and trail supplies. The annual fee is $25. For information, call or write Anne Kirschke, 3248 Bolgos, AA 48105, 761–9457.

The Ann Arbor area hosts a large number of annual running events that attract hundreds of runners of all skill levels. The Dexter-Ann Arbor Run in late May (2 mi., 10 km., and 13.1 mi.) and Elmo's Turkey Trot in November (2 mi. jog/walk, 4 mi.) have taken place every year since 1974. Other yearly runs include the Humane Society Run in mid September, and the Big Ten Run in late September (5 mi. and 10 mi.), the Briarwood Run (5 km., 10 km., and 20 km.) and the Burns Park Run in early April (1 mi. 5 km., and 10 km.), the Miracle in the Apple Orchard Run in late April (1 mi. and 8 km.), and the For Women Only Run in mid July (5 km.).

For more information on area running events and organizations, contact the Ann Arbor Track Club or one of Ann Arbor's two complete running centers: Tortoise and Hare, 213 E. Liberty, 769–9510; or Running Fit, 200 E. Washington, 769–5016. The monthly magazine, The Michigan Runner, which contains comprehensive information on all running events and organizations in the state, is available at these centers.

For indoor running in the winter, or during inclement weather, the U-M has indoor tracks at the CCRB, 401 Washtenaw, 763–3804, and the NCRB, 2376 Hubbard, 763–4560. (Access is free for U-M students. Sponsored nonstudents pay a daily rate of $4. Long-term rates are also available. See above.) Private clubs with indoor running facilities include the Liberty Sports Complex, 2975 W. Liberty, 665–3738, and Vic Tanny at 615 Briarwood Circle, 769–6600.

Swimming

Ann Arbor's public swimming pools are crowded during the summer. The three outdoor pools, all built in 1969, are open from Memorial Day to Labor Day. Mack Pool, the only city-run indoor pool, is open year-round. For all city pools, adults pay $1.50 to enter; youths 17 and under and seniors 60 and over pay $1. During designated hours, families pay $3.25. There is no charge for children under 3, and season passes are available. The city pools include:

Fuller Pool, 1519 Fuller Rd. 761–2460. Fuller is the area's only Olympic-size (50 meters) pool open to the public. It has eight lanes, including three training lanes open at all times, a diving pool, a large wading pool, a large sunning deck, locker rooms, and a snack bar.

Pool hours: May 28–June 16: Adult swim Mon.–Fri. 11 a.m.–1 p.m.; Sat. and Sun. 11 a.m.–noon; general public swim Mon.–Fri. 1–7 p.m.; Sat., Sun., & holidays noon–7 p.m. June 17–Sept. 3: Adult swim Mon.–Fri. noon–1 p.m. (11 a.m.–1 p.m. after Aug. 7); Sat. & Sun. 11 a.m.–noon; general public swim Mon.–Fri. 1–8 p.m.; Sat., Sun., & holidays noon–8 p.m. (noon–7 p.m. after Aug. 14).

Veterans Pool, 2150 Jackson Rd. 761–7240. Vets Park has a 25-meter pool with six lanes, three diving boards, a sunning deck, a shaded deck area, locker rooms, and a snack bar. Summer 1988 marked the inauguration of Ann Arbor's first water slide. Slide use costs an additional $1.50 for adults, an extra $1 for youths and seniors (open during pool hours).

Pool hours: May 27–June 16: Adult swim Mon.–Fri. noon–1 p.m; general public swim Mon.–Fri. 1–7 p.m.; Sat., Sun., & holidays noon–7 p.m. June 17–Sept. 4: Adult swim Mon.–Fri. noon–1 p.m; general public swim Mon.–Fri. 1–4:45 p.m. & 6:30–8 p.m. (until 9 p.m. during July; until 7 p.m. after Aug. 14); Sat., Sun., & holidays noon–4:45 p.m. & 6:30–8 p.m. (until 9 p.m. during July; until 7 p.m. after Aug. 14); family/adult swim daily 5–6:30 p.m.

Buhr Pool, 2751 Packard Rd. 971–3228. Buhr is a 25-meter pool with six training lanes, a diving pool, a wading pool, a sunning deck, locker rooms, and a snack bar. Its hours are the same as those of Vets Pool (above).

Mack Pool (indoors), 715 Brooks. 994–2898. Mack is a 25-yard pool with six training lanes, a diving pool, and locker rooms. The pool has a handicapped access ramp. No snack bar.

From September to the end of the school year, daytime hours are reserved for swim classes. Open swimming Sat. 2–5 p.m. and Sun. 2–7 p.m. Family swim Wed. 7:30–9 p.m. and Sat. 7–9 p.m. Adult length swim Mon.–Fri. 11:30 a.m.–12:30 p.m.; Mon.–Thurs. 9–10 p.m.; Tues. & Thurs. 6–7:30 p.m.; and Sat. & Sun. 1–2 p.m.

Summer hours: June 17–Sept. 4: noon–6 p.m. daily. Lap lanes are available noon–1 p.m. daily. Adult swim 6–7 p.m. daily.

Gallup Park is a haven for birds—including this once-domestic goose.

The Ann Arbor "Y," 350 S. Fifth Ave. 663–3056. 20-yard pool with four lanes, a shallow training pool, locker rooms, and a snack bar. Hours vary daily.

The U-M has three pools open to students, faculty, staff, and sponsored nonstudents. They are:

CCRB, 401 Washtenaw. 763–3084. The CCRB pool is 25 yards long with at least four training lanes, two diving boards (but no free diving), and locker rooms. No snack bar. Hours vary with the semester.

NCRB, 2375 Hubbard. 763–4560. The NCRB pool is 25 yards long with at least four training lanes plus locker rooms. No diving area and no snack bar. Hours vary with the semester.

IM Sports Building, 606 E. Hoover. 763–3562. (Note: The Olympic-size pool is accessible only to U-M athletes.) The IM pool is 25 yards long, has six lanes (including four training lanes), two diving boards with limited diving hours, and locker rooms. Hours vary with the semester.

Several private clubs in town also have pools. They are Barton Hills Country Club, Barton Shore Dr., 761–5771; Georgetown Country Club, 1365 King George Blvd., 971–5535; Huron Valley Swim Club, 4601 Park Rd., 665–8565; Liberty Sports Complex, 2975 W. Liberty, 665–6738; Orchard Hills Athletic Club, 2300 Yorktown, 665–2699; the Racquet Club of Ann Arbor, 3210 E. Huron River Dr., 971–5414; and Vic Tanny, 615 Briarwood Circle, 769–6600, and 4860 Washtenaw, 434–5000.

Tennis

The Ann Arbor city parks, public schools, and the U-M all have tennis courts available to those willing to drive around to find them. The courts are free for public use when the Rec Department and the schools are not using them for classes. The courts operate on a first-come, first-served basis. Unless otherwise noted, courts are not lighted.

Three of the busiest and largest concentrations of courts are at Huron High, 2727 Fuller Rd., 994–2076 (7 courts); Pioneer High, 601 W. Stadium Blvd., 994–2120 (10 courts); and just north of CCRB, 401 Washtenaw, 764–6429 (16 courts).

The lighted courts in town include those at Fuller Park, 1519 Fuller Rd., 761–2460 (4 courts); Buhr Park, 2751 Packard, 971–3228 (6 courts, of which 4 are lighted); Vets Park, 2150 Jackson Rd., 761–7240 (3 courts); and South Maple Park (6 courts, of which 4 are lighted).

Many of the city parks and public schools also have courts open for public use. In north Ann Arbor, these include Northside Elementary, 809 Taylor (1 court); Leslie Park, 2120 Traver Rd. (3 courts); Sugarbush Park, Bluett at Yellowstone (2 courts); Clague Middle School, 2616 Nixon Rd. (7 courts); and Windemere Park, Windemere Rd. at Charter Place (2 courts). In south Ann Arbor, there are courts at Burns Park, 1620 Wells (6 courts, 1 backboard); Woodbury Park, Woodbury at Wisteria (2 courts); Clinton Park, 2935 Birch Hollow Dr. (2 courts); Sylvan Park, Margaret at Darrow (1 court); Tappan Middle School, 2251 E. Stadium (3 courts); and Scarlett Middle/Mitchell Elementary, 3300 Lorraine (2 courts). In west Ann Arbor, there are courts at Allmendinger Park, 645 Pauline (4 courts); West Park, 215 Chapin (2 courts); Hunt Park, Sunset at Spring (1 court); Slauson Middle School, 1019 W. Washington (2 courts); Mack Elementary, 920 Miller (1 court); and Forsythe Middle School, 1655 Newport Rd. (4 courts).

People wishing to play tennis in the winter or year-round during inclement weather may join one of several indoor tennis clubs in the area. These clubs have rosters of tennis pros who can be hired for private and group lessons, and they also offer numerous outdoor courts for summer play. Membership prices vary and change frequently, so call each club for details.

The clubs include Ann Arbor's oldest tennis club, Huron Valley Tennis Club, 3235 Cherry Hill Rd., 662–5514; Liberty Sports Complex, 2975 W. Liberty Rd., 665–3738; Chippewa Racquet Club, 2525 Golfside, 434–6100; and Travis Pointe Country Club, 2829 Travis Pointe Rd., 665–8463; and Racquet Club of Ann Arbor, 3210 E. Huron River Dr., 971–5413 (outdoor courts only).

Seasonal Activities

Bicycling

Besides being an enjoyable form of recreation and exercise, bicycling in Ann Arbor is a recognized alternative means of transportation. The city has a well-marked network of bike routes and bike paths, and—since 1970—a Bicycle Program within the Transportation Department. The office publishes a map of bike paths and recommended street routes in Ann Arbor and Washtenaw County (summarized on the parks map on p. 91).

Bicycle registration is required of all city cyclists over twelve years of age. It can be done through most local bike shops or at the City Clerk's office on the second floor of City Hall. There is a one-time fee of $2.50.

There are seven bike shops in Ann Arbor and two active cycling clubs. The Ann Arbor Bicycle Touring Society (AABTS) organizes group day trips around the city and the surrounding area for its 700-plus members. Its Saturday Breakfast Rides along the Huron River to Dexter are especially popular. The AABTS also plans occasional out-of-state tours and publishes a bimonthly ride calendar and a monthly newsletter, both free to members. Annual dues are $8 (individual) and $11 (family). For more information, write to the AABTS, Box 2854, AA 48106, or call Jane or Drew Burton at 994–3001.

The small Ann Arbor Velo Club, sponsored by the Nobilette Cycle Center, focuses on racing and arranges numerous workouts and meets for its members. For information, call or write the Nobilette Cycle Center, 220 Felch, AA 48103, 769–1115; Paul Alman, 642 Greenhills Dr., AA 48105; or Ted Chesky, 769–4862.

Canoeing

There are three canoe liveries along the Huron River. Argo Park and Gallup Park liveries are run by the city, while Skip's, a private livery, operates out of Delhi Metropark.

Argo Park Canoe Livery, 1055 Longshore Dr. 668–7411. Rowboats, fishing poles and supplies, long-term and overnight canoe rental, canoe package trips, and concessions. To rent a canoe, a $10 cash deposit and a driver's license are required ($15 after 5 p.m.). Rental fees are graduated by hour: for 2 hours, the cost is $7 (weekdays) and $8 (weekends/holidays); for 3 hours, $8 and $9; for 4 hours, $9 and $10; for 5 hours, $9.75 and $10.75; for 6 hours, $10.50 and $11.50; and for 7 hours, $11.25 and $12.25. Package trip rates are also available. Hours from Apr. 1 to May 19 & Sept. 5 to Oct. 24: Sat. & Sun. 9 a.m.–8 p.m. May 20 to Sept. 4: Mon.–Fri. 11 a.m.–9 p.m., Sat., Sun., & holidays 8 a.m.–9 p.m.

Gallup Park Livery, 3000 Fuller Rd. 662–9319. Paddleboats, bikes, fishing supplies, and concessions. Fees and deposit information are the same as for Argo Park (see above). Hours from Apr. 1 to May 26 & Sept. 5 to Oct. 29: Mon.–Fri. 11 a.m.–7 p.m.; Sat., Sun., & holidays 9 a.m.–8 p.m. From May 27 to Sept. 4: Mon.–Fri. 11 a.m.–9 p.m.; Sat., Sun., & holidays 9 a.m.–9 p.m.

Hours: Mon. noon–4 p.m.; Tues.–Fri. 10 a.m.–4 p.m.; Sat.–Sun. 9 a.m.–1 p.m. (Hudson Mills–Delhi route only.) Reservations are required for weekend trips.

Cross-Country Skiing

For those who enjoy being outdoors during the winter, Ann Arbor has several ski trails that provide scenic views. There is no charge to ski the trails at Bird Hills Park, Huron River Dr. at Bird Rd.; Leslie Park Golf Course, 2120 Traver; Gallup Park, 3000 Fuller; Buhr Park, 2751 Packard; and Fuller Park, 1519 Fuller.

Huron Hills Cross Country Ski Center, 3465 E. Huron River Dr. 971-9841. Open December through March, weather permitting, this city golf course/ski area has groomed trails of varying skill levels, a clubhouse, and a snack bar. Entry fee is $2 (weekdays) and $2.50 (weekends). It costs $5.50 to rent skis on weekdays for two hours, and $2.50 for each additional hour; $6.50 on weekends, and $3 for each extra hour. Lower rates are available for youths under 17 and seniors over 60. Weekdays: $3.25 for two hours, and $1.50 for every following hour. Weekends: $4.25, and $2. During the season, Huron Hills is open Mon.–Fri. 10 a.m.–6 p.m.; Sat.–Sun. 9 a.m.–6 p.m.

Fishing

Ann Arborites looking for a change of pace may want to try a quieter sport—fishing. Fishing along the Huron River is surprisingly good. The river contains a variety of fish: large- and small-mouth bass, rock bass, crappie, bluegill, carp, pike, catfish, and even some walleye and tiger muskellunge.

Three spots seem to be popular among local anglers: Barton Dam, Gallup Park, and Argo Dam. On sunny days, people often set up their lawn chairs by Argo Dam and fish from their seats. Those who want to get away from civilization may rent canoes from either the Argo Park or Gallup Park Liveries and fish upstream.

Anyone sixteen and under may use the youth fishing pond at Gallup Park. Every spring, this pond is stocked with large- and small-mouth bass, bluegill, and panfish. Fishing is free, and there is no limit to the number of panfish or bluegill you can catch (there is a daily limit of 5 bass). Fishers are advised to consult the State Dept. of Natural Resources regulations available at the Gallup canoe livery. Anyone seventeen or over, however, must have a fishing license. Licenses cost $9.85 per year or $220 for a lifetime license and are sold at most sporting goods stores.

Many people who fish the Huron don't even eat the fish they catch unless they've caught them above Ann Arbor, where the water is cleaner. So why do they come out? A quick survey turned up a teenager at Gallup Park who said that he and his friends go out a couple of times a week, and they catch something every time. They think it's an exciting sport. A U-M grad student liked to go out in a canoe. He didn't really care if he caught anything; he just liked being out on the river. A forty-year-old man by Argo Dam was chomping a cigar. He had been out for three hours, and he didn't even have a bite. But it was his last day of vacation, and he thought he should take advantage of this opportunity before he had to go back to work. Why did he stay out there? "I like to," he said. "It passes the time."

Golf

Golf enthusiasts have several challenging and well-maintained courses to choose from in Ann Arbor. The city and the U-M own two courses

Leslie Park Golf Course, 2120 Traver Rd. 668–9011. 18 holes, par 72, women's par 73. Leslie is a challenging, well-maintained course that features two ponds, a fruit orchard where you can pick your own fruit in season, and Traver Creek.

Reservations are taken every day. Walk-on play is available according to the reservation schedule. Green fees: weekday $11 (18 holes), $8 (9 holes); weekend/holiday $14 (18 holes), $9 (9 holes, after 1 p.m. only). Golf cart rental $16 (18 holes), $8 (9 holes). Golf club rental ($4/set), and pull cart rental ($1.50). Snack bar. Hours: Mon.–Fri. 6:30 a.m. till dark; Sat., Sun., & holidays 6 a.m. till dark. Special twilight rates ($5 flat after 7 p.m.), junior/senior rates ($5 flat on weekdays only).

The U-M courses include:

University Golf Course, Stadium Blvd. east of Main St. 663–5005. 18 holes, par 72. This course is one of five in the U.S. designed by Scottish architect Alister Mackenzie. It is open to U-M students, faculty, staff, alumni, and their guests. Reservations are required before 4 p.m. daily, after which there is walk-on play. Green fees: students, $8; faculty and staff, $15; alumni, $18; all others, $20 on weekdays and $25 on weekends. Golf cart rental $19 (18 holes), $10 (9 holes). No club rentals. Snack bar. Clubhouse hours: weekdays 8 a.m.–8 p.m.; weekends 7 a.m.–8 p.m.

Radrick Farms, 4875 Geddes. 763–7040. 18 holes, par 72. Designed by Pete Dye, a highly regarded contemporary golf course architect, Radrick covers 260 acres, and is reserved for U-M faculty and staff and their guests. Green fees: members $15 weekdays, $20 weekends; guests $20 weekdays, $30 weekends. Evening twilight rates are $10 for members, guests $13. No club rentals. Clubhouse hours: 7 a.m.–dark daily.

Ann Arbor also has one semi-private and several private golf courses. They include:

Georgetown Golf Course (semi-private), 1365 King George Blvd. 971–5500. The golf course is the only part of the club open to the public. 9-holes executive course, par 28. Green fees: $4.50 weekdays ($3.50 for senior citizens) and $5.50 weekends. 18-hole play (a double circuit) costs a flat rate of $6.50 ($5 for senior citizens). No golf cart rentals. Golf club rental ($1) and pull cart rental ($1). Clubhouse hours: Fri.–Sun. 8 a.m.–8 p.m.; weekday hours vary.

Ann Arbor Golf and Outing Club (private), 400 E. Stadium Blvd. 663–4044. Originally located at the site of the present University Golf Course and founded around 1890, the club claims to have the oldest course in Michigan.

Ann Arbor Country Club (private), 4699 E. Loch Alpine Dr. 426–4693. Call for information.

Barton Hills Country Club (private), 733 Country Club Rd. 663–8511. Designed by Donald Ross.

Travis Pointe Country Club (private), 2829 Travis Pointe Rd. 662–2582. Rated in Golf Digest as one of Michigan's top ten courses.

Washtenaw Country Club (private), 2955 Packard Rd. 434–2150. Founded in 1899, the club says its course is the second oldest in Michigan.

In addition to golf courses, Ann Arbor has a driving range, Liberty Golf Range (2815 W. Liberty, 769–4536), open daily from 9 a.m. till dark. Golf balls are $4 for a large bucket, $3.25 for a small one.

Skateboarding

Despite a setback in the early summer of 1988, when the city council banned them from Liberty Plaza, city parking structures, and certain areas of downtown, Ann Arbor skateboarders remain enthusiastic and visible. In 1987, with the help of the Parks and Recreation Department and the Citizens' Task Force on Free Time Activities for Adolescents, they persuaded the city to build its first skateboard ramp, at Vets Park. Installed in the fall of 1987, the supervised, half pipe ramp is open from April 8–June 16, Mon.–Fri. 3–7 p.m., weekends noon–7 p.m.; June 17–Sept. 4, noon–8 p.m. daily; Sept. 5–Oct. 28, Mon.–Fri. 3–7 p.m., weekends noon–7 p.m.

A one-year membership, which lowers the fee for use of the ramp, is $15. The daily use fee is $1.25 for members (under 18, 75¢) and $2.50 for nonmembers (under 18, $1.50). Helmet, knee pads, elbow pads, and shoes are required. For more information, call 761–7240.

Summer skateboarding instruction is available on Saturdays 11 a.m.–noon beginning June 24. Preregistration is required.

ball players. Shelter, tennis court, basketball court, two softball fields, lighted ice rink, barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment, restrooms.

Arboretum, University Terrace and Nichols Dr. 35 acres. City-owned portion of the 129-acre U-M Nichols Arboretum. Heavily used but scenic, it has woods and huge rolling meadows, walks and trails, and fishing.

Argo Park, Longshore Dr. 32.8 acres. Narrow park that follows the course of the Huron River. Handicapped-accessible walks and trails, nature area, canoe rental, boat launch, fishing, barbecue grills, picnic tables, handicapped-accessible restrooms and parking.

Bader Park, between Bedford and Provincial. 1.7 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks and trails, basketball court, softball field, play equipment.

Bandemer Park, on N. Main, bounded by M-14 and the Huron River. 28.5 acres. Undeveloped park site on Argo Pond; one trail, nature area.

Barton Park, Huron River Dr. and Barton Dr. 100.7 acres. Large riverfront park bordering the Huron River and Barton Pond. Nature area, fishing, picnic tables, restrooms, handicapped-accessible walks and trails, parking.

Baxter Park, Baxter and Green. 2 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks and trails, two basketball goals, picnic tables, play equipment.

Beckley Park, Argo Dr. adjacent to Fairview Cemetery. 3 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks and trails, play equipment, winter sledding area.

Belize Park, Fountain and Summit. 0.3 acres. Walks and play equipment.

Bird Hills Park, north of M-14 just west of Barton Park. 116 acres. Spacious and beautiful wooded and open areas support an abundance of bird life. Walks and trails, nature area.

Black Pond Park, adjacent to Leslie Park Golf Course. 6 acres. Nature area with a glacial kettle pond.

Broadway Park, at the foot of Broadway, under the bridge. 5 acres. Fishing.

Bromley Park, between Aurora and Sheffield. 2.5 acres. Play equipment, picnic tables, winter sledding area.

Brown Park, Birch Hollow off Stone School Rd. 57.3 acres. Wet woods in spring, and some flat trails past debris. Off Verle, a paved trail leads to a grassy play area, and farther, to apartment complexes. A wetland visible from I-94 is home to egrets, herons, Canadian geese, and a variety of ducks. Handicapped-accessible walks and trails, nature area, two basketball goals, winter sledding area, picnic tables, play equipment.

Buhr Park, Packard between Colony and Easy. 39 acres. Popular swimming pool. Walks, four lighted and two unlighted tennis courts, volleyball court, two softball fields, two baseball fields, winter sledding area, outdoor ice rink, picnic tables, play equipment, restrooms.

Burns Park, Wells and Baldwin. 15 acres. Former site of the county fairgrounds and the city's electric trolley barns. Walks, shelter, four tennis courts, two basketball goals, softball field, baseball field, soccer field, winter sledding area, natural ice rink, barbecue grills, picnic tables, large fountain, restrooms.

Bur Oak Park, just west of I-94 and north of W. Liberty. 3.6 acres. Undeveloped park site; handicapped-accessible walks and trails.

Cedar Bend Park, Broadway and Cedar Bend. 23.5 acres. A hilly and remote nature area with several trails that descend steeply to Island Park and the Huron River. Offers great views of the U-M Hospital complex and the city's downtown.

Churchill Downs, Steeplechase Dr. 1.1 acres. Walks, basketball goal, play equipment.

Clinton Park, Stone School Rd. and Pebble Creek Dr. 4.7 acres. Two tennis courts, four basketball goals, volleyball court, two softball fields, winter sledding area, barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment.

Cloverdale Park, north of Cloverdale at Stellar Rd. 1.9 acres. Walks, two basketball goals, winter sledding area, play equipment.

Cobblestone Farm, 2781 Packard next to Buhr Park. 4 acres. Woodchip trails circle a historic farm house, a brick smokehouse, and a log cabin. Handicapped-accessible restrooms and parking. (Building is not always open; for information call 994–2928.)

County Farm Park, Washtenaw at Platt. 127 acres. Entrance on Platt. Once the site of the County Poor House, this area of grasslands offers a parcours for ambitious visitors. (It starts near the Medford Road entrance.) For a less strenuous afternoon, follow winding paths to woods and a creek, then out among short brushes and grasses. If you hear a sound like a squeaky door, it's probably a pheasant. County Farm is the only Washtenaw County Park within the city of Ann Arbor.

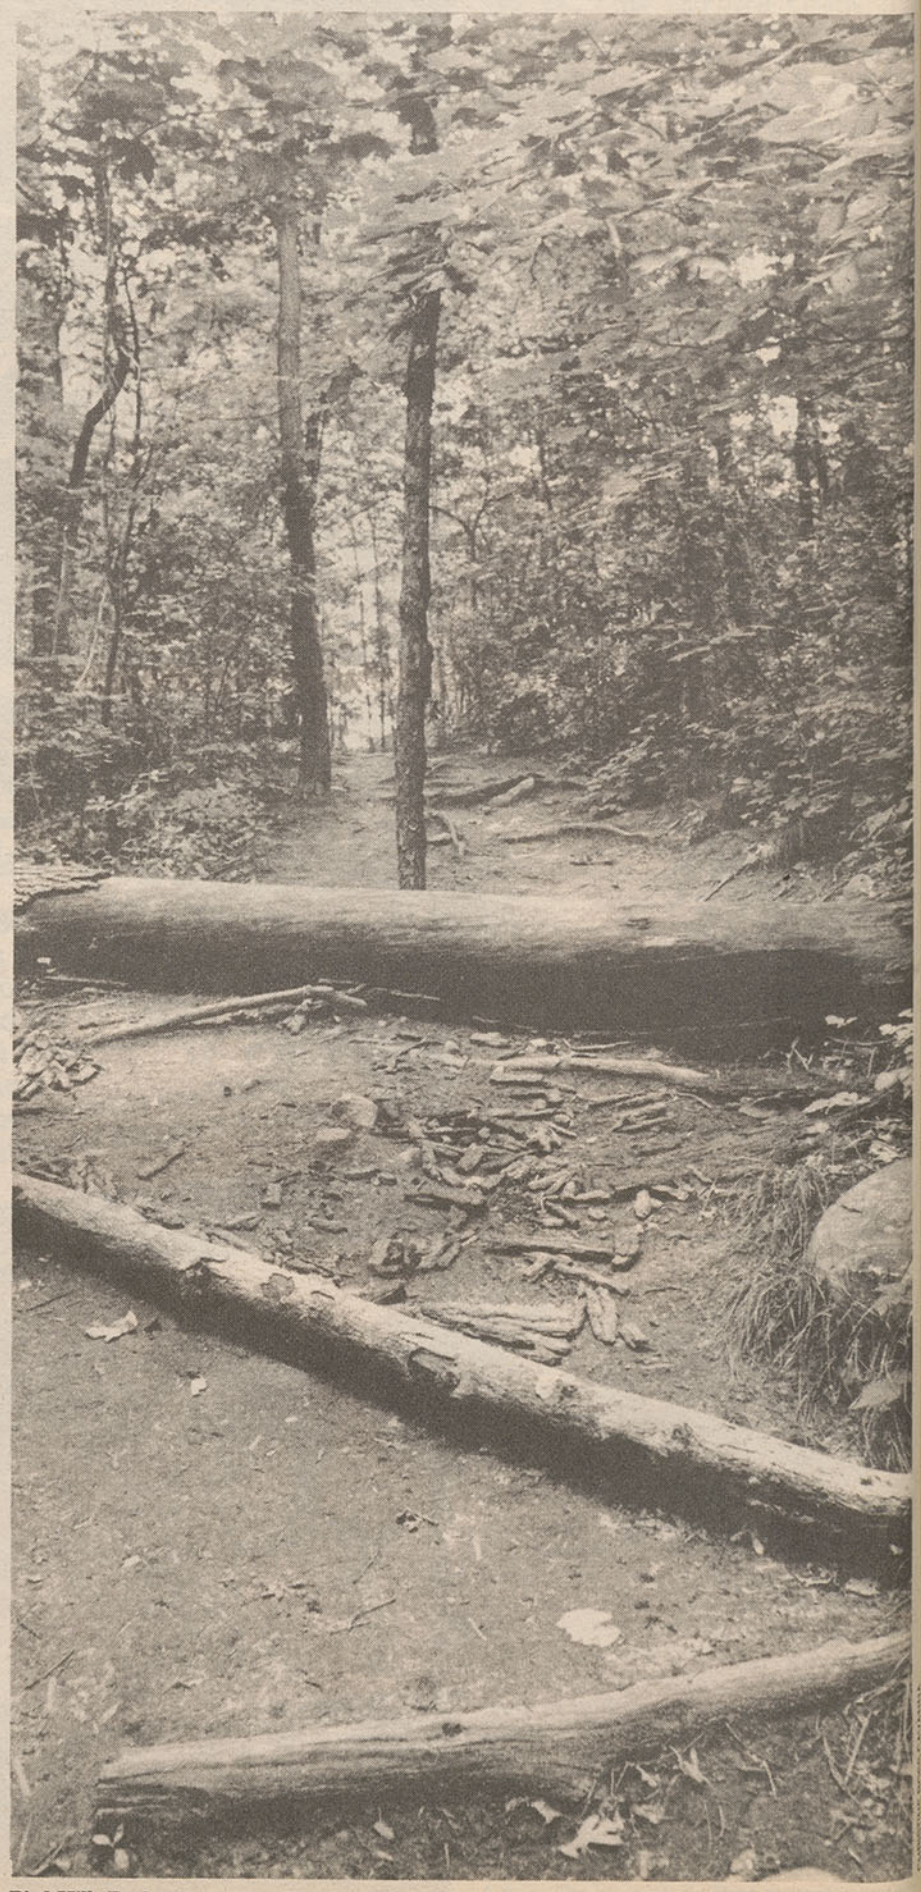
Creal Park, 1400 block of Argyle Crescent. 1.6 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, three basketball goals, picnic tables, play equipment.

Depot Park, island park on the Huron south of Argo Park. 0.1 acres. Nature area.

Devonshire Park, Geddes Avenue and Huron River Dr. 1.1 acres. Handicapped-accessible path from Devonshire Road to south entrance of Gallup Park. Trail, nature area.

Dicken Park, Dicken Dr. at Tudor. 0.4 acres. Open, landscaped park site.

Dolph Park, off Wagner between Jackson and



Bird Hills Park

CHRISTINE ROSS-CAVANNA

Dolph Park

Liberty. 44 acres. Well-marked and peaceful trails, woodchipped, lead through dense brush to beautiful overlooks of marshland and lily pads, and an open lake dotted with homes. Pretend the traffic noise from I-94 is a waterfall. There are pockets of trillium in the spring. Off-trail, parts of the park are very marshy. A favorite for Canadian geese. Boat launch, fishing, picnic tables.

Douglas Park, Washtenaw and Baldwin. 2.5 acres. Open grassy area used mostly for Frisbee and football.

Earhart Park, between Earhart Rd. and King Elementary School. 2.3 acres. Walks and trails, nature area, and a natural pond.

Eisenhower Park, Steeplechase Dr. adjacent to Churchill Downs Park. 10.6 acres. Undeveloped park site.

Ellsworth Park, Ellsworth Rd. between Jonathan Ct. and Braeburn Circle. 5 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, two basketball goals, volleyball court, natural ice rink, picnic tables, play equipment, and a small wooden pergola.

Esch Park, 2700 block of Esch Ave. 5 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, two basketball goals, softball field, play equipment.

Fairview Cemetery, adjacent to Beckley Park on Argo Dr. 9 acres. Burial place of many of Ann Arbor's earliest settlers.

Folkstone Park, off Folkstone adjacent to Greenbrier Park. 3 acres. Nature area with a woodlot. Walks and trails, picnic tables.

Forest Park, Handy Lane off Geddes east of Dixboro Rd. 18 acres. Nature area along the Huron River.

Forsythe Park, Packard at Arch. 0.3 acres. A tiny haven near the busy Packard/S. State intersection. Features a timber sculpture. Handicapped-accessible walk, basketball goal, play equipment, picnic tables.

Frisinger Park, E. Stadium at Woodbury. 3.2 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, softball field, barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment.

Fritz Park, Pauline near Redeemer. 5.3 acres. Walks and trails, nature area, shelter, barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment.

Fuller Recreation Area, Fuller at Glen. 65 acres. Swimmers and suntanners flock to the public pool in summer. Seven soccer fields make Fuller the city's soccer mecca. Handicapped-accessible walks, fishing, four lighted tennis courts, natural ice rink, picnic tables, restrooms.

Furstenburg Park, Fuller Road west of Gallup Park. 20.2 acres. Undeveloped nature area near Geddes Pond on the Huron River.

Gallup Park, east and west of Huron Pkwy., near Geddes. 83 acres. Many activities on the Huron River center around this scenic park. Extensive handicapped-accessible walks and trails, nature area, shelter, canoe rental, bicycle rental, boat launch, fishing, barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment, restrooms.

Garden Homes Park, Franklin between Miller and Foss. 12 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks and trails, nature area, play equipment.

Glacier Highlands Park, Larchmont and Barrister. 1.7 acres. Two basketball goals, natural ice rink, volleyball court, picnic tables, play equipment.

Glazier Hill Park, Glazier Way just west of Green Rd. 1.6 acres. Nature area, walks and trails along a ravine with a creek.

Greenbrier Park, Frederick Dr. 3.2 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, shelter, barbecue grills, picnic tables, volleyball court, play equipment.

Greenview Park, S. Seventh and Scio Church. 24 acres. Leased from the Ann Arbor public schools; adjacent to Pioneer High School. Greenview is home to one of Project Grow's nine organic garden plots. Play equipment.

Hannah Park, Arbana at Mark Hannah. 1 acre. Nature area.

Hanover Square, Packard at S. Division. 0.5 acres. Features the "Tree of Knowledge" sculpture evicted from its original location at State and Liberty.

Hansen Park, S. Maple between Pauline and W. Liberty. 9 acres. Nature area with woodlot.

Hollywood Park, borders Sequoia Blvd. and Abbot School. 3.6 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks and trails, nature area, play equipment.

Hunt Park, Spring and Sunset. 7 acres. With the possible exception of Cedar Bend Park, Hunt offers the best view of downtown Ann Arbor. Walks, shelter, tennis court, two basketball goals, volleyball court, soccer field, winter sledding area, picnic tables, play equipment, restrooms.

Huron Bridge Park, Barton Dr. at Whitmore Lake Rd. 3 acres. A surprisingly serene spot directly west of the M-14 bridge. Walk under M-14 to enter Bandemer Park. Fishing, barbeque grills, picnic tables.

Huron Highlands, Larkspur and Skydale Dr. 1.9 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, play equipment, soccer field, picnic tables.

Huron Hills Golf Course, Huron Pkwy. and Huron River Dr. 117.5 acres. Eighteen scenic holes of golf, winter sledding area, restrooms.

Island Park, Island Dr. and Cedar Bend. 11.5 acres. Recently renovated footbridges span the Huron, with access to Fuller Park. Island Park is famous for its Greek Revival shelter and large waterfowl population. Handicapped-accessible walks, fishing, three shelters, barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment, restrooms.

Kelly Park, borders Miller and Abbot Elementary. 0.6 acres. Undeveloped park site.

Kempf House, 312 S. Division. 0.13 acres. The city's historic Greek Revival house was built in 1853, and is run by the City Parks and Recreation Department, the Historic Commission, and the Kempf House Board. Relax in the peaceful, shaded garden, which contains a historic magnolia tree and beautiful flowers. Tours of the house, by appointment (996-3008), cost $1.

Kimberly Colony Park, west of Buhr Park between Kimberly and Colony. 7.2 acres. Undeveloped nature area.

Kuebler Langford Park, Huron River Dr. north of M-14. 27.5 acres. Nature area with a creek.

Lakewood Park, Central and Lakeview. 7 acres. Nature area with a woodlot and creek.

Lansdowne Park, Lansway and Ascot. 2.5 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, two basketball goals, barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment.

Las Vegas Park, Las Vegas and Runnymede. 1.8 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, play equipment, picnic tables.

Lawton Park, Mershon south of Scio Church. 5.3 acres. Softball field.

Leslie Park, Dhu Varren east of Pontiac Trail. 25 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, three tennis courts, four basketball goals, two softball fields, winter sledding area, barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment.

Leslie Park Golf Course, Traver Rd. 150 acres. Eighteen-hole golf course, winter sledding area, restrooms.

Leslie Science Center, Traver Rd. 22.6 acres. Regular exhibits at the Ecology Center. Also contains one of the city's nine Project Grow organic garden plots. Handicapped-accessible walks, nature area, winter sledding area, restrooms.

Leslie Woods, Upland Dr. 32 acres. Undeveloped nature area near the southern edge of Leslie Park Golf Course. Has a woodlot and small creek.

Liberty Plaza, Division and Liberty. 0.2 acres. A great place for people-watching, with live music on Thursdays at noon during the summer. Concrete park with benches and lots of levels.

Longshore Park, Longshore Dr. 1.1 acres. Play equipment, picnic tables.

Manchester Park, Washtenaw at Manchester. 1.5 acres. A landscaped open area near an AATA bus transfer spot.

Marshall Property, Plymouth and Dixboro. 87 acres. This little-known nature area on Ann Arbor's northeast side features grassy meadows and hilly woodlands, much of which were planted forty years ago by former owner Dr. Mark Marshall. The area abounds in deer tracks and woodchuck holes, but you have to look for them. Do your part and bring a bag to pick up some of the unsightly trash near Plymouth Rd.

Maryfield and Wildwood Park, Maryfield and Wildwood. 5.5 acres. Nature area along a small ravine, basketball goal, volleyball court, picnic tables, play equipment.

Meadowbrook Park, S. Seventh and Northbrook. 2.3 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, play equipment, picnic tables.

Miller Park, Miller Rd. west of Newport. 22.5 acres. From Grace St. heading in, the vines, lush greenery, and overhanging wild rose arbors create the feeling of a jungle. Very hilly with low brush. Overgrown in the summer. Has patches of wild onion, berries, and staghorn sumac.

Mixtwood Pomona Park, Pomona and Mixtwood. 0.3 acres. Picnic tables, play equipment.

Mushroom Park, Saxon and Waltham. 1.3 acres. Play equipment, picnic tables.

North Main Park, N. Main opposite Felch St. 0.5 acres. Shortcut to N. Fourth Ave. Handicapped-accessible. Popular tire swing.

Northside Park, Taylor and Pontiac. 5 acres. Leased from the Ann Arbor Public Schools, this park contains the Northside Community Center and a fen study area. Handicapped-accessible shelter, natural ice rink, tennis court, basketball goal, softball field, baseball field, soccer field, restrooms.

Oakridge Park, Glazier Way at Huron Pkwy. 2.4 acres. Nature area with walks and trails.

Parker Mill, Geddes east of Dixboro Rd. County park just east of Ann Arbor. Grist mill (circa 1900), picnic tables, nature area.

Pearl Park, north of Washtenaw along Huron Pkwy. 2.4 acres. Nature area.

Pilgrim Park, Verle near Marshall. 1.4 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, basketball goal, play equipment, picnic tables.

Plymouth Parkway Park, Plymouth at Broadway. 6.1 acres. A small creek winds through the park. Barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment.

The Ponds Park, off Gladstone north of Packard. 1.7 acres. An undeveloped nature area with a natural pond.

Postman's Rest Park, Vinewood and Wayne. 0.25 acres. This minute wooded refuge offers a respite from the city's hustle and bustle. A concrete seat loosely resembling an orange Martian is surprisingly comfortable. Benches and play equipment.

Riverside Park, Canal St. 15 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, fishing, softball field, soccer field, barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment.

Rose Park, Packard opposite Cobblestone Farm. 2.4 acres. Located near an AATA bus transfer point. Handicapped-accessible walks, picnic tables, play equipment.

Rose and White Park, E. Stadium and White. 2 acres. Contains a Tree City-USA dedication plaque. Handicapped-accessible walks, volleyball court, play equipment.

Ruthven Park, Geddes Rd. and Huron Pkwy. 23 acres. Undeveloped nature area that lies on a glacial kame, a small mound of stratified drift deposited by glacial meltwaters.

Scarlett Mitchell Park, west of US-23 and north of I-94. Entry through Scarlett School (Lorraine St.) or Mitchell School (Pittsview). 25.2 acres. Fairly flat trails wind through an oak-hickory forest. At the eastern end, the trail leads to a marsh and pond with Canadian geese and mallards.

Scheffler Park, Platt and Edgewood. 6 acres. This is primarily a picnic area near a creek, with beautiful forsythias in spring. Handicapped-accessible walks, shelter, two basketball goals, softball field, natural ice rink, barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment, restrooms.

South Maple Park, off W. Liberty just west of S. Maple. 8.9 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, two tennis courts, play equipment.

South Pond Park, E. Huron River Dr. and Chalmers. 14 acres. Undeveloped nature area. A natural pond is dotted with little islands.

South University Park, South University and Walnut. 0.4 acres. Shelter, basketball goal, play equipment.

Stoneybrook Park, Stone School Rd. to Champagne at Stratton Ct. 3.1 acres. Offers a wooden pergola shelter. Handicapped-accessible walks, two basketball goals, picnic tables, play equipment.

Sugarbush Park, Green Rd. north of Bluett. 30 acres. Chirping frogs, cinder paths, the smell of barbecues, and houses that almost look like tents through the trees give you the feeling that you're in a large, wooded campground. A ribbon of woods north of Rumsey Rd. connects two tennis courts and developed facilities to the Oakwoods future park site. Handicapped-accessible walks and trails, nature area, two basketball goals, picnic tables, play equipment.

Swift Run Park, Ellsworth at Platt. 35 acres. These flat meadows are good for softball games and dandelions. Sits atop completed sections of the city landfill. Will soon expand to 90–100 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, three softball fields, play equipment.

Sylvan Park, Margaret Dr. and Darrow. 9 acres. A shaded, grassy area with a creek. Pleasant woods are noisy as they approach US-23. Tennis court, basketball goal, barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment.

Terhune Pioneer Cemetery, Terhune and Lillian, just north of Packard. 0.9 acres. This hard-to-find tribute to three early Ann Arborites will reward you with a peaceful setting atop a grassy hill. Look for an eroding clay trail on the south side of Terhune. Crumbling stone walls enclose three graves: Revolutionary War soldier Ensign John Terhune (1758–1838); Sarah Vreeland Terhune (no dates on a basically unreadable tombstone); and Emily Whitmore (1807–1825), the "first white child buried in Washtenaw County."

Urban Sculpture Plaza, Catherine at N. Fourth Ave. 0.15 acres. A few landscaped beaches centered around David Heberling's untitled monumental sculpture.

Veterans Memorial Park, Jackson, N. Maple, and Dexter. 40 acres. The pool offers a newly built waterslide—the only one in the city. Also unique to Vets Park is the skateboard ramp, built in 1988. Walks, shelter, three lighted tennis courts, four lighted softball fields, lighted baseball field, winter sledding area, artificial ice rink, barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment, restrooms.

Virginia Park, Virginia at Fair. 6 acres. Two basketball goals, natural ice rink, play equipment, picnic tables, handicapped-accessible walks.

Waterworks Park, 200 block of S. Seventh. 2 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment.

Wellington Park, Alice at Bruce. 1.3 acres. Picnic tables, play equipment.

West Park, bordered by N. Seventh, Miller, Chapin, and W. Huron. 25.8 acres. Bring a blanket and a book or picnic and relax on the gently rolling hills. The bandshell has been the site of local concerts and the annual Mother's Day Peace Celebration. Handicapped-accessible walks and trails, nature area, shelter, three tennis courts, two basketball goals, volleyball court, softball field, baseball field, barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment, fountain, handicapped-accessible restrooms.

Wheeler Park, E. Summit, N. Fourth Ave., and Depot. 1.3 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, jogging track, handicapped-accessible shelters, four basketball goals, winter sledding area, barbeque grills, picnic tables, play equipment, fountain, restrooms.

Winchell Park, Winchell Dr. and St. Francis. 4.2 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, softball field, soccer field, barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment.

Windemere Park, Windemere and Charter Pl. 4.1 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, play equipment.

Winewood Thaler Park, bordered by Winewood, Thaler, and Carolina. 1.7 acres. Handicapped-accessible walks, nature area, basketball goal, play equipment.

Woodbury Park, Woodbury and Wisteria. 2.4 acres. Two tennis courts, basketball goal, play equipment.

Wurster Park, Edgewood Pl., along Madison and Third St. 5.7 acres. Great vista of downtown area. Handicapped-accessible walks and trails, volleyball court, barbecue grills, picnic tables, play equipment.

Natural foods should be judged on more than taste, price & nutrition.

People's Food Co-op offers a tasty, nutritious selection of natural foods at reasonable prices. Our definition of quality, however, does not stop here. We have other selection criteria to consider as well. Important among them are a concern for the environmental impact of food production and distribution methods and a commitment to progressive social ethics. These standards strengthen our commitment to:

- Increase the availability of foods grown without the use of hazardous chemicals
- Support local farmers and suppliers
- Promote minimally-processed, whole foods
- Give priority to goods produced with the least environmental, human and animal exploitation
- Support cooperatives and worker-owned businesses
- Meet special dietary needs
- Limit the use of non-degradable packaging

VIRGINIA DAVIS

The Society of Les Voyageurs

In 1907, U-M forestry students Elmer Lehndorff and Laurence Larke sat by a campfire in northern Lower Michigan. As Larke recalled a few years later, they contemplated the night sky, the woods, and life "away from the hustle and bustle of city life . . . [and] the clang of automobiles." What resulted is the Society of Les Voyageurs, a handpicked group of largely U-M alumni and students drawn to nature and the outdoors.

There are now almost 400 LV's, as members call themselves, in forty-six states and eleven countries. Originally the group invited only males from the U-M's School of Natural Resources, but women were admitted in 1971 and have since held all LV offices, including chief—the society's equivalent of president. Although the society is a recognized U-M student organization, members range in age from twenty to over eighty.

"The last group of people we initiated never would have met each other in the real world. Never!" says natural resources grad student Robert Bloye, thirty-eight. "One initiate is a radical feminist. Another is a National Guardsman who talks about 'dames' a lot. I thought, 'These two are going to kill each other.' They're best friends.

"This group brings together the academics and the crazy people, the tofu eaters and the haunch-of-deer chewers," says Bloye, who labels himself an outspoken Christian and the heretic of the group.

Hiking and cross-country skiing are the LV's main outdoor activities. The group also hosts canoe workshops, sing-alongs, and slide shows, but at its core are the Sunday night dinners at "the cabin," a cozy two-story cottage just north of the Argo Canoe Livery. The building is virtually hidden by tall Douglas firs and white and Scotch pines that were planted as saplings when it was built in 1925.

On one summer night, Danny Jones, twenty-three, prepares a venison stroganoff with deer he shot in his native Upper Peninsula, and Phil Dinehart, thirty-four, stirs a split-pea soup with chunks of carrots and ham. One cabin wall holds old framed photos of LV founders. On another wall, a seven-point buck, with the original 1942 metal deer tag hanging from its antlers, wears a graduate's mortarboard with four tassles.

"The place oozes history," says Jones.

"And mystery," adds Dinehart.

Les Voyageurs takes its name from the French Canadian fur traders who canoed the waterways of Quebec, Ontario, northern Michigan, and Minnesota loaded with beaver pelts purchased from the Indians. Dinehart says these early explorers were under 5′ 6″ and immensely strong. "The shortness factor surprised me," says Dinehart, who's also 5′ 6″.

"See, I knew I belonged here," agrees the cherubic Jones. He stands just under 5′ 4″.

The society is a fraternity, a family, and a cooperative rolled into one. Prospective members are voted in by secret ballot or a show of hands. As with Greek fraternities, members participate in secret initiation rites that LV's refuse to reveal to outsiders.

Members rotate cooking responsibilities for their Sunday night dinners. They also volunteer time and materials for cabin upkeep. Over the years, they have added a bathroom (members used an outhouse until the early 1950's) and built a log-cabin sauna. The most recent improvement is a large kennel for Bloye's two dogs, Lupin ("mostly wolf, part Alaskan husky, and part leprechaun") and Jasmine (a black Lab); until it was built, both dogs lived with Bloye in the cabin.

Members are sentimental about the group. "LV's are my biggest family connection here in Ann Arbor," says Dinehart, whose family lives between Grand Rapids and Lansing in the small farming community of Muir. "The log above the fireplace said it all as soon as I saw it, and it still says it: 'Here let the fires of friendship burn forever.' It's hokey, but it's true."

Performance Spaces

For exact locations, see map, p. 108

Ann Arbor Civic Theater, 1035 S. Main. 662–7282. The Civic Theater expects to spend another year at its current site, the former American Legion Hall, while looking for a new permanent location. This building contains two performance spaces, a 200-seat theater (east and west entrances) used by the Civic Theater for its Main Street Productions, and a 150-seat theater (north entrance) used by the Young People's Theater for its productions. (The Civic Theater's MainStage shows are presented in Lydia Mendelssohn Theater, the Michigan Theater, and the Power Center.) Ample parking is available behind the hall, even on U-M football Saturdays. Capacity: 150 & 200. Wheelchair accessible, air-conditioned.

The Ark, 637½ S. Main. 761–1451. Nationally famous folk music club located above the South Main Market. Programming includes a wide variety of traditional and contemporary acoustic music by local, national, and international performers. Also, occasional shows presented by independent promoters. Capacity: 275. Wheelchair accessible, air-conditioned.

Crisler Arena, Stadium Blvd. adjoining the U-M football stadium. 764–9565. Athletic facility for U-M varsity basketball, wrestling, and gymnastics. Programming also includes a few major popular music concerts booked through the U-M Office of Major Events, along with occasional antique shows, arts & crafts shows, and other special events. Capacity: 13,762. Wheelchair accessible, not air-conditioned.

Dance Gallery Studio, 111 Third St. 761–2728. Large dance studio with a new wood floor in a well-lit, airy space in the Performance Network complex. Also available for rental for dance, mime, theater, and musical performances. Capacity: 75. Wheelchair accessible, not air-conditioned.

Eyemediae, 214 N. Fourth Ave. 662–2470. Gallery and performance space in a converted storefront. Films, videos, poetry readings, performance artists, and workshops in assorted performing arts. No performances were shown here in the past year, but the group plans to show events beginning in the fall of 1989. Capacity: 70. Air-conditioned.

Ray Fisher Stadium, behind Yost Ice Arena. Access from South State Street. 747–2583. Athletic facility for U-M baseball. Capacity: 4,000. Wheelchair accessible.

Hill Auditorium, 825 North University at Thayer. 763–2113. Spacious auditorium with superlative acoustics, designed by Albert Kahn in 1913. Main floor and two balconies. Programming: University Musical Society concerts, free U-M School of Music concerts, and concerts presented by independent promoters and booked through the U-M Office of Major Events. Capacity: 4,173. Wheelchair accessible, not air-conditioned.

Kerrytown Concert House, 415 North Fourth Ave. 769–2999. Intimate, L-shaped concert space in a restored Victorian house. Programming: classical, jazz, and folk music, chamber theater, and poetry and fiction readings presented by the nonprofit KCH, usually on weekends. Also available for rent for performances, meetings, and receptions. Capacity: 120. Wheelchair accessible, air-conditioned.

Lydia Mendelssohn Theater, Michigan League (2nd floor), 911 North University. 763–2113. Plush theater with excellent theatrical acoustics built in 1929 by Irving Pond, who was also the architect of the Michigan Union. Main floor and balcony. Programming: opera productions by the U-M School of Music and theatrical productions by the U-M drama department, U-M student organizations, and U-M Gilbert & Sullivan Society. Also available for rent by local organizations. Capacity: 658. Wheelchair accessible, air-conditioned.

Michigan Theater, 603 E. Liberty. 668–8397. Built as a silent movie and vaudeville palace in 1928; purchased by the city of Ann Arbor in 1979. Operated by the nonprofit Michigan Theater Foundation, which has invested nearly $2 million in renovations over the past few years. Main floor and balcony. Programming: repertory and first-run films; live shows by local performing arts organizations; a "Serious Fun" performing arts series, "Drama Season 1990" presented by the MTF; and live shows by out-of-town performers presented by various independent promoters. Capacity: 1,713. Wheelchair accessible, air-conditioned.

Performance Network, 408 W. Washington. 663–0681. Nonprofit multipurpose performance space in a converted factory on the near west side. Programming: a wide range of political, experimental, and original drama produced by the Performance Network, Nother Productions, and other local alternative theater groups, as well as occasional regional, national, and international theater companies. Also, dance and music concerts, experimental cinema, play and poetry readings, and mixed-media events. Capacity: 150. Wheelchair accessible.

Power Center, Fletcher at Huron. 763–2113. U-M performing arts facility built in 1971. Main floor, balcony. Programming: U-M opera, musical theater, and dance productions; University Musical Society concerts; performances by U-M student arts organizations; and concerts and plays presented by independent promoters and booked through the U-M Office of Major Events. The primary venue for Ann Arbor Summer Festival events. Also available for rent by local performing arts organizations. Capacity: 1,414. Wheelchair accessible, air-conditioned. ►

Power Center

Rackham Auditorium, Rackham Bldg., 915 E. Washington. 763–2113. Also known as Rackham Lecture Hall. Comfortable, attractive auditorium built in 1939 by the Detroit design firm of Smith, Hinchman, and Grylls. Programming: U-M School of Music faculty recitals; University Musical Society concerts; U-M conferences and lectures. Not available to non-U-M organizations or to undergraduate U-M student organizations. Capacity: 1,129. Wheelchair accessible, air-conditioned.

Residential College Auditorium, East Quad, 711 East University. 763–0176. Intimate performance space in the U-M Residential College. Main floor, balcony. Programming: U-M Residential College Players and other Residential College performing groups; the Brecht Company. Also occasionally available for rental to local organizations. Capacity: 200–220. Wheelchair accessible, air-conditioned.

Trueblood Theater, Frieze Bldg. (2nd floor), 105 S. State. 764–0451. Versatile studio-size theater used for U-M drama department productions. Occasionally available for rental by local organizations. Capacity: 202. Wheelchair accessible, not air-conditioned.

U-M School of Music, Baits Drive (off Broadway), North Campus. 764–0594. The music school houses three small performance spaces, the Recital Hall (capacity: 250), McIntosh Theater (capacity: 145), and the Blanche Anderson Moore Organ Recital Hall. These spaces are used primarily for recitals by U-M music students and faculty, along with occasional guest artists. McIntosh Theater is also used by the U-M Dance Department. Wheelchair accessible, air-conditioned.

Movies

Commercial Theaters

Ann Arbor Theater, 210 S. Fifth Ave. (between Liberty and Washington). 761–9700. Pending a possible revival of the State Theater, the Ann Arbor Theater remains as the sole commercial theater in the downtown and campus areas. It offers a mixture of first-run Hollywood releases and more esoteric fare. Its conversion from one screen to two left the Ann Arbor with one theater that is incredibly long and narrow with a very small screen at the front. Plan on sitting near the front of this one. The second theater is unexceptional. Projection, sound, and upkeep are good at both theaters. There is a small parking lot next to the south side of the theater; there are two public parking structures within a few minutes' walk on Fourth Avenue. Admission: adults, $5.00 ($5.25 on Friday and Saturday evenings); weekdays before 6 p.m., children, seniors, and Tuesday evenings (excluding Memorial Day to Labor Day), $2.75.

Fox Village (United Artists), Maple Village Shopping Center, 375 S. Maple. 769–1300. This west side theater offers four screens—two in a subdivided theater, and two in a more recent addition. Programming is very similar to the commercial fare at United Artists' Briarwood location. Projection is adequate to good, upkeep is average at best. There is plenty of parking. Admission: adults, $5.00; weekdays before 6 p.m., $3.50; children, $3.50; seniors, $3.50.

The Movies (United Artists), Briarwood Mall. 769–8780. The local flagship of the mighty United Artists conglomerate, the Movies sports screens in seven theaters, with sizes ranging from 300 to 400 seats. The operation is typical of the modern shopping mall cinema complex: an efficient, low-overhead operation that reduces filmgoing to the bare essentials.

Programming is mostly mainstream commercial fare, and this theater's size allows it to offer the kind of long runs necessary to snag Hollywood's hottest products. Projection is usually good here, and overall upkeep is average. Ample parking is available. Admission: adults, $5.00; weekdays before 6 p.m., $3.50; children, $3.50; seniors, $3.50.

The Showcase Cinemas, 4100 Carpenter Rd. (Pittsfield Township). 973–8380. This fourteen-screen mega-plex, which opened in 1988, is big in every dimension, beginning with its awe-inspiring parking lot. Efficient crowd control seems to have been the main concern of the interior designers, but buying tickets and refreshments, despite the long lines, is relatively simple. The theaters themselves are the nicest in town, with large, comfortable seats, good viewing angles, and wide aisles. The sound system is excellent and projection flawless. Programming is strictly mainstream. Showcase Cinemas are state-of-the-art in local movie exhibition. Admission: adults, $5.25; weekdays before 6 p.m., $3.00; children and seniors, $3.00; Tuesday bargain rate (excluding summer) $2.75.

Nonprofit Film Groups

Alternative Action. 665–4626. This group is the last survivor of a string of film groups founded in the 1970's to raise funds for campus political activism. The current focus of the group is more cinematic and less directly political. Programs tend toward commercial features, but the group also routinely schedules important documentaries and other films covering liberal/leftist causes. Admission: $2.50.

Ann Arbor Film Cooperative, Michigan League, 227 S. Ingalls. 769–7787. This group was formed in the late 1960's, originally to support the work of local filmmakers with income from film screenings. Gradually, film production efforts dwindled, and the organization evolved into an exhibition-only group. The Co-op stimulated the screening of more contemporary films on campus. Current offerings span the spectrum of quality art and commercial films. The Co-op also founded and sponsors the 8mm Film Festival, an annual review of international work in the film medium's smallest format. Admission: $2.50; double feature, $3.50.

Cinema II, Michigan League, 227 S. Ingalls. 665–4626. The second film group on campus, Cinema II was formed in 1967. Cinema II was structured much like Cinema Guild, with a board of voting members choosing films and running showings. Recently revived following a year of inactivity, Cinema II plans once-a-week showings this year. Its programming is oriented toward classic and art films, both foreign and domestic. Admission: $2.50; double feature, $3.50.

Cinema Guild, Michigan League, 227 S. Ingalls. 994–0027. The oldest of all student film groups at the U-M, Cinema Guild has been showing since 1950, and until 1967 was the only campus film group. In 1963, the Guild participated in the founding of the Ann Arbor 16mm Film Festival. Cinema Guild made its name showing Chaplin, Eisenstein, Welles, and other film pioneers. Films are chosen every term by members of the group. Under financial pressure from rival groups and the VCR revolution, Cinema Guild has lately begun showing more contemporary films, but the orientation toward quality films remains. Admission: $2.50; double feature, $3.50.

Eyemediae, 214 N. Fourth Ave. 662–2470. See Performance Spaces.

Hill Street Cinema, Hillel Foundation, 1429 Hill Street. 769–0500. An off-campus film group housed at the local center for Jewish students, the Hill Street Cinema screens a wide variety of films in the auditorium at the Hillel Foundation. Showings are conducted in the Irwin Green Auditorium, which seats 300 and is air-conditioned. Programming ranges from classics to contemporary films, with a particular specialty in Israeli films and films of interest to the Jewish community. Usual showing nights are Wednesday, Saturday, and Sunday. Admission: $2.50.

Mediatrics, University Activities Center, Michigan Union. 763–1107. The only film group with university funding, Mediatrics was founded within the University Activities Center in the mid 1970's. In the past selections have tended toward commercial fare, but recently programming has become more interesting and original. Admission: $2.50.

Michigan Theater Foundation, 630 E. Liberty (at Maynard). 668–8480. The Michigan Theater, an ornate relic of a more genteel era of film exhibition, is indisputably the city's most handsome theater. Programming is eclectic and changes daily, with a varied schedule of mostly contemporary foreign and domestic films forming the core of screen offerings. Recently the theater has been showing first-run films at one show each night for a week or more running. Every March, the theater is the location of the Ann Arbor Film Festival, a week-long binge of avant-garde and student films. Parking is available in two nearby public parking structures on Thompson and E. Washington streets. Admission: adults, $3.50; students and seniors, $2.50.

Campus Auditoriums

Auditorium A, concourse between Angell, Haven, and Mason halls on the west side of the Diag. Approximately 385 theater-type seats. Decent size screen, fair to good sound, slightly shallow seating angle. Equipped to show 35mm films, Cinemascope. Parking: The U-M's Thayer structure is 200 yards north of Haven Hall.

Lorch Hall (old Architecture and Design Building), Tappan at Monroe. The longest operating film auditorium on campus and the original home of Cinema Guild, Lorch Hall has about 400 seats, good acoustics, and a long, narrow rectangular shape that's good for viewing films. A recent renovation, which included air-conditioning and cushioned seats, makes this the best place on campus for film viewing. Unfortunately, the Economics Department, headquartered in Lorch Hall, discourages public film showings, so most films shown here are co-sponsored by another U-M department. Parking: U-M structures at Hill near Tappan or at Church and South University.

MLB 3 & 4, Modern Languages Building, corner of Thayer and Washington. MLB 3 seats 450 people in theater-type seats and is air-conditioned. Smallish screen; side seats in front are at sharp angle to screen. Sound is fair to good.

MLB 4 seats 350 people in theater-type seats and is also air-conditioned. This smaller auditorium, which seems to be a mirror image of its larger companion, has better sight-lines in the side seats. Sound and relative screen size are about the same. Parking: Thayer structure is across the street.

Natural Science Building Auditorium, Natural Science Building, North University at Thayer. This lecture hall with its steep slope has a good view from all seats. Unfortunately, the seats provide no padding and minimal foot room. Screen size is rather small, and the sound is adequate at best. This auditorium is most comfortable for films of under two hours. Parking: Thayer structure.

The Star Theater Riot

On a March night in 1908, one of Ann Arbor's new motion picture theaters was the scene of an incident far more vivid than anything that could have been projected on the screen. It was an uprising of angry U-M students so large and so destructive that it invites comparison with any similar event in the history of Ann Arbor. When Ann Arborites looked at their copies of the Ann Arbor Daily Times-News the next day, its blaring headline told them what most already knew: the city had witnessed a "Disgraceful Riot at the Star Theater."

The Star Theater was an unlikely stage for a bitter confrontation. It was part of the first wave of movie exhibition that swept America, when short films were either squeezed in between vaudeville acts or billed as the sole attraction in converted storefronts that their proprietors called "nickel theaters" but that we remember as nickelodeons. By 1908, there were at least four places to see a motion picture in Ann Arbor: two vaudeville houses, the Bijou and the Majestic, and two nickelodeons, the Theatorium, at 119 East Liberty, and the Star Theater, at 118 East Washington.

Movies at that time were usually short, about fifteen minutes, and primitive by today's standards. Plots were skeletal, acting was broad, and the style was simple. Even such basic film techniques as the close-up were yet to be invented. Much of the charm of film still lay in its novelty. Even more important, it was affordable entertainment. Then, as now, movies were the cheapest ticket in town.

In the big cities, movies attracted armies of immigrants and the poor. In Ann Arbor, 5,000 U-M students, most of them on a budget, were avid consumers. In the early years of this century, there were nearly as many theater advertisements in the student-run Michigan Daily as in the Ann Arbor Daily Times-News. But one theater, the Star, is conspicuously missing from the pages of the student newspaper.

Why the manager of the Star Theater, Bert E. Reynolds, avoided student trade is unclear. There was talk that he had clashed with students previously, when he ran a business on State Street. But for whatever reason, Reynolds deliberately discouraged students from attending the Star. "I am not catering to the patronage of the students. I don't want the students in my place," he told the Daily just before the riot. Had Reynolds sold dry goods or worked for the gas company, his disdain for the students might not have caused friction, but as manager of the cheapest theater in town, he was headed for conflict.

It began on Saturday evening, March 14. The Star was showing "The French Spy," a now forgotten six-reel epic billed as "The Most Extravagant Scenic Production Ever Reproduced." At some time during the show, the piano accompaniment was disturbed by the sound of whistling. Jake Schlimmer, the theater's "special officer" (bouncer), identified the source as a party of four students. They denied responsibility, but when the sound of shuffling and stamping feet disturbed the film again, Schlimmer ejected one of the students. As Schlimmer and the student passed Reynolds, the theater manager taunted, "That's right officer, put the hound out." The youth responded by throwing a punch at the manager. Schlimmer intervened, and with a few strokes of his club he bloodied the student and knocked him to the ground.

Within a couple of hours, a crowd of two hundred had gathered at the theater. Outraged that Reynolds's bouncer had beaten a student with impunity, they milled about hurling threats and insults. By midnight, however, East Washington Street had returned to normal. The next day, Sunday, passed quietly, but on Monday word reached Ann Arbor police chief Theodore C. Apfel that more vigorous retribution was being planned against the Star. Apfel knew that his eight-man force would need help. He hurriedly deputized another fifteen men.

Bert Reynolds was also warned: a terse note arrived that read "Dirty Pup, Fair Warning." Later he spoke out defiantly from the front of his theater, stating, "If there is any disturbance I will be protected by the chief of police of Ann Arbor, the sheriff of Washtenaw county, the state militia and Governor Warner."

The test of his confidence came early. Between eight and nine o'clock that evening, a crowd of students estimated to be around 1,000 gathered on East Washington, packing it from Fourth Avenue to Main. At the same time, a disturbance began inside the theater. Officers on the scene arrested two students, but when they tried to remove them, the crowd forced the release of one of their classmates from police custody.

At that point the demonstration turned violent. In the words of a Michigan Daily reporter:

"Urged by curbstone harangues, irresponsible individuals began hurling bricks at the illuminated front of the show place. One by one the lights were extinguished. One by one the windows were crushed in and a two-by-four-battering ram soon punctured the flimsy wood-work of the front. A few students went inside and soon pushed the electric piano out. A final chord was struck and the piano was in the hands of a hundred students each claiming a souvenir."

During the assault, the police retreated to the edge of the crowd, where they arrested what the Daily later claimed were mostly onlookers. At one point the city fire department was dispatched to hose the crowd into submission. The crowd charged the firemen, disconnected their hose, and cut it into pieces. On orders of their chief, the firemen, too, retreated.

About nine-thirty, a call went up from the edge of the crowd: "Hats, hats, President Angell, President Angell." At the request of Mayor John Henderson, U-M president James B. Angell and law school dean Harry B. Hutchins had come to the theater to make a dramatic appeal to the students. "Gentlemen, this is deplorable," Angell declared. "We wish you to follow Dean Hutchins and me home and go to bed." Some students followed, but many remained. With each new arrest the crowd surged toward the jail, trying to disentangle their classmates from the clutches of the law. Little further damage was done to the theater, and slowly the crowd thinned.

Two hours later, the governor granted permission to call the militia. When the bugle blew to mobilize the troops, according to the Times-News, the remainder of the crowd dispersed.

The full extent of damage was measured the next morning. The Star had sustained heavy losses: the exterior was demolished, as was the projector and the electric piano. About $50 worth of movies was missing. The regular piano was intact, however, and the interior of the theater largely untouched. Exterior damage to adjacent storefronts indicated that the students had been either short on aim or long on enthusiasm. Eighteen students had been jailed, fifteen for riot and three for disorderly conduct.

Among townspeople, righteous indignation was rampant. City Council angrily voted to demand maximum penalties for the students arrested. The Daily, on the other hand, declared that "the rotten 'justice' in Ann Arbor smells to heaven," and argued that the "weak" in any civilization will "secure by violence those rights which common justice, bound, gagged, and mummified, is unable to grant him."

Over the next few days, however, gestures of reconciliation were made. The students voted to tax themselves for the damages, while local merchants covered the $1,000 bail fee per student. At the preliminary hearing a petition signed by seventy-four merchants and prominent citizens urged dropping the criminal charges.

The wounds healed quickly. By March 24, the Star Theater had reopened, and when the students' trial began in May it lasted only long enough for a brief lecture by the circuit court judge and an agreement to drop the charges in exchange for payment of $1,000 in damages and court costs.

The Star Theater riot of 1908 was perhaps the worst example of serious student rowdiness that appeared every decade or so in the fifty years after the Civil War. In contrast to the April 1989 riot on South University after the U-M men's basketball team's NCAA championship, the Star Theater riot focused on a single establishment and reflected a genuine, if overdrawn, grievance. Reactions to the two riots also differed. In 1989, finger-pointing predominated on all sides. In 1908, both students and townspeople took responsibility for their actions, at least once passions cooled. The homogeneous nature of both the town and university, the greater interdependence among all involved, and the political power of the town's merchants all contributed to an environment in which a fair and just resolution to the Star Theater riot could be reached. —Patrick Murphy

The Bella Ciao

The storefront at 118 West Liberty has been a restaurant for decades, but the pivotal year was 1979, when it became Leopold Bloom's. Bloom's erudite name, menu, and design were a complete about-face for the spot after its years as an ordinary Chinese-American place called Leo Ping's. Since 1979, it has gone through a number of changes in ownership, and in that short time has played host to the whims of several of Ann Arbor's most strong-minded restaurateurs, as well as lower-profile owners, chefs, consultants, and managers.

The main credit for its present design and atmosphere belongs to Bloom's owner Ned Duke, better known as the owner of the original Mr. Flood's Party next door. Duke invented Bloom's primarily to showcase his increasingly exquisite taste in design (after it failed he opened a successful gallery in Birmingham), and the space still bears his stamp. The roots of the present menu can be traced back to the next owner, Larry Bongiovanni. Bongiovanni first attempted to replicate his suburban Detroit sandwiches and burger joint in downtown Ann Arbor. When that failed within a year, he hired controversial food and wine visionary Peter DiLorenzi (most recently the main creative genius behind the Kerrytown Bistro) to install an Italian menu.

After various shifts in names and personnel, the business has stabilized over the last three years. The Bella Ciao is now owned and managed by Jim MacDonald. Frank Lucarelli is the chef. They continue to present the kind of food and ambience Duke and DiLorenzi originally conceived.

It could be argued that Bella Ciao's current excellence is partly a tribute to the cuisine of Italy, a country blessed with some of the best foods and wines in the world. How could a menu built upon fresh pasta, garlic, tomatoes, herbs, veal, sausages, and cheeses miss? Add to that list seafood, strong red wines, and a rich, European-style dessert tray, and it's hard to imagine a person who couldn't put together a meal from Bella Ciao's menu.

Some things change here but others stay the same, like the rich, slightly bitter braised kale that comes with most meals—unique and exactly right. The menu rotates monthly, but there's always some variation of my favorite Italian dish—a fabulously robust pasta with some non-tomato combination of bacon, cheese, sausage, olives, or peppers. Another rough-and-rich peasant dish usually on the menu is dense chunks of well-olive-oiled bread, fontina cheese, and anchovies, grilled on a skewer.

The menu includes plenty of more well-bred entrees, too, such as veal scallopini or grilled shrimp. Still, no entree is priced over $15—pastas are in the $9 to $12 range—and the wine list is mainly midrange, making Bella Ciao a comparatively affordable treat. I won't even mention the desserts, except to say that most people find them peerless and I seldom have had room for them.

The authentic Mediterranean dishes are complemented by Bella Ciao's atmosphere, which seems made for warm, intimate, convivial enjoyment of food, drink, and conversation. This is one of downtown's prototypical high, narrow commercial spaces, and a decorating touch less deft than Ned Duke's might have made it cramped. Instead, with its bottle-green wallpaper, brass fixtures, and light-colored wainscotting, the atmosphere is elegant and warm. The result is a jewel of a restaurant. —Sonia Kovacs

Frank's Restaurant

During my first few days in Ann Arbor I was sloshing down Maynard in a pouring afternoon rain. Nickels Arcade provided a respite from the elements, but I was looking for a more comfortable place to wait out the storm. McDonalds's omnipresent yellow arches tempted me for a moment, but the thought of the pastel, plastic seats and waxy corporate cups with plastic lids quickly persuaded me to look elsewhere. Then I spotted the neon letters: FRANK'S RESTAURANT.

In New York City, where I grew up, there's a diner on practically every corner. Frank's felt like home: a comfortable coffee shop with pictures of the Acropolis and Greek columns decorating the walls. I sat by the window and drank coffee, watching people run around in the rain.

A large number of regulars find the comfortable, homey atmosphere at Frank's appealing. Mabel Lin Tang, the current owner, professes to know over 90 percent of the customers by name. Many of them, including several top U-M officials and Mayor Jerry Jernigan, have been coming to Frank's for years.

The original Frank, Frank Petropoulos, opened up in 1970. Neither Gus Mermigas, who reigned from 1973 to 1988, nor Mabel Tang have changed much of the original's unassuming simplicity. Peter Poulos, Frank's brother-in-law, has been the cook for the past seven years, cranking out grilled cheese sandwiches and French toast. Frank's brother, George Petropoulos, one of the co-owners of the Cottage Inn restaurant, comes in regularly for coffee and to offer Tang, who never ran a restaurant before, advice and support.

Tang came to Michigan sixteen years ago from Hong Kong to get her master's in social work. After leaving a job at the Salvation Army, she decided to go into business for herself. She says that her social work background helps her create a comfortable atmosphere at Frank's. When one regular customer was sick for an extended period, his family telephoned Frank's to explain why he hadn't been coming in. When a U-M professor, a regular at Frank's, recently passed away, Mabel was again notified by telephone.

The culinary options at Frank's are pleasantly unsurprising: French toast, burgers, BLT's, and hot open-faced sandwiches grace the well-worn menu. But, then again, it's not the food that keeps me coming back to Frank's.

Del Rio

When Rick Burgess and Ernie Harburg changed the Del Rio from a working-class beer-and-shots place to a collectively run bar and restaurant in 1969, they tacked the following words on the wall:

The Del Rio Philosophy:

1. Have fun.
2. Make enough money to continue having fun.
3. Help a few dreams come true along the way.

That laconic romanticism—typical of Ann Arbor's 1960's counterculture—has long since gone out of fashion. The Del Rio, though, continues to stand out among Ann Arbor bars. It's still run collectively: staff members make all management decisions at monthly staff meetings, and any staff member can initiate an agenda item. Committees are formed to examine specific changes and report back to the staff meeting before votes are taken. The staff also conducts employment interviews, hires, and fires.

Del Rio's system of management results in some novel worker-initiatives. When the day cooks complained that the oven made the kitchen unbearably hot, the staff decided to make pizza and other popular items available only after 5 p.m. Several years ago, Julie Black, who has tended bar at the Del Rio for fourteen years, decided that the brand of bottled hot sauce they used was "a waste of glass and money." She created her own "Mama Jules' Hot Sauce," served with the bar's popular Mexican specialties. Del Rio is also the only place in town where you can purchase the Michigan-made Kalamazoo Brew on tap.

The food is simple but good, from the enormous Angelica B. (an inside-out pizza with seasonal vegetables) to the Det Burger, steamed in beer. The food is cheap, too. Nothing on the menu costs over $4.50.

The Del Rio "has a timeless atmosphere and a mellow feeling it's hard to put a label on," says one customer, an Ann Arbor teacher. A variety of people frequent the bar, from ironworkers to students to yuppies to local jazz musician and U-M Diversity Coordinator Harvey Reed, who proudly introduces himself as "the Del Rio shrink." (He does have a Ph.D.) Reed often plays, as does owner Rick Burgess, in the weekly jazz sessions held every Sunday from 5 to 9 p.m.

The most common complaint about the Del Rio is that, although windows were recently added along one wall, it's too dark. As Julie Black puts it, "it used to be like looking inside your hat." The problem, she explains, is that a major change is too costly. But darkness seems a small price to pay for a place as intriguing as the Del Rio.

Bangkok I and Bangkok II Restaurants

We invite you to our Bangkok authentic Thai restaurants to savor some of our unique foods.

Thai cuisine ranges from mild and subtly flavored dishes to hot and fiery ones. We use a variety of herbs and spices in our foods, including garlic, lemon grass, galanga, giner, basil leaves, mints, and hot peppers. Our curry paste is a blend of at least nine different ingredients.

Thailand's long, beautiful coastline has also given us a wealth of traditional seafood dishes.

We take great pride in preparing Thai food, to make each dish a work of heart. Come and enjoy!

Sze-Chuan West

The Chinese restaurants of New York and San Francisco sit in their own world, one of winding streets, enticing smells, produce carts, and shops full of brightly colored robes. Their midwestern cousins inevitably suffer by comparison. Ann Arbor's Chinese restaurants are widely scattered in workaday storefronts handed down from such dull predecessors as coffee shops and fast food chains.

The one striking exception is Sze-Chuan West. Its low ceilings and surrealistically curving walls create an exotic dining atmosphere unmatched in Ann Arbor. The peculiar post-Stone Age decor dates from the 1965 opening of Kale's Waterfall, "a steak and dancing nightclub," according to Sze-Chuan West's founder and owner, Frank Tsou. In 1972, Kale's was replaced by Lim's, a Cantonese restaurant. Tsou took over in 1981 at a time when Szechwan restaurants were sweeping the country. Szechwan, famed for its spicy cuisine, is a remote western province of China. The "West" in the restaurant's name, though, mostly refers to Tsou's original Sze-Chuan—located in a typically mundane shopping strip in Canton Township.

Tsou is convinced that Sze-Chuan West thrives because of its appeal to Ann Arbor's diversity. A recent Sunday night visit turned up west side yuppies, families, and a few U-M students escaping from campus. Two senior citizens munched wordlessly on a moo-shoo dish rolled in delicate Mandarin pancakes. A child clapped happily as a waiter set one of his family's dishes aflame. We tried hot-and-sour soup, sesame noodles, General's Chicken, and home-style soy cakes (tofu) with vegetables. But if you're at all acquainted with Chinese cuisine, try almost anything. You won't be disappointed. If you like spicy food, though, make sure you tell your waitperson when you order. Prices are reasonable; entrees are in the $6–$10 range.

Tsou says he and chef Nie-Yie Chang liked the nontraditional decor when they took over the building—and besides, they didn't want to spend the money necessary to renovate. The Taiwan-born Tsou even argues that the decor adds an aura of authenticity to his Chinese restaurant. After Mao Zedong and his Communist comrades made their famous Long March through China in the 1930's, he points out, they ended up in Yenan. There, they hid out in caves that, Tsou claims, remind him and chef Chang of Sze-Chuan West's grottoes.

CHRISTINE ROSS-CAVANNA

State Street at North University

Downtown

Ann Arbor's central city is no longer its busiest shopping district—Briarwood wrested that distinction away overnight when it opened in 1974—but it remains its most eclectic. One veteran downtown-watcher likes to say that Ann Arbor has a truly dazzling collection of shops within its city limits; the problem is that they are sprinkled so thinly within those limits. Wouldn't it be great, she asks, if all of Ann Arbor's star stores were gathered together: Borders Book Shop next to the Selo Shevel Gallery, Kitchen Port abutting Schoolkids' Records, and Collected Works a door away from the Peaceable Kingdom?

It would be something—picture the best all clustered in and around Nickels Arcade, for example—and it would also give the central city what it has tried but failed on many occasions to achieve: a cohesive, unified, and densely packed central shopping district. What it has instead are two distinct downtown districts (Main Street and Kerrytown) and two more abutting the U-M's central campus (State Street and South University).

South University is the shopping district most clearly in thrall to the U-M student trade. In recent years it has been more and more dominated by inexpensive quick-fix eateries, from the Oasis Deli and Red Hot Lovers at one end down to the Bagel Factory and Steve's Lunch at the other, with several national chains prominent in the blocks between them. There are still interesting shops that draw customers to the area, from Logos bookstore and Mary Dibble to Middle Earth. But what Fred Ulrich, the late bookstore owner who owned much of both sides of the street, envisioned as a diverse retail strip has increasingly become the U-M's unofficial commercial dining service.

State Street, on the opposite side of the U-M Diag, is a rich and seemingly prosperous hybrid. For eager-to-spend students armed with disposable income, it's a healthy, bustling strip. T-shirts, books, records, and beer all conspire to draw $10 bills, crisp from the money machine, from passersby. Jacobson's and surrounding stores, meanwhile, attract their share of the city's affluent and stylish full-time residents. Marty's remains the place for graduating seniors to get their interview suits. And Van Boven's and the glitzy Carl Sterr—old style and new chic—add a decidedly upscale touch.

To the north, Kerrytown and its surrounding blocks can, at its best, call to mind a quaint European village. At its worst, the area can seem overly bohemian and pretentious. The real attraction of this district is its sense of shopping as scavenger hunt, the thrill of stopping in for orange roughy here and fresh artichokes there and a high-tech pepper mill over here. Taken together, the offerings of the small shops could fill their own supermarket, but the higher quality—and in some cases, prices—make Kerrytown better suited for discretionary spending. A trip to the Farmers' Market on a Saturday morning can quickly turn into a half-day of ambling through the neighborhood and two arms filled with several small bags of goods.

Main Street has been Ann Arbor's trading center ever since the city was founded, the original home of the city's basic retailers. In the mall era (which arrived locally with the opening of Arborland in 1961), that role hasn't always been easy, and the future holds no guarantees that perseverance will be rewarded. After much attrition, the street is dotted with the sturdiest survivors, businesses that have weathered the onslaught from the periphery through a combination of tenacity and conservative management. Some stores, like Wilkinson's Luggage and Schlanderer's Jewelers, have established themselves as destinations in their own right through astute merchandising and personal service. But there are also empty storefronts on the street, and some businesses appear to be hanging on by tradition and determination alone.

The veteran stores that have survived, and the new ones that have joined them, share an emphasis on personal service. Main Street, like Kerrytown, is a one-on-one setting, in which customers often deal directly with the proprietor. The merchandise, too, often bears the stamp of a distinctive personal sensibility.

That's equally true of the street's many destination restaurants—by far its healthiest group of new businesses in the last decade. Meals are prepared for the most part individually, free of the freezing and zapping that mark so many microwave-happy restaurant chains. Main Street's rich choice of restaurants now draws diners from throughout the county and beyond, and more and more stores have taken to staying open well into the evening to serve the post-dinner trade.

Through the Downtown Development Authority, the city has spent millions of dollars on downtown parking. It has also been making a concerted effort to forge stronger links between downtown's scattered shopping nuclei. Fourth Avenue from Liberty Street to Kerrytown, and Liberty from Main to State, have been treated to widened, brick-accented sidewalks and tree plantings. The attractive touches are meant to entice pedestrians into longer strolls and encourage more stores to fill in the gaps between Main, State, and Kerrytown.

With scattered popular establishments like Afternoon Delight, Seva, and Sam's Store, Liberty Street has periodically shown signs of developing into the strong retail corridor that's needed. Still, large holes remain. The Federal Building plaza is a barren wasteland of concrete and shoddily repaired brick, the corner park at Division has degenerated into little more than a dugout refuge for street people, and the recent departure of Michigan Book from the corner of Division has created an ominous—and critically positioned—void.

One key to Liberty's future will be what the city decides to do with the land currently used as the public library parking lot. A task force organized to plan the project has endorsed a mixed-use development with some retail space and a public recreational area, possibly a skating rink in winter. Others, including many downtown residents, favor a large, open park. Whatever is created there will have to draw people downtown if Liberty is to become a solid connection between Main and State, and if downtown's scattered jewels are finally to have the unified setting they deserve.

Malls and Strips

Ann Arbor's peripheral shopping districts are only about thirty years old, but in that time shifting business and urban planning strategies have created three distinct styles of retailing. In the 1950's and 1960's, stark commercial strips anchored by discount shopping centers sprang up on Washtenaw and West Stadium. In the 1970's, the toney and immense Briarwood Mall became the core of a new retail, office, hotel, and residential district. And in the 1980's, as Ann Arbor's growth has increasingly sprawled out into the surrounding townships, a new generation of discounters and small centers has appeared beyond the city limits.

Arborland Mall has undergone a roller-coaster sequence of prosperity, steep decline, and revitalization. When it opened in 1961 as a sprawling outdoor collection of shops, Arborland drew shoppers away from both Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti by offering convenient one-stop shopping on a scale as yet unseen in the area. Its towering red "A" sign welcomed visitors and new residents to the city, and gave them the temperature and time of day to boot.

But in 1974, Arborland fell victim to the same process it once represented. That was the year Al Taubman opened his far larger and fancier Briarwood Mall on South State. As the crowds grew at Briarwood they dwindled at Arborland. When it became evident that Briarwood couldn't be beaten, the decision was made to join them instead. So in 1980 Arborland's outdoor mall was enclosed and renovated, and new owners went head-to-head with Briarwood for prime national tenants.

It didn't work. Even redone, Arborland proved to be a weak opponent for the now-mighty Briarwood. In 1983, it was sold and again reconfigured. Its latest incarnation represents a new direction; by most indications, it's a good one for the mall to take. Now called Arborland Consumer Mall, it has earned a reputation in both Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti as a high-value, low-price shopping center. With stores like Burlington Coat Factory, Service Merchandise, F and M Distributors, and Marshall's, Arborland shoppers can find many of the same goods as at Briarwood—though often in last year's styles—at considerable savings.

The path out to Arborland, Washtenaw Avenue, is dominated by car dealerships, fast food outlets and gas stations. Giant outlets of all three regional appliance superchains—ABC Warehouse, Fretter's, and Highland—sit within a few hundred feet of each other.

The commercial strip on West Stadium and Maple Road bears an obvious kinship to the one on Washtenaw. Both share the utilitarian ugliness of the the classic American strip, slightly muted in recent years by efforts at civic beautification. But West Stadium has been particularly active in the attempt to define a new look and image. With cooperation from the city in its ongoing push to improve Ann Arbor's entrance ways, shopkeepers have promoted the area as "The Boulevard," hoping to give their area more cohesion and to encourage people to shop up and down the street rather than to make only one stop along the way. With a couple of Ann Arbor's largest locally owned businesses—Barnes Ace Hardware and the Home Appliance Mart—they already have significant draws that should help in that attempt.

The effort comes none too soon. The businesses on Stadium and Maple face a growing new competitor in the commercial development now springing up on Jackson Road. Spurred by the extension of Ann Arbor's sewer system into Scio Township, numerous small centers are appearing as far out as Zeeb Road and beyond. Catering primarily to the growing exurbs, they're also intercepting rural traffic that once made its way onto West Stadium and into downtown Ann Arbor.

Just as Washtenaw is anchored by Arborland, the west side strip has its own major shopping centers. Sitting side by side at the corner of Jackson and Maple roads, Westgate and Maple Village provide good examples for comparing the effectiveness of local and nonlocal management.

In 1980, Westgate underwent a radical remodeling, abandoning an austere, modern style that hadn't aged well in favor of rustic wood and shingles. Many of the stores had already been changed, as the center made a move to name-brand discounters later copied by Arborland. The renovation sent a clear statement that Westgate's local management had noticed that times, and people, were changing. Today, even with a parking lot more cratered than the city's worst streets, the mall is thriving. New outfits like Barry Bagel's Place and Siam Kitchen are carving out a place in their markets, T.J. Maxx still packs them in, and as of the summer of 1989, there wasn't a single vacant storefront in the center.

Maple Village represents the other side of the coin. After Westgate was redone, Maple Village's management pledged to make a substantial improvement to its own physical plant, but that never materialized. The mall still carries the dated look that Westgate stripped away; indeed, with a few hundred Ford Galaxies and Chevrolet Impalas in the parking lot, Maple Village would make an ideal location to film a period movie depicting life in 1967.

What Maple Village has managed to do is retain its main anchor store, K Mart, and add two other chain behemoths, Dunham's and Church's Lumber. However strong those pillars are, though, they seem unable to hold up the rest of the mall. A handful of unkempt empty storefronts have lingered for years, and the recent trend has been toward still more departures.

When Ann Arbor's teens step into their untied basketball shoes, comb their hair a fourth time, and announce they are going "to the mall," they mean only one place. Fortunately for the merchants of Briarwood Mall, this most numerous, but frugal, group of shoppers is not alone. In the fifteen years since it opened its doors, Briarwood has constantly updated its offerings, improved the quality of its stores, and become more popular as it has grown into a powerful super-regional mall, luring crowds from thirty and forty miles in all directions.

With more than one million square feet of floor space and anchor stores Sears, J.C. Penney, Lord and Taylor, and Hudson's, a mall the size of Briarwood would ordinarily be surrounded by a commercial strip of gargantuan proportions as smaller retailers sought to cash in on the traffic. But when the mall was built, city planners decided that they wanted no more of the strips that surrounded Arborland and Westgate. They barred major retailers from opening within half a mile of the center, zoning instead for a mix of offices, hotel space, and housing.

Aesthetically, the result is nondescript at best, but there's no questioning the economic success of the city's Briarwood-area plan. Thanks to Briarwood, the south side is now Ann Arbor's busiest shopping district. Thanks to new construction around the mall, the area is the city's largest office center and busiest hotel district as well.

While retail stores are still effectively banned from popping up next to the mall, competitors have begun to cluster just beyond the half-mile limit. In the last two years, Mervyn's, Meijer's, the Colonnade shopping center, and Kids R Us combined to add another one million square feet of commercial space to the neighborhood. Though not as discount-oriented as Arborland, many of these new stores hope to draw customers away from Briarwood with a promise of better prices for similar goods.

Ann Arbor's north side, from Broadway along Plymouth Road east to Domino's Farms, is the least commercially developed of the city's four peripheral sectors. The small shopping enclaves that do exist are almost entirely devoted to convenience shopping for area residents, with grocery and drug stores the rule and stores offering more durable goods the exception.

The paucity of destination stores is not due to any lack of trying by the developers. The north side has long been seen as fertile land on which to grow a large-scale mall, but strong opposition from neighbors has so far limited growth. Even relatively modest projects like the North Campus Plaza and the just-approved Traverwood development have had to overcome substantial public outcry, as north side residents cling tenaciously to what they perceive as their area's almost rural character. If there is any major future retail development north of the Huron River, it will probably be outside Ann Arbor. The most likely possibility is somewhere east of town along the burgeoning M-14 corridor.

IMAGINE HOW IMPRESSIVE IT IS WHEN FILLED WITH MUSIC.

Music to captivate the imagination and stir the heart. Music to challenge the intellect and quiet the soul.

That is the music the University Musical Society in Ann Arbor has presented for 110 years.

Inspired performances by today's premiere concert artists– Leonard Bernstein and the Vienna Philharmonic, Jessye Norman, Isaac Stern, and Yo-Yo Ma to name a few– enthrall our audiences.

Become a part of the remarkable patronage that captures the superb acoustics of Hill Auditorium.

This year, under the banner "Classic Textures, Brilliant Patterns," the University Musical Society creates a musical tapestry full of the color and vibrancy interwoven throughout the performing arts.

Six series comprised of 43 concerts in four outstanding auditoria– It's all here in Ann Arbor awaiting your presence. Feel the rich fabric of our presentations. Each is an experience in exhilaration.

WE'RE ALL YOURS.

Washtenaw Community College belongs to you. It belongs to all citizens of Washtenaw County. It was local citizens who funded the college when it opened its doors 24 years ago. Now, thanks to growing community support, WCC is as strong as ever, serving some 9,000 students and many local businesses.

WCC is ready to serve you, too. We can help you move upward in your career — or begin a new one.

We can give your employees specialized training, either on-campus or at your place of business.

And we can help you start your first career — or prepare for study at a four year school.

The next time you think about college, think about us. We're all yours.

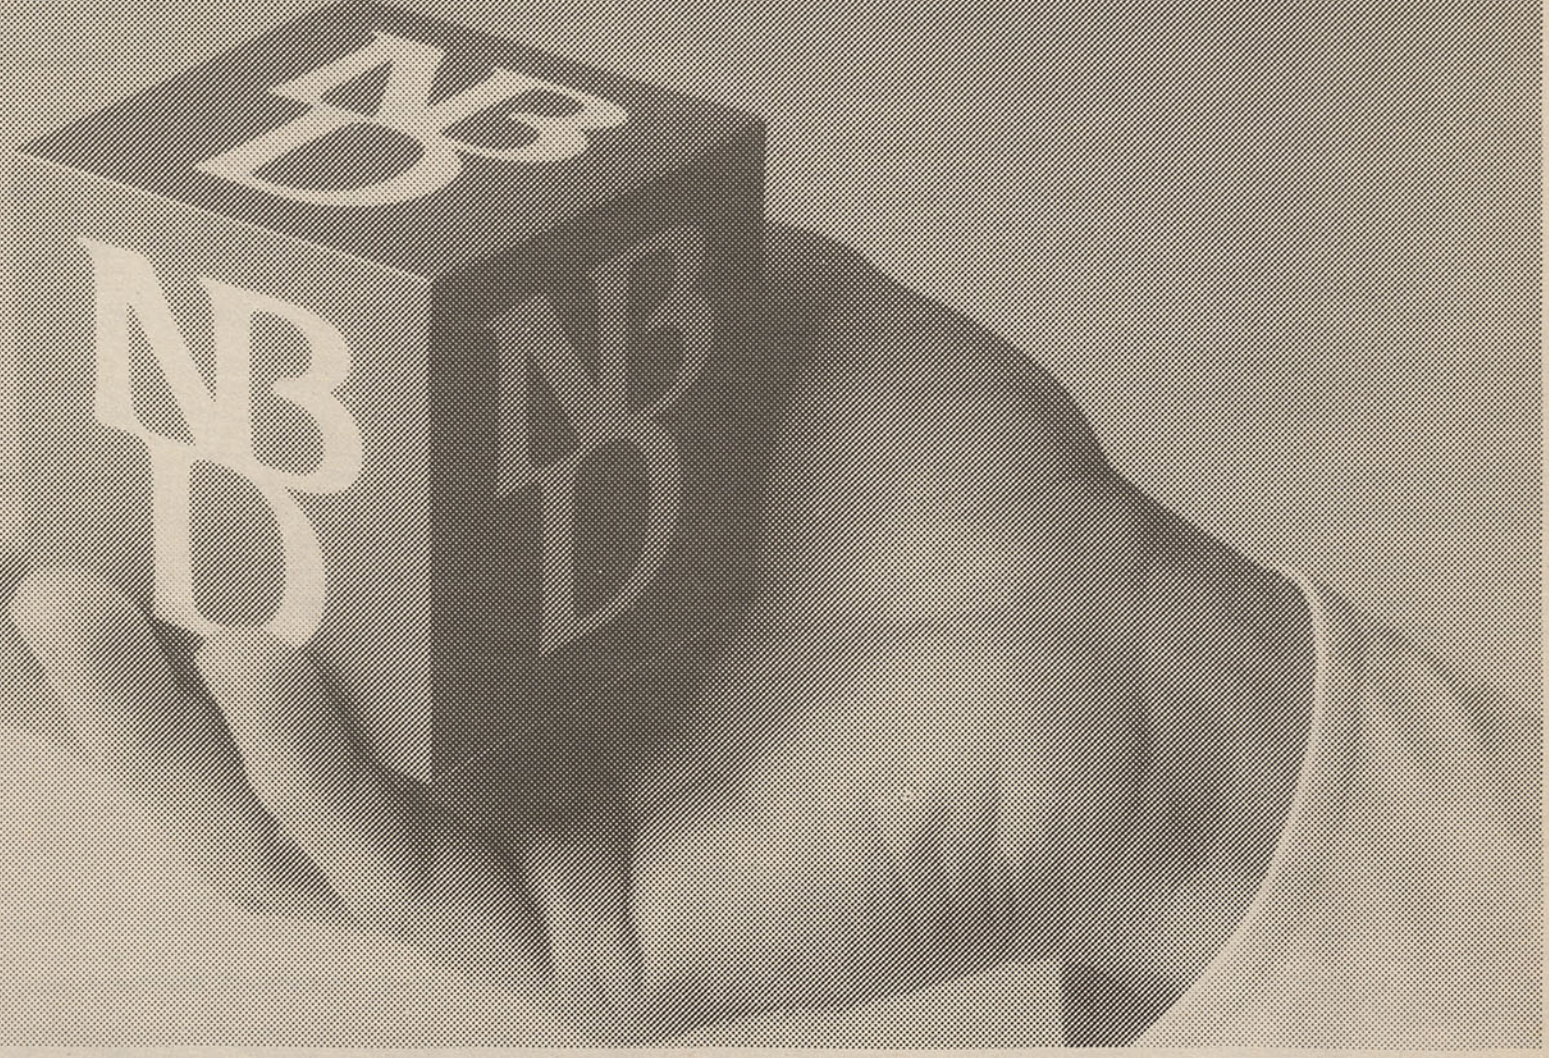
YOU'VE GOT SECURITY AND CONVENIENCE IN THE PALM OF YOUR HAND



SAFETY AND SECURITY

The issue of safety and security is fundamental to all depositors — and it's a prime reason why our customers know that they can depend on us. Keeping pace with our customers' needs, NBD Ann Arbor has the strength, support, and assets backed by one of America's great banks.

Linked together, NBD Ann Arbor serves the Ann Arbor area with the kind of safety, convenience, and diversified services you'd expect to find.

That's us.

CONVENIENCE OF "EXTENDED HOURS"

In response to the ever-changing needs of our customers, NBD Ann Arbor offers extended drive-up hours — six days a week — to make banking easier for you. What's more, you'll find Saturday lobby hours from 9:00 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at our new Briarwood Office, directly across from the J C Penney store at Briarwood. Another convenience is the new drive-up ATM located at the Huron River Drive Office, where customers can bank right from their cars 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Extended Drive-Up Hours
8:30 to 6:00
Monday through Friday and 8:30 to 4:00
on Saturday:

- Westgate Office

Ann Arborites

A selection of interesting or important Ann Arborites. The lists were assembled by identifying seven key categories of people who have a major impact on the life of the city (advocates; developers; government; music, dance, and theater; schools; U-M officials; and visual arts). We asked sources familiar with each area to name the most prominent people in each, then sent questionnaires to those most often mentioned.

Along with basic biographical information, we asked them to tell us their favorite places in the city, what they'd like most to change about it, what they do for fun, and what their secret ambitions are. About 80 percent responded. For a few non-respondents we were able to find information from Who's Who in America and the 1987–1988 City Guide. But we're still missing many prominent individuals, including schools trustee Ellen Offen and Peace Neighborhood Center head Rose Martin. The resulting lists are meant to be informative, but by no means definitive.

Advocates

Amy Louise Coha. B: 8/5/50, Queens. College: MSW, U-M. Job: Associate Director, Domestic Violence Project. Responsible for SAFE House Shelter Program. Fun: Anything outdoors. Change: More understanding and sensitivity to women's issues, especially to the lack of affordable housing for low income women.

Robert Fair Gillett. B: 3/16/49, Cleveland. College: JD, U-M. Job: Director of Legal Services of Southeast Michigan. Family: Dolores Garcia; 2 children.

Barbara Kessler. B: 1/27/51, Alpena, Mich. College: JD, Wayne State. Job: Partner, Kessler & Gear. Activist in Family Law Project. Favorite place: Eberwhite Woods in fall and spring. Ambition: Owning a dinner theater.

Charles A. Kieffer. B: 6/18/52, Lexington, Ky. College: PhD, U-M. Job: Executive Director, SOS Crisis Center. I do whatever it takes to make the place work. Family: Marjorie Ziefert; 3 children. Change: Alter tendency to view human concerns as partisan issues rather than shared community responsibilites. Ambition: To open an all-night ice-cream parlor, coffeehouse, bookstore, and bistro.

Jean Ledwith King. B: 3/16/24, Chicago. College: JD, U-M. Job: Attorney. Advocate for civil liberties and children. Family: John Culver King; 3 children. Change: Exile all developers, reopen Lakewood School. Ambition: Learning to read Greek and buying a large motorcycle.

Patricia L. Krohn. B: 3/9/53, Newburgh, N.Y. College: MSW, U-M. Job: Coordinator of Assault Crisis Center. Family: Family: of friends. A golden retriever named Emma. Change: Renew community activism for social justice. And make the cost of living more accessible so more diverse people could take advantage of what Ann Arbor offers.

James Kenneth Magyar. B: 2/14/48, Flint. College: MA, MSU. Job: Executive Director of the Center for Independent Living. Family: Patricia Magyar; 1 child. Ambition: To sail one time in the Port Huron-Mackinac race.

Frederick Douglass McCuiston, Jr. B: 11/27/41, Wynne, Ark. College: MS and ME, Univ. of Cincinnati. Job: Assistant Staff Engineer, Ford Motor Co. NAACP activist. Family: Norma Pryor McCuiston; 3 children. Favorite place: Bethel A.M.E. Church. Ambition: Invent something very useful and beneficial to man and woman.

CHRISTINE ROSS-CAVANNA

Verna Spayth would reclaim a more relaxed Ann Arbor

Norma Pryor McCuiston. B: 8/29/44, Nashville, Tenn. College: MSW, U-M. Job: Coordinator, Partners for Excellence Program, Ann Arbor Public Schools. NAACP activist. Family: Frederick D. McCuiston, Jr.; 3 children. Ambition: To make a difference in the lives of young Afro-American children.

Susan G. S. McGee. B: 3/15/51, West Hempstead, N.Y. College: U-M. Job: Executive Director, Domestic Violence Project/SAFE House. Family: I live in solitude with my two cats. Fun: Interact with bodies of water (when possible); alternately amuse and torment my friends. Favorite place: The streets of Ann Arbor during the annual Take Back the Night March. Ambition: To personally find a wealthy donor who will give the Domestic Violence Project a million dollars to build a new shelter.

Barbara Ransby. B: 5/12/57, Detroit. College: MA, U-M. Job: PhD candidate in African American History and Teaching Asst. Family: Peter Sporn; 1 child. Change: Make housing more affordable so that a more diverse cross section of people could live here, particularly working class people of color.

Leslie Anne Sackett. B: 6/1/52, Elkhart, Ind. College: MSW, U-M. Job: Assistant Director for Office of Agency and Community Relations, U-M School of Social Work. Activist, Ann Arbor Coalition Against Rape. Favorite place: Maude's. Ambition: To be a dancer.

Verna Helen Spayth. B: 1/17/52, Plymouth, Mich. College: BS, EMU. Job: Coordinator of Advocacy and Information Services at the Ann Arbor Center for Independent Living. My primary focus is the removal of architectural, communication, and attitudinal barriers which prevent people with disabilities from fully participating in their communities. Family: Four nieces and three nephews are wonderfully enough. Change: It seems to me that people in Ann Arbor used to be more relaxed, more comfortable with each other and our diversity. I wish we could change back to that feeling. ►

Julie Steiner, anti-rape advocate and would-be Talking Head

PETER YATES

Julie Ann Steiner. B: 2/6/54, Stamford, Conn. College: BS, Nat. Res., U-M. Job: Coordinator of U-M Sexual Assault Prevention and Awareness Center. Change: Football Saturday. Ambition: To be a member of the Talking Heads.

Jim Toy. B: NYC. College: MSW, U-M. Job: Coordinator of Gay Male Programs, Lesbian-Gay Male Programs Office, U-M. Family: Allied to a significant other. Favorite place: Village Corner. Change: Homophobic values, attitudes, thinking, and behavior. Ambition: To taste all the wines that Robert Parker rates as 100 points out of 100 and to do it for free.

Darlys Vander Beek. B: 12/17/51, Ripon, Calif. College: MA, Communication, California State. Job: Director, Disabled Student Services, U-M. Favorite place: A tie: Stucchi's and the Arboretum. Ambition: To live in a world without "Stairs and Stares"—truly accessible in architecture and attitude.

Catherine A. Zick. B: 9/17/47, Flint. College: MSW, U-M. Job: Executive Director, Shelter Association of Ann Arbor. Ambition: I would love to be independently wealthy (wouldn't we all?) so I could be a philanthropist and do what I'm doing now without any government red tape and without having to spend so much time and money on raising money instead of on serving those in need.

Developers

Warren Avis. B: Bay City. Job: Chairman of the Board, Avis Enterprises. Developer of Avis Farms; owner of 9 businesses and a major shareholder in several others. Family: Yanna Avis. Fun: Water ski, wind surf, jump horses, travel.

ARE YOU A WORKBENCHER AND DON'T KNOW IT?

1 Do you love the clean, functional, simple design of contemporary furniture?

2 Do you insist on fair, competitive prices—leery of furniture that always seems "on sale"?

3 Do you seek out salespeople who know their merchandise, who are trained to help you—not hype you?

4 Do you expect furniture stores to make delivery dates, and keep them?

5 Do you like to shop in a store where you're not just satisfied—you're delighted?

IF YOU'VE ANSWERED, "GOSH, YES!", THEN COME INTO YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD WORKBENCH STORE.

Allan Minor Reid. B: 8/20/43, Annapolis, Md. College: BA, Industrial Design, Pratt Institute. Job: Artist—engraver. I travel a circuit of art fairs, where I sell my work. Family: 2 children. Fun: Daydream, play the banjo, go to Afternoon Delight for lunch. Change: I would move Ann Arbor up to Lake Superior. Then we could have boats.

Irving Baker Remsen. B: 9/17/44, Trenton, N.J. College: BA, Antioch College. Job: Potter: own and run a small studio making and selling handmade ceramics. Family: Marsha Kathleen Pumroy; 1 child. Favorite place: The Old West Side.

Chris Roberts-Antieau. B: 11/18/50, Ann Arbor. College: EMU. First job: Assembly, plastic flower factory. Job now: I make art and sell it nationally to about 40 galleries. Family: Darryl Antieau; 1 child. Favorite place: The Quality Bar.

John Hughbanks Stephenson. B: 10/27/29, Waterloo, Iowa. College: MFA, Cranbrook Academy. Job: Catherine B. Heller Distinguished Professor of Art, U-M. Family: Susanne G. Stephenson; 1 daughter. Fun: Garden, trek, fitness, and yoga. Ambition: I am searching out some significant statement in one of the oldest art mediums, fired clay.

Susanne Groves Stephenson. B: 11/9/35, Canton, Ohio. College: MFA, Cranbrook Academy. Job: Professor of Art, EMU. Teach ceramics. Family: John H. Stephenson; 1 daughter. Ambition: To be able to make a significant contribution to the field of ceramic art; to scuba dive on the Great Barrier Reef.

Laura Strowe. B: 1947, Brooklyn. College: MA, EMU. Job: I make etchings of Ann Arbor scenes, which I sell at art fairs and galleries. Family: Andrew; 1 child. Favorite place: My backyard on a spring day in my hammock.

Graceann Warn. B: 12/20/55, New Jersey. College: Bachelor of Landscape Architecture, MSU. Job: I make mixed media collages, which are sold through galleries throughout the U.S. Favorite place: My parking space! (and the State Street Bookshop).

PETER YATES

The spurious history of the Chenille Sisters

Connie Huber, Grace Morand, and Cheryl Dawdy (l. to r., above) wrote this response to the Observer's questions about the Chenille Sisters for this section. (See the March 1987 Observer for an alternative account.)

Cheryl, Connie, and Grace Chenille. B: We were born one summer night, many years ago, in the back seat of a '54 Chevy during a Three Stooges short at a drive-in movie—actually, that's where we got started too! Parents' occupations: Our father, son of the inventor of the Chenille bedspread, worked in the family business up until his retirement last year. He made famous the company motto: "Chenille; it's not just for breakfast anymore." First job: Our first job was at a local eatery where we would sing, cook, bartend, and wait tables—sort of all at once—it was a very Zen experience. Job now: Actually, we decided on our line of work in order to avoid job titles—besides, "princess" was already taken. There's a lot of waiting in airports, driving in cars, eating bad food, losing sleep, a little singing—the next day it's all different! Family: We are married to our work. Why did you move to AA? We were sent to Ann Arbor by our father's company. It had been rumored through the industry that Ann Arbor had one of the highest concentrations of garage sales in the world. In an attempt to recover lost and forgotten Chenille bedspreads for the Smithsonian exhibit, we hit every garage sale in town. Fun: For fun we cruise (in our car) on Stadium. We get into the Chenille Mobile, roll down the windows, turn up the radio, eat a lot of greasy food and wave at cute guys—it's a lot of fun! Favorite place: As you can tell, our favorite places in Ann Arbor are the A & W and the Dairy Queen. Where do you see yourselves in 10 years? Ten years from today we see ourselves hitting a few garage sales in the morning, cruising Stadium for a few hours, eating some O-rings and waving at our fellow Ann Arborites!

Emergency Help

24-Hour General/ Medical Emergency 911

Police and Fire Departments. 911. Emergency number connects callers to Ann Arbor's police communications center, which has direct phone linkage to the Fire Department and Huron Valley Ambulance service. In emergency, response time for Fire Department rescue trucks, Huron Valley ambulances, and police cars is 4 to 6 minutes. After dialing 911, give dispatcher the name, phone number, and address at which emergency aid is needed. Do not hang up until dispatcher terminates call. Pay phones will respond to 911 without the use of coins.

Huron Valley Ambulance. 994–4111. Response time is 5 minutes after call. Inform dispatcher of patient's location and describe nature of emergency. Ambulance service will contact police and fire departments if necessary.

U-M Hospitals General Emergency. 936–6666. Poison emergency services for adults: 764–7667; for children: 936–8347. Give poison emergency staff the name and phone number of patient and any available information on toxic agent ingested or inhaled, patient's symptoms, and time elapsed. Poison emergency staff will make referrals and follow-up calls if necessary.

St. Joseph Mercy Hospital General Emergency. 572–3000.

U-M Campus Emergency Telephones. There are 65 emergency telephones scattered around the U-M campus. They connect directly to U-M office of public safety, which contacts police, fire, or ambulance services. On-site response within 5 minutes.
